

FISHING DEADLINE MADE 1600 FEET

SALEM, Or., Feb. 10.—(Special.)—The deadline for commercial fishing below the falls at Oregon City was fixed today by the fish and game commission at 1600 feet below the falls. Anglers with hook and line will be permitted to go within 200 feet of the falls.

This action was taken by the board after Representatives Schuebel and Gill of Clackamas appeared before the board and entered their protests against the 1000 foot deadline. They wanted the line left at 600 feet.

"We would rather have the entire river closed than have the deadline put down to 1600 feet" declared Schuebel.

Two years ago the deadline was placed 1600 feet below the falls, and a suit was brought by Oregon City fishermen to have the ruling declared void, which was done by the court on a technicality. Then the line went back to the 600 foot mark as fixed by the statute.

Representative Gill made his complaint to the committee against Master Fish Warden Clanton's management of the fish hatcheries, describing in particular the alleged conditions of the Bonneville hatchery where he says that 11 concrete ponds were built so poorly that they are now useless.

There is now a bill in the House, presented by Representative Schuebel, to repeal the present law under which the Commission operates. North of the falls of the Willamette, if repealed, it will mean thousands of dollars to the fishermen residents of Clackamas County of which there are about 150 and their families, depending largely upon this industry for their support.

This bill probably will be approved by the Commercial Club as well as by all residents of this district and the law makers requested to give it immediate and favorable consideration.

BILL TO REGULATE LOBBYING PASSES

cept that the county convention scheme has been abandoned.

Some fight resulted over an additional section inserted in the measure which would eliminate any patented process paving company from bidding on road construction. After a bitter war that section was taken out and the bidding left open to any sort of road constructors. The resolution to refer the home rule bill back to the people which was defeated in the House Friday will in all probability be reconsidered by that body tomorrow. At the time of its defeat Eaton of Lane changed his vote to the prevailing side so that he might later move a reconsideration.

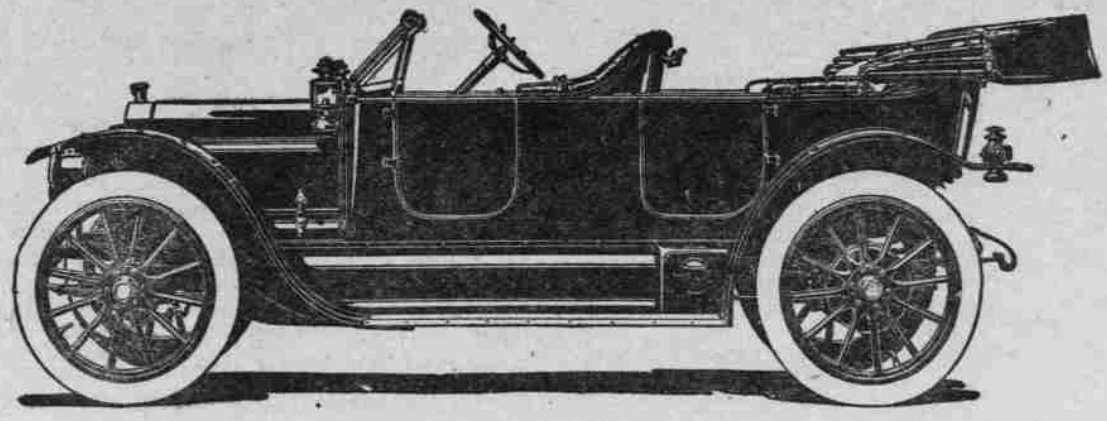

This will probably bring Schuebel into the fight, as he led the "dry faction" in Friday's anti lobbying bill, the chief thing left for the Clackamas County delegation to struggle for in the House are some of the fishing bills. More than half the members of both houses were present at a "Made in Oregon" banquet tonight.

An Uncomfortable C.

Some years ago, says Brander Matthews in the Century Magazine, a friend of Oliver Herford was going to Europe on the Celtic, and the evening before his departure Mr. Herford called him up on the telephone to say goodby.

He asked what ship his friend was going on, and some trap of the perverse prompted the friend to answer that he was sailing on the Celtic. Mr. Herford promptly responded, "Don't say that or you will have a hard C all the way over!"

JOSEPH MURRAY DIES ON RETURNING HOME

Joseph Murray, the son of Pat Murray, died Sunday morning at 5:30 after an illness of tuberculosis. Murray, who had been in Arizona for some time in the hope of improving his health, was not able to recover his strength upon returning to his home and died within twenty-four hours. He was about thirty-five years of age. Funeral arrangements will be not be made until a brother of the deceased, who is in Nevada, is communicated with.

Lord Bacon's Dream.

Lord Bacon, the wisest of mankind, was superstitious and had firm faith in "signs and tokens." When in Paris he dreamed that he saw the family home in England covered with black mortar, and he insisted that it was a sign of death. In due time he received the announcement of the death of his father, who had passed away the night of the dream.
