LOCAL BRIEFS

A cow belonging to Fred Mow of Gladstone created no little amusement on Main Street Wednesday. Mr. Mow who was attempting to lead the unruly animal, was about an hour getting it four blocks on the town's principle thoroughfare, to the amusement of a throng of interested spectators.

An engagement of much interest to their many friends in this city is that of Mary Pearl McKenna, of Portland to James Shanard Johns, of Pendleton, the well known athlete. Both were members of the 1912 University of Oregon class.

Busch's Hall received a bad wetting as a result of the recent snow storm. When the snow began to melt, the drain pipes became stopped up and as a result the water leaked down along the walls of the building. Little damage was caused other than to the plaster, which has badly wetted.

Kim, the Chinaman who for many years sold vegetables in this city has returned after three years spent in China. Kim states that he is glad to return to this country even though great changes are taking place in his native land.

Work has been resumed on the paving of lower Main Street. The work was stopped during the heavy snow storm and it is now hoped that it may be completed without any further delays.

J. Levitt has returned to this city after a trip of inspection of the various Barde, Levitt stores. They have stores in Portland, Salem, Oregon City, Corvallis and Hood River.

A fall tonic that makes rich, red blood, brings strength, health and happiness to the whole family. Prevents dangerous Winter diseases. Nothing equal to Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35c. Tea or Tablets. Jones Drug Company.

E. E. Brodie accompanied his wife and Mrs. Nieta Barlow Lawrence to Salem where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Eldridge. Mr. and Mrs. Brodie will return in several days.

Doors will be open at 7 P. M. sharp at Bannan's after supper sale this evening. Some sensational values will be given.

Arthur Miller, of Puyallup, Wash., is in the city as the guest of his brother, J. R. Miller. Mr. Miller was formerly a resident of Oregon City, but for the past 40 years he has lived elsewhere.

Earl Latourette has bought a home at Tenth and Hancock Streets in Portland. After Mr. Latourette's marriage he intends to make this his home.

Miss Anna Dean, of Portland, is spending a few days in Oregon City. Miss Dean is employed in the County Clerk's office.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fortune have returned to this city from Lewiston, Idaho. The Fortunes will make their home at Twelfth and Munroe Streets.

Miss Helen Smith, who collapsed while at work in the L. Adams store last week, has recovered and is now at her work again.

Doors will be open at 7 P. M. sharp at Bannan's after supper sale this evening. Some sensational values will be given.

E. T. Fields is in a very critical condition at his home on Twelfth Street. Mr. Fields has been ill for about two years.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Latourette attended the play "Peter Grimm" presented in Portland Tuesday evening by David Warfield and company. Mr. Latourette says the play was one of the most pathetic he has ever seen and admits that his lachrymal organs were worked overtime.

H. A. Montgomery is in Spokane visiting friends. Mr. Montgomery expects to return to Oregon City in a few days.

Mrs. Katherine Ward Pope, of Portland, was the guest of Mrs. Charles D. Latourette the first of the week.

Lillian Harris, daughter of V. Harris, is now convalescing from her recent attack of typhoid fever.

Joe Harless, of Molalla, who has been spending a few days in this city has returned to his home.

SPUD DEMAND IS SOMEWHAT BETTER

There is a slightly better demand for potatoes, but no improvement is showing in the price. There are fewer arrivals, owing to the bad conditions of the roads, making it almost impossible for many growers to market their stock at this time.

There is no shortage in offerings, but the demand is better because nearby growers are no longer supplying the bulk of the retail trade direct.

A small movement in the potato trade is still showing with California, but the call is not pronounced enough to force any change in the price. In fact, as soon as the roads are good enough for growers to offer their stock generally, the market will again be overfed. This is the reason why buyers are not forced to offer above the former price. Growers are very glad to let go, and the only thing that kept the movement down previously was the lack of demand even at prevailing low prices.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:

- HIDES—(Buying) Green salted, 7c to 8c; sheep pelts 75c to $1.50 each. FEED—(Selling) Shorts, 23c; bran 24c; process barley 27c to 28c per ton. FLOUR—$4.50 to $5. HAY—(Buying) Clover at 39 and 40; oat hay best $11 and 12; mixed $10 to 12; alfalfa $15 to 16.50; Idaho timothy $21 and 22. OATS—$24.50 to 25.50; wheat 85c; oil meal selling $42.00; Shay Brook dairy feed $1.30 per hundred pounds. Whole corn 30c.

SAVE THE FODDER

Although it is too late in the season to consider doing anything with the corn for ensilage purposes we should not overlook the fact that to save the fodder which we have already cut is not only our duty but is very important from the standpoint of having sufficient feed for our livestock during the winter months.

Of the many ways to save the corn crop the use of the silo is perhaps the best, and yet only a few of the farmers in the corn belt have taken advantage of this means of saving the corn crop this season and we should begin right now to investigate the silo problem so that we can erect one next year. The silo not only saves 30 to 40 per cent of the corn's nutrition that would otherwise be lost, but it affords a green and sufficient feed during the winter months.

Crop reports sent out by the government show that the farm value of hay as quoted October 1st, 1911, but yet it is higher by a considerable amount than usual. In other words this indicates that the amount of rough feed available throughout the country is less than normal and for this reason we should put forth extra efforts to save all the fodder and other rough feed we have as it will come in mighty handy before spring. When we consider the increased farm value of hay and the fact that if fodder is left standing in the field from 25 to 40 per cent of its feeding value is lost we will realize how important it is to form our plans now to save this fodder in the best possible shape.

