HONOR OFFERED CLACKAMAS MAN

PRESIDENCY OF NORMAL SCHOOL
AWAITS T. J. GARY IF HE WILL GO TO PORTLAND

RECORD AS EDUCATOR IS UNIQUE

County School Superintendent Considering Acceptance of Place
At Head of New Institution in City

T. J. Gary, county school superintendent, and one of the most successful and well known educators of the state, has been offered the presidency of a normal school that is soon to be established in Portland, and is at present considering the opportunity for advancement thus accorded him. The salary of the new position, it is understood, is greatly in excess of that which Mr. Gary is at present drawing; but whether he will accept the proffered place or not, Mr. Gary has not decided.

For the past 18 or 20 years Mr. Gary has been a figure of prominence in Oregon educational circles, and in work devoted to the upbuilding of the state and the constructive use of its resources. He is now serving his second elective term as county school superintendent, his first term closing after he had already served once as an appointee. Before entering upon his duties for the county here, Mr. Gary was principal of the Milwaukie school, and also served in similar capacity at the Willamette and West Oregon City schools.

Mr. Gary is also well known as a former secretary of the Willamette Valley stock association, and as an ardent worker and booster for the Clackamas County fair. In fact, during the entire time that he has spent in the state he has been identified with development work of the most progressive and helpful variety. As (Continued on Page 4.)

FISHING STORY; WITHOUT NAMES

FOUR BUSINESS MEN NEGLECT TO PROCURE LICENSES TO CATCH WILY SALMON

CONFISCATION OF GAME FOLLOWS

Official Looking Personage Is Now Being Eagerly Sought By Members of Party, who Suspect
Bunco Game

There really ought to be names in this story, but the people concerned say that if their names are printed there will be murder committed, so in the interests of peace and safety the names are left out. The facts are as follows:

Tuesday four prominent business men of Oregon City went fishing. They went to a place where they knew they could catch good fish, and in course of time, they managed to land two excellent salmon. Then they continued fishing.

While they were continuing, an official looking person rowed down stream in a boat, and coming opposite the anglers, pulled ashore and looked over their catch.

"Got a license," he asked.

The four men promptly showed their licenses.

The official looking person rubbed his hand over his chin. "I don't see any salmon license among your papers," he drawled.

