BIG LEAGUE MANAGERS COULD FORM PRETTY FAIR TEAM.

A pretty fair ball team could be made up of managers next season. Stovall of St. Louis might play first base, Evers of Chicago second, Tinker of Cincinnati short, Huggins of St. Louis third, Clarke of Pittsburgh, Birmingham of Cleveland and Stahl of Boston, the outfield. Doolin could catch, and the pitching staff could be selected from Washington and McGraw of New York. Any one who has seen McGraw pitch to the recruits down at Marlin knows that when it comes to twirling he's there.

If it happened it is in the Enterprise.

KEEPING SHREDDED FODDER

W. W. Greiner, Orange, Virginia, writes as follows: "I am using a McCormick husker and shredder this fall, but have no storage rooms for fodder. My plan is to stack it outside, but have been advised that there is great danger of losing it if stacked outside, and I cannot afford to lose it. Can you advise me how to stack it so it will keep? I can neither bale it nor build storage rooms this fall."

Shredded fodder may be kept either outdoors or inside, depending on local conditions. If you have a great deal of wet weather during the fall and winter, much of the shredded fodder will spoil, as is the case with any rough feed stacked outdoors. There will be more waste to the shredded fodder than with the hay because of the fact that it is finer and not as easily handled as hay. In sections of the corn belt the shredded fodder is stacked outdoors, but very seldom is this done excepting where it is impossible to put it under cover. We would suggest that you use some coarse hay to top the stack, and thus prevent some of the loss due to wet weather.

The only danger of stacking shredded fodder or putting in the barn results from the fact that it is shredded when very damp or wet. In no case stand too long, the leaves will break off when curing, also the stems will become more fibrous and coarse, thus decreasing the quality of the hay.

If any machine gave trouble, or is not up to date, you can hardly afford to store it and try to "get along" with it another year. Investigate the new machines advertised, and you will be surprised at the improvements.

See that sheds are in good shape to protect the stock that are in the pasture. The first storms do stock more damage than later ones because they are not accustomed to them.

Havana's Bell Tower.

One of the characteristic landmarks of Havana is a bell tower built into one of the old walls. It is among the most ancient of the existing remains of Spanish builders, and towering above the houses near is a picturesque reminder of olden times, in a city that is rapidly taking on the air of modern civilization.

At the Portland Theaters

Last Car Leaves For Oregon City at Midnight

The applause which followed Ben Hur's hard-earned victory in the three-entry chariot race in the fifth act of "Ben Hur" at the Heilig Theatre Tuesday night was more noisy and tumultuous than the clattering of the horses and the clashing of the snapping of whips and cheering, as the 12 steeds raced to "win" for "place" and to "show."

There is no longer room for doubt as to whether or not the big attraction can be staged at the new Heilig. "Ben Hur" was produced there with splendid effect, and to a capacity audience.

As big a feature as it is the chariot race is not all there is to "Ben Hur." The story itself is one of dramatic interest in its development of the passions of love, hate, and war intrigue, the whole permeated with the indefinable air and influence of the early Christian spirit.

The new Klaw & Erlanger production of "Ben Hur" is big in every particular, and in the casting of parts special attention has been paid to fitting them to players both dramatically and physically qualified to carry them there.

"Ben Hur" will be at the Heilig through Saturday night, with a special price matinee this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the regular matinee Saturday afternoon.

Evening performances begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and no one is seated during the prelude, which offers one of the most beautiful effects of the play.

BOXING IS WORLDWIDE.

Ring Game is Being Taken Up in All Countries.

"Boxing is gaining friends the world over," said Charles Harvey, secretary of the New York state athletic commission. "It was less than ten years ago that the sport was practically confined to America, England and Australia. France then took it up. Now it is making rapid strides in Denmark and Switzerland that those countries, through promoters of the game, are making requests for copies of our rules. They want them to submit to the committee that will decide on the international rules and weights."

That Denmark and Switzerland have boxers of note is made evident in the letter which Paul Rousseau, president of the Federation of French Boxing Clubs, has sent to Harvey. The letter touches on the establishment of international boxing rules and weights, which it is proposed shall govern all bouts in every country.

From the contents of the letter it will be seen that France, Germany, Denmark and Switzerland are more likely to co-operate with America than is England. The Danes and Swis want uniform rules. The weights that rule in this country may be accepted by France, and the other members of the federation, but Englishmen already have begun to protest, through the sporting papers, against any change.

