Persia's Turquoise Mines. By far the largest part of the world's turquoise comes from the mines neat the Persian city of Nishapur, where Omar Khayyam was born and lies burof mountains rising to the height of 6,655 feet. The highest point at which turquoises have been found is 5,800 feet above sea level and the lowest 4.800 feet. The geologic formation of the Nishapur mountains is porphyries, greeustone, limestone and sandstone, the turquoise being found in veins in the rock. The methods of the Persians who operate the mines is quite antiquated, for only ladders and pulleys are used in the rough shafts.
