March 4 In American History. 1789-The United States constitution went into effect. At the meeting of congress there was not a quorum, and no business could be transacted. The government was without an executive head. 1853-Alexander H. Stephens, vice president of the Confederate States of America, died; born 1812. 1888-Amos Bronson Alcott, noted New England poet and philosopher, died; born 1799. 1909-Inauguration of William Howard Taft, twenty-seventh president of the United States.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS. (From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 5:54, rises 6:29. Evening stars: Mercury, Venus, Saturn. Morning stars: Jupiter, Mars.

WILSON BECOMES PRESIDENT TODAY son, a native of Virginia, former head of Princeton University, and, until recently Governor of the great state of New Jersey, becomes President of the United States today. Mr. Wilson is a Democrat. He is a son of a Presbyterian minister, who ministered to his flock well.

Mr. Wilson is erudite, he has a good mind, and his acts heretofore indicate that he is honest and patriotic. We believe that he will make a fine President of the greatest republic the world has ever known. It is well for the country that a Democratic administration is occasionally chosen. It causes the party that ruled so long before to sit up and take notice. Checks and balances are necessary even in government, and we know of no country that has a better system of checks and balances than the United States. The Enterprise is a Republican paper and believes in the Republican Party, but just because the Democrats happen to be in power for the present the paper does not believe the country is going to smash. Such talk is all bosh. It would be a reflection upon our people to say that a Democrat could not be as good a patriot as a Republican. We are all of one country and almost all of the family. Give Wilson a chance. If he does not make good the people will replace him with a Republican. We hope this is done at the next election, but because we happen to disagree with a man politically, is no reason we should malign and condemn him. Wilson should be given every opportunity to make good and we believe this broad, patriotic country will do so. Before lower Main Street is accepted by the city, the city engineer and the Street Committee of the council should make a thorough investigation of the drainage of the street as there has been much fault found with this feature of the new hard surface, the street being flat the water does not drain readily. Much trouble has been caused on the hard surfaced streets in such flat towns as Eugene and Albany and these cities have been put to much expense on this account. Oregon City should look into this matter at once and force the contractors to change lower Main Street so that the water will at least partly drain off.

AUTOMOBILES. "If asked on what stretch of roadway or pavement the large number of automobiles were driven in a year, the average person would unhesitatingly name Fifth Avenue, in New York City, or perhaps one of the ocean drives near Los Angeles, Cal., or again, some street in Detroit, where a majority of motor cars of the United States are built. But they would be wrong," says Vice-President G. W. Bennett, of the Willys-Overland Co., of Toledo, Ohio, who claims the record for his home city and plant. It is the contention of Mr. Bennett that more automobiles running under their own power pass over the short roadway leading into the quadrangle formed by the 16 big buildings of the Overland plant each day than over any other thoroughfare in the world. And he quotes figures to prove his assertion.

The Overland plant is turning out approximately 150 cars a day," says Mr. Bennett, "though sometimes this number is larger. The motor of each of these cars is placed in a testing chassis and given two thorough tests before it is passed by the inspectors. This necessitates four trips for each of these 150 cars over the road in question every day, or a total of 600 trips. Then each of the completed cars is given a road test, adding 300 to the number passing, both ways over the road. Later these finished cars are driven out to the loading platforms, adding 150 more to the total. And at the very lowest figure, 150 delivery and office cars and trucks pass both ways every day. This makes a grand total of 1350 cars every eight-hour working day, or an average of about 165 per hour or almost three a minute. We believe this is a record." The Oregon City part of the large business and progressive concern is handled by the Miller-Parke Company who handle a large stock of Overland cars.

WILSON BECOMES PRESIDENT TODAY

(Continued from Page 1) of patriotic color as viewed from the hill. Smiling in the glow of a kind-day and bowing to the plaudits of the people, the former president of Princeton University, who rose through the Governorship of New Jersey to the highest office in the land, looked happy. Within less than two hours after his arrival, Mr. Wilson for the first time in his life crossed the threshold of the White House and grasped the hand of William Howard Taft, President of the United States for a few hours longer. With Mrs. Wilson, the President-elect, was escorted to the home which will be theirs tomorrow, by Colonel Spence Cosby. The President and Mrs. Taft extended cordial greeting and the keys to the home of Presidents.

Made For Concealment. Stick insects, which are so called because of their resemblance to dry sticks, have two forelegs, which they fold over their eyes when disturbed and evidently think that in so doing they are lost to view. The eggs of these insects take over six months to hatch. They are only one-tenth of an inch in their widest part, yet an insect which at hatching is three-quarters of an inch in length is packed into them. The stick insects destroy the weavings by eating their legs.

Cheeky. "Cheek" in the sense of impudence is an old term. The earliest quotation in Sir James Murray's dictionary is from Captain Marryat (1840). But it has lately been found in the sixteenth century records of Galway, in the west of Ireland. The municipal rulers of that fighting city—the "man from Galway" has become proverbial for luck and readiness to defend the hottest of corners—decided that any person giving "cheek" to the mayor should "forfeit 100 shillings and have his body put into prison."

