IN CAMP By M. QUAD Copyright, 1913, by Associated Lit-

THE DOCTOR

You may wonder how the miners got long without a doctor in camp, and there are indeed times enough when the services of a skillful physician were in demand. That winter we put in at Calico Flats there was somebody on the sick list all the time, and there were days when we had three or four patients in the hospital at once. As to medicines, our mainstay was a hot sweat. When a man began to dump around we didn't lose time by feeling his pulse or looking at his tongue. Three or four stones were put into the fire to heat, blankets borrowed for the occasion, and when we got steam on the knots and twists and kinks in that chap's case had to unravel. He'd come out as long and flat and thin and white as you please, and if any one pointed a finger at him for the next week he'd cry like a baby. Next to the sweat we had decoctions of herbs, barks and roots. But, as I said at the start, sickness became so prevalent and our plain remedies had so little effect that it was finally decided to send up to Sacramento for a doctor. The idea was to have him come down and brace us all up and leave medicines and remedies, and the expense was to be borne by a shake purse

"You see," said Judge Perdue as we talked the matter over, "we don't want a doctor that we may brag over the other camps. We want one because we are sick in the old fashioned way." "That's it!" chorused half a dozen

Plans have been completed for the voices. "We want the old fashioned sickness that we used to enjoy so much at We want a doctor that will come in and say we are goin' to die for sure and then turn to and cure us. There were four men in hospital that day, and after a bit the doctor entered to take a look at them. It happened that he came to big Jim Smith first. Smith was threatened with inflammatory rheumatism and was in no mood to take nonsense. "Run out your tongue," said the doctor as he bent over the man.

Big Jim displayed it, but in such a begrudging way that it was plain to concert to be given Friday evening see that be thought it all bosh, at the First Baptist Church in this "Your pulse," said the doctor

"Your pulse," said the doctor, as he reached over for Jim's great paw. "Pulse? I ain't got any!" growled

"Yes, in a measure."

> "Excfise my not callin' you a liar, but some of the boys will do it for me afore you are an hour older!" "What are your symptoms?" asked the doctor. "Never had any." "But how do you feel?"

"Sick." "How were you taken?" "Stranger, what are you drivin' at?" emanded Jim as he sat up in bed.

"Have you got pains?" "In course I have. D'ye s'pose I'd be lyin' flat on my back here if anything less'n a ton was holdin' me down?"

"Do you ache?" "Rayther."

"Any fever?"

"Waal, I git away with a quart of cold water at a gulp."

The doctor sat and studied the case for a few minutes, and then he came over to the shanty where the committee had assembled and said:

"Gentlemen, the case of Big Jim is a serious one. He needs a change of diet, scenery and air. My advice is that you brace him up as well as you can on chicken soup and beef tea and then send him off for a trip to Cuba."

When he was going out he said he would drop in next morning and have a look at the other cases, but he never had the chance.

When the boys found that he had come without even a dose of quinine and they heard him talk about chicken soup and trips to Cuba for a man who hadn't $5 to his name they waited upon him in a sort of hilarious body, and at midnight he went up the trail at the rate of twelve miles an hour. with a crowd behind him aching for his ears as relies. Next day we heated half a ton of rocks, took six or eight blankets and gave Big Jim such a sweat that all his toe nails shed off, and rather than be cured the same way the other men got well. "I did have some faith in the chap." exclaimed Jim. "jest a lttle bit, until he axed my symptoms. That floored me. The idea of sendin' 200 miles for a doctor to walk in on ye and not be able to tell symptoms from the all firedest backache a man ever had, topped off with chills gallopin' up and down the spine wall! I'm only sorry that you moved the procession on him afore I was able to head it."