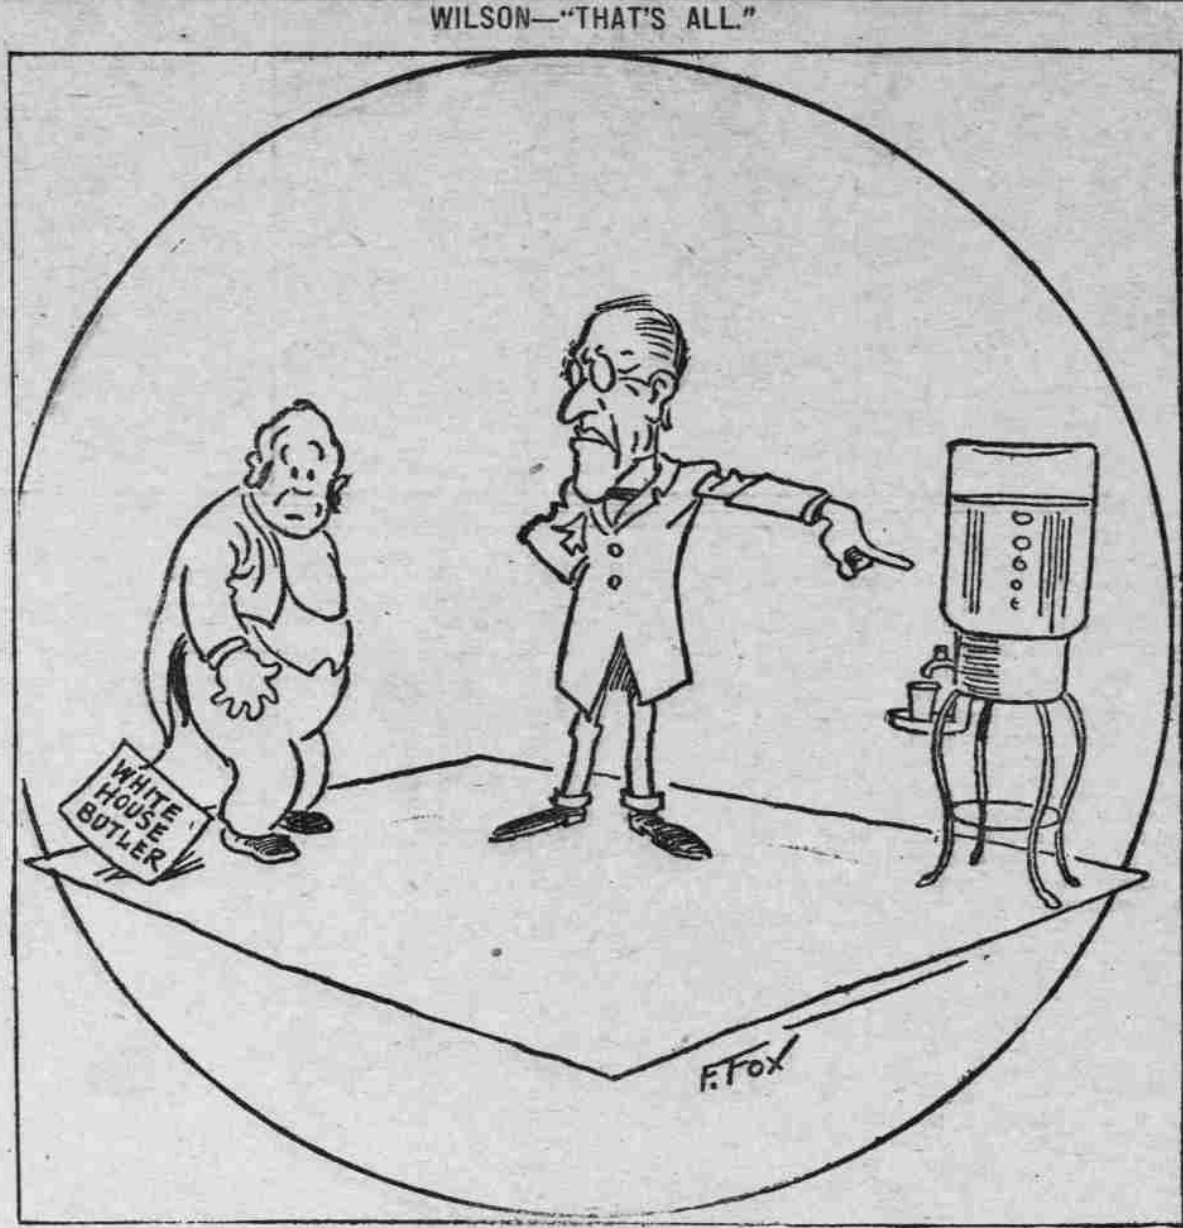

The four business men looked crestfallen, and said they didn't know that a special salmon license was necessary. The official looking person frowned, and then smiled leniently.

"Well, it's this way," he said. "Since you haven't got any salmon license, I ought by rights to take you up. But if you'll give me the salmon, I'll overlook it this time."

The four business men gave him the two salmon, and likewise four cigars. The stranger rowed slowly away, shaking his head as if he hated to do it.

Later the four business men returned to town, and told of the incident, and then they were informed that there was no such thing as a salmon license, and that they had been bunked out of two perfectly good fish.

There may be a sequel to this when the four business men meet the official looking personage again.

COUNTY RANKING SHOWS PROGRESS

CLACKAMAS WELL IN LEAD AS
AS PRODUCER OF AGRICUL-TURAL PRODUCTS—FRUIT

FIGURES SHOW TREMENDOUS YIELD

Rich Soil and Remarkable Climate
Give Best Conditions for Raising Assorted Variety of Crops

Clackamas county has reason to be proud of itself. Not only has it 3,646 farms, with an average of 82.6 acres in each, but these farms are in a high state of cultivation, and are yielding crops that place the county in the front rank of the agricultural districts of the state. Figures compiled by O. E. Freytag, publicity manager of the Oregon City Commercial club, show that the county has attained an enviable position as a producer in the state. In the last number of Oregon City Publicity, the club's booster booklet, the achievements of the local agriculturists are set forth as follows:

Clackamas County ranks 4th in the production of fruit. The reason Clackamas County is not in the lead is because some of the oldest orchards are in this County. Some have been neglected on account of old age and are not so profitable, but in the near future these old trees will be removed and then more and better fruit will be grown. Clackamas County ranks 4th in apples, 7th in peaches and nectarines, 4th in pears, 4th in plums and prunes, 2nd in cherries, 8th in apricots, 1st in quince, 1st in grapes, 1st in strawberries, 4th in raspberries and loganberries, 3rd in blackberries and dewberries and 5th in walnuts.

Clackamas County ranks 17th in area, 4th in population, 31st in wheat, 4th in oats, 24th in barley, 16th in rye, 1st in potatoes, 5th in hops, 14th in hay, 1st in clover.

The condition of the soil and climate favor the production of abundant crops of grain, hay, root crops and vegetables, which supply green feed throughout the year. The most important of these crops, from a standpoint of economy and as well as milk and butter fat producing qualities is the thousand headed kale. It is naturally adapted to this section and yields 25 tons per acre and over. The farmer is independent of the silo.