The Hawkeye Bill Turtle. The tortoise shell taken from the hawk's bill turtle, which is found in Bahama waters, is the finest in the world and realizes the highest prices when offered for sale in the European market. The green turtles are also found in these waters and are frequently shipped alive to the United States for food consumption, chiefly for soups.

A Pathetic Benefit. Perhaps one of the saddest of the many benefits which have been celebrated at Drury Lane was that given on June 27, 1828, for Grimaldi, the greatest clown the stage has known, when the heartbroken old man was wheeled on to the stage in an arm-chair and hopelessly broke down in his endeavor to sing his once famous ditty, "Hot Collins." The old man's memory had completely forsaken him. On that occasion a sum of £1,700 was realized, which for many years remained a record.—St. James' Gazette.

Women and War. Emotions of the women who remain at home during a war were expressed in an odd fashion in Madrid during the struggle with the United States in the Spanish-American war. The war had never been popular with the people, who saw no reason why blood should be shed for colonies from which only the rich derived benefits. When news of the defeats of the Spanish reached Madrid groups of women used to gather round the statue of Columbus in the Puerta de Sol and hurl opprobrious epithets at him for his folly in having discovered America. And once they even tried to drag Columbus from his pedestal.

The Modern Medium. Modern Girl—If you really loved me all the time, why didn't you let me know? Modern Youth—I couldn't find a post card with the right words on it—Judge.

MAKING IT EASIER. All things are possible to him who believes; they are less difficult to him that hopes; they are much more easy to him who loves, and they are still more easy to him who perseveres in the practice of these three virtues.

Gold Loving Cup Presented to Chairman William F. McCombs

It was a pleasant event in the career of William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, when he was presented with a solid gold loving cup in New York by fellow members of the committee and others who worked successfully for the election of Woodrow Wilson. Mr. McCombs is in the center of the picture, with Norman E. Mack, whom he succeeded as chairman, on the left with his hand on the cup. Mr. Mack made the presentation speech. The cup is valued at $1,500. The inscription on it reads: "Presented to the Hon. William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, by his associates in the campaign and members of the national committee in commemoration of the Wilson and Marshall victory of 1912." At the left of Mr. McCombs is Henry Morgenthau, the New York banker who is chairman of the finance committee.

Heart to Heart Talks

TELL OTHERS. When you want to boost a friend don't tell him how good he is; tell others—Washington Post. That is fine—a sermon in a sentence. Your telling him may give him self confidence and may give him a swelled head. It stands about the same chance of doing harm as good. But there is no mixed or doubtful result about telling it to others. That can only result in doing him good. Each of us can remember men who have been started upward by that sort of boosting. Some one drops an incidental remark: "Hello! There's young Brown. He's making good." Just a mental seed sown, but it takes root and grows. A few days later Brown's name is mentioned in the presence of one who heard this remark. The associated ideas work, and he replies: "Yes, I hear good reports of him." That seed also falls in fertile ground. Meanwhile the friend is not idle. By a chance sentence here and there he sings Brown's praises. If wise and tactful he is careful not to overdo it. In a short time there is a whole harvest of good thoughts and words about young Mr. Brown. By and by some employer wants a man for an important place. "What about this young fellow Brown?" he muses. "I have heard him well spoken of." He investigates, and if he finds nothing of moment against the man all these words in his favor have weight. Result—Brown receives the offer of the important place. Then it is up to him. If he makes good the world is before him. He got his chance because a friend spoke of his good points—to others. That method of boosting, or something very like it, has been used more than any of us probably imagine. Nor has it been set in motion as the result of collusion. It came about simply and naturally because one man believed in another and wanted to help him on. If you would boost your friend, praise him—to others.

Eugenics Would Bring Race of Small People With Big Heads

By Professor E. F. WARD of Brown University

THE positive eugenists desire to improve the race by CAREFUL SELECTION of those called upon to perpetuate it. This is undoubtedly an attractive conception, but the control of heredity is possible only to a master creature. Man is such a master creature to the lower animals, but there is no such master over men. INTELLIGENT, NORMAL HUMAN BEINGS ARE THEIR OWN MASTERS. A LAW ATTEMPTING TO REGULATE THE MATING OF HUMAN BEINGS WOULD BE A WORSE TYRANNY THAN ALL THE SUMPTUARY LAWS OF THE MIDDLE AGES EVER DREAMED OF. Even basing this system on the spread of right ideas on heredity and selection, its effects must be small. People who are attracted to one another are not likely to inquire whether or not they can MAIN-TAIN THE STANDARD OF THE RACE. We must depend on nature for these things. Nature has ways of maintaining the standard of the race or even improving it that the eugenists never dream of. Social and artificial restraints on natural selection bring about race degeneracy and social decadence. The eugenists, if they succeeded in their plans, would PRODUCE A RACE OF HYDROCEPHALOUS PYGMIES. They think they know better than nature, but they emphasize ONLY THE INTELLECTUAL TRAITS. THEY WOULD INCREASE THE SIZE OF THE HEAD AT THE EXPENSE OF THE REST OF THE BODY.
