ARTESIAN WELLS In a recent interview Dr. J. W. Norris, County Health Officer, stated that fully eight out of every ten wells in Clackamas County were bad and the water inside of them was not fit for drinking purposes.

In a great many cases the doctor stated the wells were bad simply through carelessness and through utter disregard of sanitary laws. He stated that with proper construction of the wells and means of disposing of the sewage many of the wells would at the present time contain good water. In this regard he urges two types of well construction that should be followed throughout the county.

Of the two types that might be followed, the first one follows more closely the type of well that is now in use. The well dug in the same manner as an ordinary well, and after it is constructed the walls are lined with water-proof cement or some other material that is entirely impervious to water. This lining should be started six inches or a foot above the ground and carried to the bottom of the well. By doing this there will be no danger of surface water seeping into the well through its walls and by carrying the wall above the ground and banking it up no water will run into the well through its top.

The second type that may be followed is that of constructing an ordinary well at the bottom and the walls should be walled up for a distance of several feet at which place a vaulted top should be placed over it with a hole only large enough to allow a pipe to pass out of it. After this is done the space above the vaulted chamber should be filled with soil as nearly impervious to water as obtainable with only the pipe running through it by which the water may be carried to the pump at the surface. In this way both types of wells are free from ordinary surface water. The only water that can get into either one of the above types of wells is through the bottom. Any surface water that may get into them must seep through the thickness of the wall and enter through the ground. Dr. Norris says that the wells should be located on as high ground as possible and as far away from toilets, barns and ground where refuse is thrown as is possible.

MINIMUM WAGE BILL PASSES SENATE

SALEM, Or., Feb. 7.—(Special.)—By unanimous vote the Senate today passed President Malarkey's minimum wage bill and it was passed, accompanied by declarations from many of the members that it is probably one of the most meritorious steps toward constructive legislation that has ever been attempted.

Senator Joseph spoke as representative of one of the greatest departments in the state. He stated that competition has justified the low wages which have been paid; that this condition will be cured by the bill, because he asserted the bill guarantees to the great department stores that all will pay the same wage and competition as to wages will be destroyed.

"If the wages are fixed at $10 it will suit us just as well as though they were fixed at $5," he said. "As long as the same wage is paid in all competing stores it is the trade that must pay and not the store."

"In the store which I represent I can find at least 100 employees who do not earn 50 per cent of the wages which are paid them."

CHECKER TOURNAMENT PLANNED BY CLUB

A checker tournament is being arranged by M. D. Latourette, secretary of the Commercial Club. Several of the members are good players and Mr. Latourette thinks a tournament would be of decided advantage to the club. J. J. Cooke, one of the best players, has offered a $3 pearl-handled knife as first prize. It is probable that other prizes will be offered by public-spirited merchants. The games probably will start week after next. Among the best players are Dr. Anderson, M. A. Magone, C. C. Babcock, F. C. Burk, Thomas E. Fairclough, John B. Fairclough and M. D. Latourette. Checkers being an ancient game has become a bloodless one, and Mr. Cooke offers the knife as a prize not for the winner to get

Bronze Bust of Henry George To Be Given to Many Libraries

BUSTS similar to the above of Henry George, the great single taxer, will be offered to many libraries throughout the country by the Henry George library bureau. The life size bust in bronze was made by Richard F. George, second son of the author of "Progress and Poverty," and was presented to the New York library. The bureau hopes to present copies of it to as many important libraries as possible. The philosopher of the single tax was born in Philadelphia in 1829 and died in 1897, leaving a heritage of good deeds and noble thoughts for the benefit of mankind. Henry George's beliefs have demanded widespread respect, and many will be glad that his memory is being thus perpetuated.

Study After School Harmful

By Professor WILLIAM WIENER, Educator, of Newark, N. J.

THE municipality, the state and the United States have established eight hours as the legal working day for manual workers. I do not think it right or even humane that we should work young boys and girls five hours at school and then set tasks that take many. MANY HOURS AT HOME. If the common eight hour law applies to the adult man for manual labor I cannot comprehend why it should not be enforced in favor of the growing school child.

UNDER PRESENT CONDITIONS OF LESSON ASSIGNMENT THE CONSCIENTIOUS CHILDREN COME FROM PLAY TO THE EVENING MEAL, HURRIEDLY SWALLOW THAT, AND THEN WORK AT BOOKS UNTIL BEDTIME.

In this way not only do they MENACE THEIR HEALTH, but they lose the association with parents and the necessary appreciation of family relations and interests. To this, in my judgment, partly to be attributed the children's rampant DISRESPECT FOR PARENTS AND ELDERS, who cannot understand or know their offspring because of LACK OF ASSOCIATION.