WILLAMETTE CLUB DANCE PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

The third dance given by the Willamette club was one of the most successful club gatherings in this city for several years. About 40 couples attended. The delightful strains of Olson's orchestra leased all the dancers. During the evening the large balcony overlooking the river proved popular.

One of the features of the evening was the beautiful dresses worn by the women. Last night's dance will probably conclude the Willamette club dances for this spring.

PORTLAND LOSES GAME TO ANGLES

In the second game played on the home grounds this year, Portland lost to Los Angeles Wednesday by the score of 3 to 1. The defeat was largely due to the blowing up of Higginbotham, the Portland pitcher, who allowed the Angels to get three runs from him in the fourth inning, when he blew up entirely, and was replaced by Krapp. In the fifth the Beavers got their only score, when Rogers got in from third on a fly by Derrick.

The Angels did their scoring largely on wild pitches by Higginbotham, who tried to stop men from stealing bases or from dashing home. His throwing was amateurish, and the Los Angeles boys played tag about him. Check pitched a good game for the visitors, holding the Beavers down to eight hits, averaging less than one an inning.

TURNOW KILLS TWO GAY DECORATION WILL BE FEATURE

SHELTON, Wn., April 16.—(Special)—John Turnow, the bandit of the Wynoochee, for whom sheriff's posses have searched for years, and who was finally given up as dead in the wilds of the Olympia Peninsula, killed his fifth and six-man today when he shot Louis Blair and Charles Lathrop, two young trappers of Shelton, who came across the "beast man" in the wilds back of the upper sound.

Deputy Sheriff Quimby, of Chehalis county, who was hunting down late traces of the bandit, came upon the wild man at close quarters, and fired seven times at him. Turnow returned the fire, drove the deputy off, and then turned his rifle with fatal effect, upon the two trappers, who came to the sheriff's aid.

Turnow was located in the Oxbow country, where he had appropriated an abandoned cabin at a logging camp. The trappers, both of whom were 35 years of age, were riddled with bullets from outlaw's rifle. After killing them and frightening away the deputy, the bandit disappeared into the mountain fastnesses.

A large posse of men has already started up Olympia and Tacoma to take up the trail.

To reach the country where he was found, Turnow has crossed the Olympic Peninsula from the Grays Harbor country, where he dropped from sight two years ago.

TEMPTING BARGAINS WITH DISPLAY

Efforts to be Made to Bring Farmers and Merchants into Closer Touch, So That Trade May be Bettered

So much interest is being taken in the annual stock show and Booster Day to be held here next week that it is suggested by the Commercial club that all merchants in the city decorate their stores for the event, and give the main streets a thoroughly festive appearance. There will be hundreds of visitors in the city, and if holiday attire is everywhere in evidence it is believed that the affair will be a greater success than otherwise.

It is also suggested that during the two days of the annual stock show that merchants advertise all special bargains, for farmers will be in town the surrounding country, and it will be a good time to offer them the wares of the city. Even if those who are in the city at the time do not purchase from the tempting displays, they will at least take word to their home communities, it is believed, of the bargains that may be procured here, and in this way trade will be built up.

The stock show, which will be held on April 25 and 26, is aimed to accomplish two things—display to visitors the excellence of the animals raised in the county, and also to furnish stockmen and ranchers a chance to interchange and buy pedigreed livestock, so as to improve their own herds. The display barns will be the center of activity in this line, and it is expected that as a result much improvement in local foundation stock will result. Those interested in finding better stock will be able to satisfy their desires at the barns.

It is planned to make this year's stock show and Booster Day co-operative in as many ways as possible. Particularly is it the desire of Commercial club members that the farmers and the city merchants be brought in closer touch with each other, and that they learn how to best meet each other's needs. The local men realize that when the farmer is prosperous and satisfied, his happy condition is reflected in the prosperity and satisfaction of the city merchants and those dependent upon them.

Merchants generally approve of the plan to decorate in this line, and it is expected that as a result much improvement in local foundation stock will result. Those interested in finding better stock will be able to satisfy their desires at the barns.

TRIP HALF COMPLETED

News has been received from Edward F. Bruns, a rancher of this district now in Washington, D. C., that he will return shortly by way of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston, traveling thence over the northern route to his home. Mr. Bruns has just completed a tour of Mexico, and while in the southern republic witnessed many stirring scenes of the late revolution.

KENT MOODY WINNER OF ORATION AWARD
Through a typographical error the Enterprise stated Wednesday morning that "Kent Meachy" had submitted the oration on "The Philippine Question," that had won the prize offered by the oratorical committee. The oration, a summary of which was printed in this paper, was prepared and delivered by Kent Moody, a student of the eighth grade in the Barclay school. In making this correction The Enterprise desires to take occasion to compliment Master Moody upon the excellence of his work.
