EXODUS FROM THE SENATE. The ephemeral nature of politics was never better exemplified than in the present passing of seventeen members from the senate. The political reaper has done its work with little regard for party faith or legislative achievement. Progressives and "popular choice" men like Jonathan Bourne, Jr., take their leave with old line Republicans like Murray Crane. Relatively new members depart with Senator Cullom, of Illinois, the oldest man in years and service in the upper branch of congress. Obadiah Gardner, of Maine, Democrat of the progressive type, is swept out of office with Thomas H. Paynter, conservative Democrat.

What is it in the character of man that makes him a success in politics? It isn't faithfulness to the cause of all the people or diligent work on behalf of his own community. It isn't good looks or good management. As a matter of fact, the answer lies not in the personality or achievements of the men themselves, but in the mood or even the whim of the public. It is the element of doubt and mystery in

Chance Showing Right Spirit as Leader of Yanks. HE INTENDS TO PLAY FIRST

New Manager of New York Americans Working Hard to Get Into Condition. An Chase Hold Down Second Base in Big League Style? BY TOMMY CLARK. Frank Chance, the new manager of the New York Americans, does not propose to allow any grass to grow under his feet. He is displaying the proper spirit since he took charge of the team, and instead of waiting a couple of weeks before starting for Bermuda the peerless leader was at the training camp two weeks before his players.

Chance wanted to get in condition before his players arrived. He figures Every man in the list was a diligent public servant. Every man fought cleanly and on the level. All tried to serve their country loyally and their own states diligently. They will go out of office with the consciousness of having done their duty honestly and intelligently.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

OREGON CITY, March 11.—(Editor of the Enterprise.)—When your estimable paper came to hand Tuesday morning, and the writer turned to its columns with his usual zest, one article nearly gave him a fit. The patron demon of the composing room surely got his malevolent work in earnest when he placed a certain good church lady in the rival column to the Lord's Day picture show and the Sunday pool room. Please make it emphatically understood that Mrs. Oglesby, teacher in the Baptist Bible School, held her class social on Saturday, and not on Sunday as the paper yesterday morning announced. Please make the correction and relieve the minds of all the good friends who have been in deep sorrow and vexation because of their fear that the Baptists had backslidden. The party was held Saturday and not Sunday. W. T. MILLIKEN.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Snapped On Visit to Monte Carlo

THE news of the sudden illness of J. Pierpont Morgan, foremost financial figure of the country, while in Cairo, Egypt, was so distressing when it first reached this country that his death was reported. The truth was quickly known, however, when it was announced that Mr. Morgan was suffering from indigestion and was in no danger. His son-in-law Herbert L. Satterlee, however, thought it advisable to sail at once for Egypt to be at the financier's side. This picture of the banker was taken at Monte Carlo when Mr. Morgan stopped off at the tavern on his way to the land of the Pharaohs. He is on the left talking to a friend.

If you drink because of a craving for stimulants—if you've reached the stage where nothing will satisfy excepting rough high-proof, strong whiskey—our story is not for you. But if it's mellowness, age and flavor you're looking for—you'll like Cyrus Noble. Because it's pure—because it's palatable—because you don't have to dilute it with water to be able to swallow it. It costs no more than any other good whiskey. W. J. Van Schuyver & Co., General Agents, Portland, Oregon.

"HE THREW MUSH IN MY FACE," SAYS WIFE AT METHODIST REVIVAL

Alleging that her husband humiliated her by throwing dishes of potatoes and mush in her face and also choked her, Ida R. Spires, through Attorneys Cross & Hammond, filed suit Tuesday for a divorce from Ed. W. T. Spires. They were married in Battle Ground, Wash., October 18, 1893, and have eight children. They lived at Albany, Or., for several years and their home is now at Logan, Clackamas County. The plaintiff avers that several months ago her husband kicked her, breaking two ribs, and that she was under the care of a physician for several weeks. She says he frequently choked her.

A large audience was present at the revival services in the Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday evening. Dr. W. T. Milliken preached a forceful sermon which was listened to with the closest attention. The interest in the meetings is growing with every service, and Dr. Ford is much encouraged. The influence of the meetings is being felt among people outside the churches, and men who have not been attending any church regularly are attending the revival. Rev. J. R. Landsborough will preach this evening at the revival service, and the members of the Presbyterian Church have been invited to attend in a body, and many of them have expressed their intention to attend. The Baptist Church was largely represented Tuesday night, and the members entered heartily into the services. The Rev. Mr. Dunn, pastor of the Gladstone Christian Church, and the Revs. Wiewiesiek and Clack were present.

BREAK THAT HEAVY COLD

For the cold that settles all over you—the heavy cold that makes your muscles stiff and painful, makes your head ache, and makes you generally uncomfortable and sick all over—use Rexall Cold Tablets. They are specially designed for heavy colds. We firmly believe them to be the most effective remedy for colds obtainable, because they tend to quickly break up the cold, and help to dispel the pain, and clear the head and lungs, and to restore comfort and ease. We fully expect that this will be your pleasant experience with them. We should be very much surprised if it was not, and should feel your case exceptional. Our confidence in Rexall Cold Tablets is so great that we invite you to try them entirely at our risk, promising you that if they do not give you the relief and comfort you expect—if they do not satisfy you in every way—the money you paid for them will be given back to you as soon as you ask for it. Price, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1. Sold in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store—Huntley Bros. Co.

How Much of a Gambler Is the Business Man? By J. J. GLENNON, Archbishop of St. Louis

BESIDES the ordinary form of gambling which we all denounce, there is another form of gambling to which we pay but little attention—that is, GAMBLING IN BUSINESS.

IT IS DIFFICULT to DETERMINE JUST HOW GREAT A GAMBLER THE BUSINESS MAN IS, BUT THERE IS MUCH OF THE GAMBLER'S TRAIT IN SOME BUSINESS.

Take the stock market. Dealing in futures is undoubtedly based upon a foundation of chance. This means an element of gambling, and the entire operation seems a gambling process.

Whether the form of gambling constitutes anything sinful or immoral or just how far this gambling can proceed before it becomes sinful, theologians are not certain.

It is probable that where there is NO FORTUNE AT STAKE or where the process does not mean ruin to some one there is no wrong.

Gambling is not the only occupation of the professional gambler. I am not certain that there is such a thing as the professional gambler, but we are led to believe so, and most probably there is.

Of late there is much discussion over Hal Chase's ability to play second base for the New Yorks the coming season, but the consensus of opinion among Gotham experts is that if he does he will be the greatest left handed second baseman in the American league. Time only can tell whether Chase can play the bag or not. There have been few left handed infielders in the history of baseball, and for this reason there are those who doubt Chase's ability to play second base for the New Yorks. Back in the early days Philadelphia had a second baseman named Greenwood who threw left handed. He managed to hold his own, but was not a real star. Hick Carpenter helped Cincinnati with the only pennant the Reds ever copied, in 1882, and he played third base, though he was left handed. Carpenter was a steady proposition, but he was not a star. Chase is by far a much better player than any of those mentioned, and, while he may be handicapped at second because he throws left handed, yet he stands a chance to make good. What changes have been wrought in the great Cub machine of two years ago! Frank Chance now is manager of the New York Americans. Tinker and Brown are Cincinnati Reds. Steinfeldt is gone, Jim Doyle has crossed over to the range, Artie Hofman is a Pirate, Jack Pfeister is in the minors, and Kling is out of baseball.
