MISS HELEN SMITH ALMOST ELECTROCUTED

It was only by lucky chance that Miss Helen Smith, of Canemah escaped death Thursday evening when she was on her way home from Oregon City. It has been the custom of Miss Smith to turn on the electric light on the Canemah walk near the Southern Pacific tracks every evening Thursday afternoon as she was walking with her mother, Mrs. Peter Smith, and Mrs. Charles Spencer about 7:30 o'clock she reached up to turn on the light, but did not notice that the rubber foot from the switch was broken and instead she took hold of the metallic switch. She was instantly thrown to the ground, senseless. As she lay upon the ground, all appearances dead, her companions worked valiantly to revive her. Mrs. Clark Gannon rushed to the aid of Miss Smith, and after twenty minutes of hard work, the unfortunate girl was restored to consciousness and removed to her home.

SHAW TRAPS MEN THOUGHT FORGERS

C. F. Whitman, a hardware merchant of Woodburn, Friday identified W. M. Allen, of Molalla, and C. G. Kerr, as men who had passed fraudulent checks on him. He said that he had been victimized by the men last Saturday. Mr. Whitman also announced that one of the men had passed a check for $25 on W. H. Broyles, a butcher of Woodburn. Chief of Police Shaw who arrested the men is convinced that they have been offering worthless checks in various cities in Oregon. He has learned that checks were cashed by them not only in Woodburn, but in Mount Angel. But for the activity of Shaw it is believed that the men would now be in another city trying to get money for worthless paper. Mr. Whitman said Friday that he would prosecute them to the limit.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

MARTYRS OF SCIENCE

The other day Dr. Paulin Mery, former deputy for Paris, died as the result of an operation at the age of fifty-three.

The operation was on his right hand because of injuries received during X ray experiments. Despite injuries and warnings he had kept on with his work. He died a martyr to science.

A short time earlier Dr. Simon, director of the Radiographic institute of Geneva, lost his left hand for the same cause, while his partner, Dr. Leroyer, had sacrificed two fingers. Both are going forward with their experiments.

Late in January Sir George Turner, afflicted with leprosy as a result of his heroic work for the lepers of South Africa, announced that he was going back to devote his life to a battle with the dread disease.

At about the same time Dr. Friedmann laid his famous tuberculosis cure before the chief of the German public health department and invited the severest tests. This cure has long been a mystery. Others claimed to have discovered the secret, one from a former employee of Dr. Friedmann, another from a culture taken from a Friedmann patient. It was to give the public the real cure that Dr. Friedmann took this radical step, though to do so he handed to the world the results of long years of patient research and skill.

It is thus that men give themselves for the health of their fellows.

There is infinite hope for an age in which such men thus give life and lull or the fruits of a life's work for the good of mankind. There is no complaint, rather a cheerful and matter of fact surrender of their all that others may live.

To be worthy to live in a time that produces these and countless other martyrs to science it is necessary that we do something.

It is a high standard they set before us. But surely we are good enough sports to accept the challenge.

We, too, will serve mankind, each in his own way, in an attempt to play in the high game of this second decade of the twentieth century.

We may not be martyrs to science or martyrs to anything else, but we, too, can help on the world's progress.

BUTTER FAMINE SEEMS IMMINENT

The scarcity of fresh creamery butter is the most pronounced known to date this season. Not only are city creameries reporting a shortage in the make, but outside makers say they are not receiving sufficient cream for their own requirements, therefore cannot ship anything to the city.

This condition is true of practically every section of the Pacific Northwest at this time, therefore none of the districts are able to help out the others. Butter is so high in the East and even in California, that it would not be profitable to bring in any material supply from the outside market at present.

The butter trade must, therefore, worry along with about half of its requirements. While the present strength of the market would speak for a further advance in the price, creamery interests, as a rule, are not inclined to look with favor upon any change in quotations. Any change at this time would be an advance, and this is not desired, as the price of butter is already at the extreme mark where the general consumption is possible.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows: (Buying) Green salted, 7c to 8c; sheep pelts 75c to $1.50 each. FEED—(Selling) Shorts $25; bran $24; process barley $27 to $29 per ton. CANEMAH GIVES UP STREET R. R.

The railroad company will make the improvements as soon as the necessary papers are drawn up. J. E. Hedges represented the residents of Canemah, Franklin Griffith and F. C. Hunt were among the representatives of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. The railroad company also will give Canemah a 20 cent fare to Portland with the same privileges as are enjoyed by Oregon City. This change will take place March 4.

GERMANY WANTS EELS CAUGHT HERE

If Oregon City advertises the fact that she has plenty of eels, the town may develop a profitable industry. At least this is the opinion of the German Council for the Northwest, who reside in Seattle. The Portland Commercial Club recently received a letter from this man, who stated that he had heard of the eels at the Falls of the Willamette and that he desired to learn something about them, as he said they were considered a delicacy in Germany and that every year large numbers were shipped to the United States in cans. He stated that if they could be got in large numbers in this country there would be no need of shipping them from Germany and that a profitable business might be worked up here. In reply to his letter the Portland Commercial Club stated that eels could be found at Oregon City by the millions, but that they were not considered fit for food.

This may be so, but the fact remains that for a great many years the Indians ate them and considered them a delicacy. Last year there were more than 60 tons of eels taken off the rocks and cooked by the government and used as food for small salmon in the hatcheries.

SCORES ARE KILLED IN HOTEL BLAZE

OMAHA, Feb. 28.—A house full of guests—perhaps 25, perhaps 100—were burned to death here this morning in a fire which destroyed the Dewey Hotel, a second-class hostelry. So swift and terrible was the march of the flames that it went insane from fright.

It is known that at least 50 persons were registered at the hotel and the night clerk, who escaped narrowly with his own life, declared there were probably 20 other persons in the hotel who were not registered. Only four bodies were recovered before the flames drove the firemen from the building.

Watchmen, policemen and others in the vicinity of the hotel declare that not to exceed a dozen persons escaped from the burning structure, which was entirely wrapped in flames when the first companies reached the scene.

So suddenly did the flames reach every part of the building that few of those asleep had time to reach windows and none was able to get to the fire escape.

The cause of the fire has not been determined. It started in the rear of the building but had gained great headway before it was discovered.

The lower floor of the building was occupied by the Raphael-Pred Clothing Company, the Miller Liquor Company and the Adams Express Company. The stock of all these companies is entirely destroyed. The known dead are:

Mrs. Alice Bonnevie, Charles Cummings, jumped from third story, breaking his neck. — Beverly, waiter.

Text: 'HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS SENT HOME FOR PRANK About 15 High school students were sent home Friday as a result of a too free celebration of "stocking day". For several years the boys of the school have celebrated the day by wearing the "loudest" stockings to be obtained at the local stores. They roll their trousers up several inches above the tops of their shoes in order to show their hosiery. No attention has been paid by the professors heretofore to the prank of the boys, but Friday about 10 of the boys appeared wearing not only variegated hose, but also overalls, and to cap the climax several of the girls wore long aprons that attracted much attention. Principal Pfingsten decided that the joke had gone too far and sent the offenders home with instructions not to return to school until today. Superintendent of Schools Toole is thinking seriously of having "stocking day" eliminated.'
