organism. This is particularly true in the case of baby's coughs and colds, in which we advise the use of ReXall Cough Syrup. Exceedingly pleasant to taste, it helps to reduce inflammation and irritation, allay fever lubricate the air passages, and make it easier for the little sufferer to raise the phlegm—in fact, to bring complete and prompt relief and comfort. If ReXall Baby Cough Syrup does not in every way satisfy you—if it is not the best remedy for coughs and colds that you have ever given baby—we want you to tell us so and get back the money you paid for it. ReXall Baby Cough Syrup positively contains nothing harmful. It is wise to have a bottle of it always on hand to provide for an emergency. Price, 25 cents. Sold in this community only at our store—The ReXall Store—Huntley Bros. Co. ***

Suggestive in Questions Sunday School Lessons

(40) One enthusiastic student of Suggestive Questions, which we are publishing in these columns every week, referring to the questions puts it this way, "They are asked in a way they are calculated to lead to the right conclusion or solution of the problem. They are fresh and unique in their putting. They cannot fail to be helpful to all who read them. I heartily commend your paper for its enterprise in publishing them."

Your Questions Answered

If you would like to have answered any particular question each or any week from "The Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson" by Rev. Dr. Lincoln, send in your request to this office giving the date of the lesson and the number of the question you wish answered. You may select any question except the one indicated that it may be answered in writing by members of the club. Dr. Lincoln will answer the questions either in these columns or by mail through this office. Don't forget to state what benefit these "Suggestive Questions" are to you. Give your full name and address. Send your letters to the Question Editor of the Morning Enterprise.

NOTICES
Summons.
In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clackamas.
G. B. M. Sommerville, Plaintiff, vs. Dona A. Sommerville, Defendant. To Dora A. Sommerville, Defendant above named.
In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed herein against you, in the above entitled Court and cause, within six weeks from the 17th day of March, 1913, said date being the first day of publication of this summons.
If you fail to so appear or answer, for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in the complaint filed herein, to-wit:
For a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now and heretofore existing between the above named plaintiff and defendant, and granting unto the plaintiff an absolute divorce from the defendant, and for such other and further relief as may seem just and equitable in the premises.
This summons is served upon you by virtue of an order made and entered by Hon. J. U. Campbell, Judge of the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clackamas, dated on the 28th day of January, 1913, and which order prescribes that summons in this suit should be served upon you by publication once a week, for six consecutive and successive weeks in the Morning Enterprise, a newspaper of general circulation in the County of Clackamas, State of Oregon.
Date of last publication, Feb. 2, '13.
Date of last publication, March 15, '13.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Sun sets 6:07, rises 6:10. Evening stars: Mercury, Venus, Saturn. Morning stars: Jupiter, Mars. Palm Sunday.

EARLY SIGNS Mr. Wilson has given of a CHANGE in a broader interpretation of his first order excluding office seekers from his office except upon his personal invitation than the public was at first disposed to put upon it. Startling as it seemed even when understood to mean only the exclusion of office seekers themselves, it becomes positively revolutionary when seen to mean, that the President is not to be approached by Senators or Representatives in seeking to urge office seekers' claims. But that was the understanding of its meaning and purpose which the President left in the minds of Senators Bryan and Fletcher of Florida, who had called at the White House to urge appointment of a district judge and a district attorney in the Southern district of their state. They were informed by the President in person that they must make their recommendations to the attorney general. The dispatches report that this was done "courteously." No doubt it was. There is not the slightest reason for supposing that the President ever does anything discourteously. But this sort of courtesy is not of "the courtesy of the Senate." The courtesy of the Senate has become traditional for the manner of its enforcement, by all senators, against any infringement of senatorial powers, or dignities, by any co-ordinate branch of government. A senator must be presumed to know that under the established forms and ceremonies all papers to be filed in support of an applicant to office in any department must be filed with the head of that department. To decree that senators may not be heard by the president, when they appear at the White House, to urge the claims of their chosen candidates, is to strike a blow at senatorial prestige which will make grave and reverend members of that exalted body gasp in rage and astonishment. What! Are not the ambassadors of sovereign states at Washington to be heard as representatives of their respective governments touching affairs connected with the relations of those governments to the one over which the president is called to preside? Are senators to be denied a hearing when they tender counsel to the president concerning his duty as to an emergency office? Or is the president to set up his own idea of what may constitute an emergency office, in any sovereign state, without the advice and consent of the senators of that state? The Florida senators did not take their candidates to the White House with them. They had conceded the right of the president to draw the line at the actual and visible presence. But they were doubtless unprepared for the announcement that they themselves could not be heard in support of the claims of their friends.

