Lucknow's Great Hall.

Connected with the Mohammedan mosque at Lucknow, India, is the largest room in the world without columns, being 102 feet long, 54 feet wide and 53 feet high. It was built during the great famine in 1874 to supply work for a starving people. It is a solid mass of concrete of simple form and still simpler construction. In its erection a mold or framework of timber and brick several feet in thickness was first made, which was then filled with concrete. The concrete was allowed about a year to set and dry, when the mold was removed. Although the building has been standing so long, it is said to show no signs of decay or deterioration.

A small classified ad will rent that vacant room.

SALMON RUN HAS AN EARLY BEGINNING

Much interest is shown by the trade by the increased run of Chinook salmon in the Columbia. As a rule a good Chinook run forecasts higher temperatures, but instead the mercury has been gradually dropping.

The season is unusually early and it is quite possible that when the spring-summer operations start that packers will have all the fish they can take care of.

For several years the start of the season has been unusually poor along the Columbia; in fact there have been few times during recent years when packers have not been able to take care of everything offered.

Interest in next season's prices on the better varieties of canned salmon has started. There are many conflicting views regarding the outlook, but most of them incline toward prices similar to those quoted during the present season. There is some doubt of the ability to hold Alaska reds up to prevailing prices, recent advices from the East indicating considerable pressure for these goods with prices somewhat shaded for early sale.

Cheap quality canned salmon on the other hand remains firm with orders fully up to the capacity of holders to deliver.