Perhaps you have not done so, but you have seen your neighbors leave the corn fodder in the fields during the winter months and haul it in day after day as it was required. This is bad practice, to say the least, and we hope that no reader of the Service Bureau will be found guilty of this practice this season. Late fall rains coupled with occasional sleet or snow storms not only waste a considerable amount of the fodder but make it extremely difficult to handle if left in the field. Fodder left exposed in this manner loses its feeding value through the loss of protein caused by the action of the elements and by the wasting of leaves due to handling.

The next best practice is to stack the fodder as soon as the corn is picked. It is a good idea to locate the stack somewhere convenient to the feeding rack or on the south side of a grove where the fodder can be fed during the cold winter mornings by scattering it on the ground where the animals will be protected from the cold northwest winds.

This brings us to the subject of shredding fodder, which is the most important and by far the best way of saving a fodder crop. The husker and shredder now in common use cuts the stalks in longitudinal sections,—into small bits which puts it in a much more palatable form. It has been found that live stock will eat much more of the stalk when shredded than when fed whole. The machine used for this purpose will deliver the corn in a husked condition. The cost of shredding varies, of course, in different localities, but figuring the average cost of husking corn and storing it, the expense of shredding is practically the same. Then you will not only get the corn husked and stored but you will have your fodder in a convenient form for storing and feeding. It is a good plan to store the shredded fodder in the hay mow or in some place where it can be covered. If it is impossible for you to do this, stack the shredded fodder close to where you intend to feed it. This will not only save labor, but will reduce losses in handling and hauling the shredded fodder. Another advantage of shredding the fodder which is often overlooked is the convenience in handling the stable manure. It is perhaps unnecessary to call the Corn Belt farmers attention to this fact. Let us plan right now to at least shred our fodder and if possible use a shredder.

TURKEY SUBMITS TO WILL OF POWERS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 22.—Turkey submitted today to the will of the powers. The grand council of the Ottoman Empire, decided in favor of accepting the proposals of Europe for a peace settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies.

As officially announced, the grand council approved the government's point of view, declaring its coincidence in the sentiments of equity voiced by the great powers and expressed the wish to see the promises and proposed assistance effectually realized.

It also asked the government "to exert all its efforts to insure in the future the safety of the country and the development of its economic interests.

The question submitted today by the Turkish government to the grand council was: "Should the recommendations contained in the note of the European powers be accepted or rejected?"

The government frankly confessed itself in favor of agreeing to the suggestion made by the powers.

Horse Drops Dead. A horse, which J. Perry, of Molalla, was driving, dropped dead about three miles from this city Wednesday.

Parsee Burial Customs. A Bombay correspondent, writing of the burial customs of the Parsees, says: "The approach of that transition we call death is a signal for the relatives to leave the presence of the dying one, the priest alone remaining to whisper Zend-Avesta precepts into his ear. He in turn passes out of the room and admits a dog, who is trained to gaze steadily into the face of the dying one. A dog is accounted the only living creature that can terrorize the evil spirits, so the 'sus-did', or 'dog stare,' is the last sight the Parsee has on earth. No human shadow must intervene; otherwise the guardian virtue of the dog's gaze is annulled."

Probability of Life. A man of twenty in good health may expect to live forty years longer; a man of forty, twenty-seven.

Heart to Heart Talks.

IMPROVING THE TIME.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being spent in the effort to find one sixteenth of a second that is missing in the calculations of the world's astronomers.

A special building fitted with apparatus was erected—because in the hour glass of time one small grain of sand was missing!

The fraction must be found. Because the world's longitude is calculated on the sun's time as recorded at Greenwich and Paris and Washington, so that every calculation must account for every atom of time.

If not? If not every meridian line on earth would need to be shifted, every boundary line between countries and states changed and every map of the world made over.

And the movements of the planets would be variant!

Do you see the tremendous import of an instant of time? Time is now! All there is of time or ever will be is comprehended in that now. The past is nothing; the future is not born and never will be. So far as humans are concerned there is absolutely nothing save now.

Therefore: Let us utilize the only thing we have. We cannot turn back the dial, neither make the sun stand still. We cannot measure the value of the time we have lost nor compute the value of that which has not yet come to us.

The present is potential. He who best improves what he has best appreciates its value. Therefore you will find upon the desk of the busy man this motto: "Do It Now."

He is too busy for regrets over the last chance and does not put off until tomorrow the only thing he has in hand.

N-O-W spells opportunity. Today is the day of salvation. Today you have the desire to do. Today you have the strength to perform. Today you have the hope of accomplishment. Today you have the time to succeed.

Do it today. Sufficient unto the day is the evil—and the good—thereof. Yesterday holds nothing but a memory; tomorrow nothing but a promise. Today is the only day.

Do it now!

She Was Really Sorry.

"You say your wife threw a plate at you?"

"Yes; it was a fine china plate. It broke against my head."

"Didn't she appear sorry after she threw it?"

"Yes, she appeared very sorry."

"Ah, indeed. And what did she say?"

"She said she was a fool not to control her temper."

"Good. And what else did she say?"

"She said she didn't believe she could match that plate again if she hunted the town through."—Photo Bits.