We are rather inclined to the belief that this innovation will meet the approval of public opinion. But there need be no doubt as to what effect it will have upon the Senate. And there need be none as to the depressing effect it will have upon the myriad Democrats who have been hoping that Mr. Wilson may suspend the Taft order extending the protection of the civil service law to fourth-class postmasters. This action shows the new president to be a man absolutely without policy, as politicians understand the word. Plainly, he has marked out this line of action, and he will hew to it straight, let the chips fall where they may. We are on the edge of new and startling things at Washington, and the public mind, always eager for a change, and which voted for a change only last year, will not be disappointed. There are large and spacious days ahead.

A Quick Retort.
Tennessee bred two great orators in the olden days—Andrew Johnson, a Democrat, once president of the United States, and Gustavus A. Henry, a Whig, known as the "Eagle Orator of the South." They ran against each other for governor, and when a long series of joint debates had reached its close Johnson addressed the Whigs in the audience. "I have spoken with the boasted eagle-orator from the Mississippi river to the Unksa mountains, and as yet I see no flesh in his talons nor blood on his beak." Quick as a flash Henry was on his feet, saying, "The American eagle is a proud bird and feeds not on carrion."

Golf Links.
The orthodox number of eighteen holes, it seems, was fixed by pure chance. There were originally twenty-two holes on St. Andrews links, and so it continued till 1764, when the first four holes were converted into two. Thenceforward every full course has been laid out to correspond with the aim number.—London Saturday Review.

He Knew His Sister.
Since the engagement of his pretty sister her small brother had been puzzling his head to understand what it meant. "Why," exclaimed his mother, "Mr. Skaggs has asked sister to marry him. That means that he'll take care of her."
"By her things?" asked the boy.
"Hats and dinners and ice cream and everything?" he persisted.
"Yes," was the answer.
The boy thought it all over for a moment, and then he said:
"Well, that man's got lots of courage, hasn't he?"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Cast Off The Old Put On The New

By John P. Fallon
Only a few days more to Easter Sunday. Don't put off buying your Easter suit a moment longer.
Have you ever stopped to think how the custom of wearing new things at Easter came about?
Some thought of it may be found in the Resurrection, the world reborn, casting aside its old clothes and taking on new apparel and new ideas. It is the close of winter and Mother Earth dons a new suit of green in honor of the Springtime.
So, in order to be as well dressed as Mother Earth, we must have new hats, new suits, new shoes, new gloves and new things of all kinds. They must be just right in texture, in cut, in color and contrast. They must be of the right quality and right price.
The merchants of Oregon City have been preparing for Easter and Springtime ever since the first snowfall. They are well prepared. Read their advertisements in THE MORNING ENTERPRISE closely and constantly every morning and keep well informed regarding all the new things. Then you will be able to purchase your Springtime apparel at the right store and the right price.

Protect All Workers From Industrial Accidents

By Dr. W. F. WILLOUGHBY, Professor of Political Science at Princeton University
HERE IS CRYING NEED OF GENERAL LEGISLATION REQUIRING CARELESS EMPLOYERS TO INSTALL SAFETY DEVICES AND MACHINERY TO CARRY OFF DANGEROUS DUST AND FUMES IN THEIR FACTORIES.
Illinois is the only state in the Union that has proper labor legislation at present. The logical thing would be to have workmen's compensation and insurance against INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS AND OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES as well. There are, however, many obstacles in the way of that.
In the first place, there is a general APATHY OF THE PUBLIC which can be and is being overcome by educational propaganda. Then there is the interested opposition to such legislation by some PHYSICIANS who, thriving on large practice among workers in such dangerous occupations, so far forget their social obligations as to oppose the enactment of preventive or remedial legislation to shield the workers.
In the third place, there is the OPPOSITION OF MANUFACTURERS, who fear that if they go to the expense of providing defensive machinery and methods in their factories competitors less humane than they will be able to undercut them in the price of their product and thus undersell them