How To Cook

A Husband

A recipe for cooking husband "tender and good." A good many husbands are utterly spoiled by mismanagement. Some women go about it as if their husbands were bladders and blow them up. Others keep them constantly in hot water. Others let them freeze by their carelessness and indifference. Others roast them. Some keep them in pickle all their lives. It cannot be supposed that any good husband will be tender or good managed in this way, but they are really delicious when treated properly. In selecting your husband you should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in mackerel, nor by the golden tint, as if you wanted salmon. Be sure and select him yourself, as tastes differ. Do not go to market for him, as the best are always brought to your door. It is far better to have none unless you will patiently learn how to cook him. A preserving kettle of the finest porcelain is best, but if you have nothing but an earthenware pipkin it will do with care. See that the linen in which you wrap him is nicely washed and mended with the required number of buttons and strings sewed on. Tie him in the kettle with a strong silk cord called comfort, as the one called duty is apt to be weak. They are apt to fly out of the kettle and be burned and crusty on the edges, since, like crabs and lobsters, you have to cook them alive. Make a clear, steady fire, out of love, neatness and cheerfulness. Set him as near this as seems to agree with him. If he sputters and fizzes, do not be anxious. (Some husbands do this until quite done.) Add a little sugar in the form of what the confectioners call kisses; but no vinegar or pepper on any account. A little spice improves them, but it must be used with judgment. Do not stick any sharp instruments into him to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently, watch the white lest he lie too flat and close to the kettle and so become useless. You cannot fail to know when he is done. If thus treated you will find he is done digestible, agreeing nicely with you and the children, and he will keep as long as you want, unless you become careless and set him in too cold a place. —Mrs. A. J. Pirkle, in the Epworth League Cook Book.

CORRESPONDENCE

WILLAMETTE

Daniel Colesom is out after a severe illness. Miss Hazel Boost returned to her home in Portland Thursday after several weeks stay with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Capen.

In spite of the snowstorm there was a large turnout at the Willamette Literary Society Friday evening and a fine program was enjoyed. Dr. Henry van Dykes' home song "America" was sung by the girls and a lively and interesting debate between the boys and girls was held the subject, "Resolved that the Negro has suffered more at the hands of the white man than the Indian. The affirmative was won by the girls, but as a person remarked simply from the fact that they were girls, which is not fair.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rodgers of Portland were Willamette visitors Sunday with Mr. Rodgers parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers, his mother being on the sick list.

Miss Muriel Mollett, of Oregon City, was the guest of Miss Mae Waldron Friday and Saturday.

The funeral of Ferdinand Gross was held at his parents home at 11 o'clock Tuesday. He died in the Oregon City hospital Sunday morning of pneumonia. Mr. Gross was forty-two years old and unmarried leaving a number of brothers and sisters to mourn his loss. He was buried in the cemetery at Stafford. This is the second time in less than a year that death had visited this household.

A daughter, Martha, was laid away amid the spring flowers. The sympathy of this community goes out to the bereaved ones.

Mr. Smith had what might have been a fatal accident Saturday evening, while chasing a calf in the snowstorm. He stumbled against a wire fence cutting his nose and back of his neck severely.

Special services are being held in the Willamette church. The church is warm and well lighted and there is good music, speaking and fellowship. Dr. Milliken spoke Tuesday evening. Dr. Rudd Wednesday evening and Rev. E. A. Smith on the other night.

Miss Ethel Armstrong of Oregon City rendered a sweet solo Tuesday evening.

Prof. John Boland had a birthday recently and his pupils gave him a surprise party at which there were games and music and refreshments. Mr. Boland contributed the amount of his years on this earth to the birthday box at Sunday school.

The Willamette boys and girls enjoyed the big snowstorm if no else did.

TWILIGHT

Twilight is very nearly snow-bound at this writing but we have hopes that the snow will soon melt and let us come out of the house. We have no use for Oregon snow, it has no good qualities. The Oregonians are scared in to their holes and do not come out until the snow has melted and the good old fashioned rain is falling. The damage done by the snow storm is quite noticeable here. The Pacific States telephone line was out in several places and the Twilight line was down in numerous places. The lineman had the use of the road to themselves for several days. A large barn belonging to Lazelle & Son which was filled with straw was

This barn was filled with hay and machinery and the aggregate loss amounted to $600. The peculiar feature of the snow was that it all fell in one night and measured sixteen inches the next morning. This depth is nothing unusual but it seldom falls so fast.

The meeting of the Community club next Saturday evening, promises to be the crowning event of the season. The program is in charge of Secretary Lazelle and he announces some important numbers on the program, among which will be a debate between George Lazelle, J. F. Spigler and J. C. M. Dods, A. H. Harvey, Fred J. Meindl, a prominent attorney of Portland will speak and also S. L. Sasto, county secretary of the Farmers society of Equity. W. A. Dods will tell about profits in poultry while Miss Grace Spigler of dramatic fame from Spokane, Washington, will appear with her own company. Mr. Lewis Robinson, a baritone singer formerly of Portland, will render several selections. The Twilight Community Club is a live one and the meetings are well attended.
