COURAGE AND CHIVALRY The lines in Missouri of battle had been drawn for a decisive engagement when the members of the Missouri Equal Suffrage League appeared before the Senate Committee on Constitutional Amendments to urge the submission of woman suffrage amendment at the next state election. These committees of the two houses were sitting together at a public hearing in Jefferson City. The ladies had brought up their big guns under an impression that this was to be something more than a skirmish. They regarded it, and correctly, as a preliminary which, if lost, would involve the loss of submission at this session. Their lines were drawn in "battle's magnificently stern array," after an afternoon rehearsal at which their war cries had been found to be in fine working order. Their plan of campaign was adroit, but thoroughly aggressive. It seems to have contemplated an advance along the entire front, under cover of the fire of the heavier artillery. Whatever opposition may have been inside of the committee lines seemed to grow panic stricken at sight of such a formidable demonstration. Before a shot was fired Senator Wilson moved that the senate committee report out the amendment favorably. The motion was unanimously adopted. A few minutes later the House committee struck its flag, there being but one man in its membership opposing a similar recommendation to the House.

The ladies are bewildered by their easy victory. They do not know how to account for it. They were looking for a fight and are perhaps disappointed. Some of them may even have preferred "dying to glory on waves of material sound. The flight of mere man without firing a gun puzzles them sorely. They have thought better things of him, and in enumerating his many faults it has always been their pleasure to credit him with the brute quality of courage. But let them reflect that courage goes always with chivalry, and that, in Missouri, chivalry has first place toward women and courage first place toward men. It might be possible to get a number of men in Borneo or Madagascar to refuse, in the very presence of a number of charming ladies, to give them a chance for a square deal, but never in chivalrous Missouri. Besides, we may say that their campaign was well won on tactical lines. They had proved their right to participation in politics by the masterly manner in which they had played their game. Their adroit avoidance of being put in a false position by the claim that their movement was one for prohibition was as fine as any strategy ever played in Missouri politics, which is saying much. It must have appealed to Missouri politicians who knew the game well enough to appreciate its fine points. And there has been a pressure of public opinion, of which they may have been unaware, in favor of giving a chance to women who know how to manage a campaign not only intelligently but decorously, without the smashing of windows. The action of the two committees means the submission of the amendment, and then—well, then, courage and chivalry will have the fight of the ages.

CLACKAMAS FAIR The trouble that TROUBLE DEPOSED has arisen in the management of the Clackamas County Fair Association is to be deplored. The annual fairs have been of great benefit to the county. Announcement was made at the termination of the last exhibition that the association was about on a paying basis. It is too bad that Clackamas County, one of the greatest counties in the state, cannot have an annual fair that would be of the greatest credit to the county. The president and one of the governors resign because it is charged that Canby seeks too large a representation on the board of governors. The opposition contends that Canby being the place where the fair is held, should have a larger representation than any other part of the county. Admitting that there is room for argument on both sides, the Enterprise insists that for the good of the county an amicable adjustment should be made. Canby has been well favored in being designated as the place where the fair should be held. Shouldn't Canby show a little of the spirit of conciliation at a time when the association faces disruption? We sincerely urge upon Canby to make the first overtures.

Twin Deer and Their Mother, Born in Captivity in America

TWIN always arouse interest. If Johnny and Jimmie are born as like as two peas in a pod all the good mothers in the neighborhood get nearly daffy with curiosity. So you can't in the east name the folks who earn a living amusing others at the New York Hippodrome for being very proud of the twin deer born there last October. The picture shows just how they look now with their mother, one of sixteen Scotch Highland deer brought to this country. It is said to be one of the few times twin deer were ever born in captivity in this country. The little animals are like all twins, just "the sweetest things ever."

Early Mince Pies. Mince pies were known as early as 1550, and they are said to be derived from the paste, minces and sweetmeats given to the fathers of the Vatican at Rome on Christmas eve. They were far more formidable, these old time mince pies, than mince pies are now, consisting of "meats" tongues, chicken, raisins, lemon, sugar and orange peel, with various kinds of spicery." Pepys, the diarist, writes of Christmas, 1696: "Lay pretty long in bed and then rose, leaving my wife desirous to sleep, having sat up till 4 this morning seeing her maids make mince pies."

Average American Ignores Appeal of Poverty

THE average American citizen does not take the interest he should in the question of THE ELIMINATION OF POVERTY, because our poor classes are different in race and color from the most of us. In the north the poor classes are composed of the recent immigrants who have not yet been able to make a living or who have failed to succeed in the new country, and in the south they are our negro brethren.

OBVIOUSLY WE SHALL NOT PUT AN END TO POVERTY BY LEGISLATION. MUCH LEGISLATION IS NECESSARY, BUT NO CHANGE IN TAXATION OR IN THE DEGREE OR METHOD OF STATE CONTROL CAN EVER GO WHOLLY TO THE ROOT OF THE TROUBLE.

What I propose is, first, that in this campaign against poverty we should TAKE COMPLETE POSSESSION OF THE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS. The universities and colleges are already, to some extent, in our camp. There is little difference of opinion upon this subject among economists, sociologists and philosophers. I maintain, second, that this cause must RECAPTURE THE CHURCHES. If there is any one touchstone of true religion, any one winnowing fan by which religious men are to be separated from irreligious and skeptical men, it is that which the Hebrew prophets and the Christian fathers so constantly insisted upon—namely, our attitude, both of SYMPATHY AND OF ACTION, TOWARD HUMAN DISTRESS AND OPPRESSION.

EGGS SELL FOR 19 CENTS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Fresh eggs are selling in Chicago today for 19 cents, a figure lower than that for any time in 20 years at this season. Storage eggs were quoted at from 12 to 13 cents wholesale. Most of these were stored last summer, costing at that time 15 to 17 cents.
