ELEVATOR SHOULD BE THE PEOPLE ERECTED AT ONCE of Oregon City at the last election voted for the erection of an elevator at the bluff. The council was instructed by the people to build an elevator. The people will pay for the elevator. They said so with their votes. Any number of them have asked the Enterprise why the council does not get busy and build the elevator. They say the councilmen are their servants, that they have been given definite instructions and yet they see no chance of getting what they have asked and what they are willing to pay for. In this, however, they are partly wrong for the council committee which has the matter in charge is doing its best to facilitate the building of the lift. It is trying to get the lowest bids as well as learn just where and how the elevator should be built. Oregon City has been a long time without an elevator, and when it gets one, it will never in future have to do without it. A mistake by the council might affect the future generations. So far as the Enterprise knows the council committee is doing its best. It won't be long until the residents of the city will be yelling, "Going Up!" "Going Down!"

FALSE CHARGE OF SOME OF THE PARTISANSHIP New York Democrat papers are saying that in the naval demonstration in the Hudson the president "played politics". This is where they are unwise. Their accusation will call the country's attention anew to the obstructive attitude of the Democratic House in the recent session in its dealing with naval affairs. Instead of two or three war vessels of the first class, that chamber declared against them at this time. The protests by the majority at last forced the Democratic majority to compromise, and to allow one vessel to be built.

In a review of the American Navy in the country's chief seaport, where does the partisanship come in? It seems that in a talk to the naval officers and others at a banquet at the time of the review the president expressed his regret that there had been an interruption in the naval construction program and a disregard shown for the recommendations of the head of the Navy Department and of the leading officers of the service. It is this remark necessarily partisan? No mention of Democratic opposition was made by the president. In no part of his talk did he say a word about the Democratic party or any of the Democratic leaders in the House. Yet this is what the Democrats call "playing politics."

This Democratic "touchiness" on the naval question is the sensitiveness of guilt. The Democrats are well aware that the navy, as the country knows it today, is the creation of Republican Congresses and presidents. In nearly every step in the development of our present sea fighting force the Republicans have been compelled to combat and defeat Democratic hostility. Back in the days of President Arthur the foundation of the present navy was laid. In most of the divisions on the question of naval construction from that day to this the majority of Democrats in Congress have fought naval improvement. Had the Democratic party been in the ascendant in the presidency and in Congress constantly for the past third of a century, the United States would be down in the list of nations in fighting power on the sea to the level of Spain or Turkey in 1912.

CONTEST VOTE SHOWS CANDIDATES WORK

The last count of the votes of the contestants for the big Howard touring car shows that each contestant has his "hat in the ring" and that each one is working hard to land the big prize. The pleasant weather of the past few days has had a tendency to spur some entrants to even harder work, with the result that there have been several changes in the standing of the contestants. No. 30 still holds his place at the top of the list, with No. 2 as usual, running a close second. No. 32 made a phenomenal jump in the last two weeks—and now is well toward the high man.

The Duke de Talleyrand and His Son, the Prince de Sagan

Copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.

VISITING nobility always seems to interest us Americans, especially when our guests are as democratic as ourselves. The arrival of the Duke and Duchess de Talleyrand and their three and a half-year-old son, Prince de Sagan, was therefore accorded much notice. They came over from France for a flying two weeks visit to attend the wedding of Miss Helen M. Gould, sister of the duchess, who was formerly Anna Gould and whose marital experiences attracted wide attention. The duke, with his son in his arms, posed good naturedly for his picture, his shown above. His wife being an American, he said he had a warm spot in his breast for this country and would see that the prince visited us again when he was older.

LITTLE GIRL FALLS ON STOVE; MAY DIE

Because she was playing too near the fire the little daughter of Mrs. J. B. Hasbrook was terribly burned at her home on Seventh Street in this city about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The little girl fell upon the stove and before her mother could come to the child's aid the little one was fearfully burned on her arms, hands and face. Dr. C. H. Meissner was summoned and dressed the burns and the girl will be taken to the Oregon City hospital Wednesday morning. Mrs. Hasbrook has four other small children and is on the verge of prostration, due to the accident. Her husband is employed in Washington in a logging camp. The child may die.

Suffered For His Chickens.

In London as far back as 1791 a city ordinance was passed to suppress the early morning cries of the street hawkers. This law was so severe that a person arrested twice for the same offense could be imprisoned for ten years. There is one record of a man lingering in prison for ten years. When his time was up he was asked what his crime was. "For selling chickens that squawked," was the reply. "In the confusion of the trial the fact was not brought out that the chickens and not the man were responsible for the din that aroused the wrath of the disturbed citizens."

An Exception.

Bobbs—Do you believe the office ever seeks the man? Slobbs—The tax office always does.—Philadelphia Record.

Destiny of the Stuarts.

The figures "88" play a weird part in the rise and fall of the Stuarts. James III, was killed in flight near Banockburn in 1488. Mary Stuart was beheaded in 1588. James II, of England was dethroned in 1688. Charles Edward died in 1788 and James Stuart, the "Old Pretender," was born in 1888, the very year that his father abdicated.

INDOOR TRAP SHOOTING.

Championships to Be Held in New York Feb. 27 to March 5. The annual sportsman's show will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, from Feb. 27 to March 5. The trap shooting tournament will be conducted by Luther J. Squier of Pittsburg. Besides the regular contest, there will be various special and team shoots and another intercity competition between Philadelphia and New York. The individual winners will include the world's record makers and among them Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Minn.

American Woman Is Now Slave to Dress

By IDA M. TARBELL, Author and Lecturer

WHAT IT ALL AMOUNTS TO IS THAT THE INSTINCT FOR ORNAMENT HAS GOTTEN THE UPPER HAND OF THE GREAT BODY OF AMERICAN WOMEN. WE HAVE FAILED SO FAR TO DEVELOP STANDARDS OF TASTE, FITNESS AND QUALITY, STRONG, SURE AND GOOD ENOUGH EFFECTUALLY TO IMPOSE THEMSELVES.

There is NO NATIONAL TASTE IN DRESS. There is only admirable skill in adapting fashions made in other countries. There is no national sense of restraint and proportion. There is NO NATIONAL SENSE OF EQUALITY. Even the rich today in this country wear imitation laces.

The effect of this is a bewildering restlessness in costume. The peach basket hat, hobble skirt, slippers in the street, is a case in point. From every side this is bad, defeating its own purpose, CORRUPTING NATIONAL TASTE AND WASTING NATIONAL SUBSTANCE.

The very heart of the question of clothes of the American woman is IMITATION. We are not engaged in an effort to work out individuality in dress.

This habit of buying poor imitations does not end in a girl's life with her clothes. When she marries she CARRIES IT INTO HER HOME. Cheap decoration, not real furnishing, is the keynote of all she touches. Has all this no relation to the national prosperity—to the cost of living? This production of shoddy cloth, cotton laces, cheap furniture—what is it but WASTE? WASTE OF LABOR AND MATERIAL.

TIME AND MONEY AND STRENGTH MIGHT HAVE BEEN TURNED TO PRODUCING THINGS OF PERMANENT VALUE.

Boost your city by boosting your daily paper. The Enterprise should be in every home.
