BLAME IS PASSED IN SCHOOL TANGLE

(Continued from Page 1.) from him prior to the date set for the competition. "On April 12, the day of the Oratorical contest, the judges met in Mr. Gary's office and awarded the prizes to Elva Lintin and Kent Moody, of Oregon City, the only two qualified entries. It appears that Mr. Ford and his competitors were at Gladstone, the place where the contest was to be held, but owing to his negligence in not making the entry the latter were ineligible. Not being entered, they were not notified that the contest was declared off at Gladstone. "It seems to me that the matter is squarely up to Mr. Ford, and not the county superintendent or the secretary. It is not the latter's duty to follow up notifications with any individual principal and make him remember to take advantage of these notifications. That is their business. "Very respectfully yours, "SAMUEL ADLER, "Secretary of League." The Enterprise does not attempt to pose as an arbiter in the dispute. It printed as much of the facts as it was able to procure. Apparently the Estacada entrants thought there would be a contest at Gladstone on a certain date, and they were on hand ready to deliver their orations. The judges, not knowing of this, owing to some confusion somewhere in the matter, did not go to Gladstone, but met in Oregon City and considered the only two orators of which they knew. These two won the awards.

WEST SIDE FOLK PLAN CIVIC RULE

(Continued from page 1) been taken up at several times during the past five years, but heretofore has never received popular support because it was looked upon as a step towards annexation to Oregon City. People living across the river did not want to be saddled with charges on Oregon City's water and sewer systems, and so have combated every move that seemed to point towards a joining with the older community. The present plan of incorporation, however, is designed expressly to be a protest against annexation, and is being undertaken with the understanding that there shall be no union of the two communities for many years, at least. At the last session of the legislature a law providing for the union of the two communities was introduced, but failed to pass, largely because of the opposition of the west siders. Following the discussion of incorporation plans, a musical entertainment was provided by Prof. C. F.

HILL LINES CHIEF HAS PLANS READY

PORTLAND PAPER IS GOOD BOOSTER

Announcement will shortly be made by President Joseph H. Young, of the Hill Lines in Oregon, of plans for the extensions of the Oregon Electric system in the Willamette valley. Mr. Young has just returned from a conference of Hill chiefs in the East, and while not yet ready to make any definite statements about local work, has said that plans and profiles would soon be prepared for future work south of Portland. It is very generally believed that the Hill lines will extend south from their new East Side terminal property at Belmont, Morrison, Third streets and Union avenue, Portland, along the eastern side of the Willamette valley, and announcement of the route to be followed and the regions to be tapped is eagerly awaited. The Hill interests have had agents out in the Clackamas valley on several occasions, and this has led to the belief that they were planning to run a line into the fertile timber and agricultural region lying along the shores of the chief tributary of the lower Willamette. Activity of the Southern Pacific interests south of Oregon City has also led to the belief that the Hill lines were planning an invasion of their territory, and that news of their intentions had leaked to the rival system. The announcement of President Young, when made, will clear up much of the mystery that has surrounded local railroad plans, and will probably contain news of the best sort for the east side of the Willamette valley.

MAYOR, AS JUDGE, PROVES STERN MAN

Mayor Linn E. Jones quit being chief executive of the city for awhile Thursday, and donned the figurative ermine of city police magistrate, and presided over police court. Recorder Stipp, to whom such duties usually fall, was out of town. The mayor was rather pained at being forced to ascend the bench, for by so doing he had to take official cognizance of the breaking of the excellent record established in the month of April, when but three arrests were made for drunkenness. His honor, in short, was called upon to try, on the first day of May, two thirds as many cases of acute inebriation as had come up in court for the whole of the preceding month. Two regulars of the army of Uncle Sam, detailed from Vancouver barracks for special duty at the Clackamas range, became tangled with booze somewhere, and visited Oregon City to celebrate. Chief Shaw promptly corralled them, and police court was opened pronto. After hearing and viewing the evidence in the case, Magistrate Jones fined the offenders $15 each, or seven days in jail. Not caring to spend so long a period of forced desertion from duty, the soldiers said they would try to raise the money. They were remanded to jail until funds were forthcoming, police court adjourned, and the mayor

HUBBARD PEOPLE PLAN COMMERCIAL CLUB WORK

People of Hubbard are to meet early next week to organize a Commercial club to advance the resources of the community that lies about 20 miles to the south of Oregon City. As at the organization of the Molalla Commercial club, there will be present a number of Oregon City and Portland people, who will suggest to the new boosters many ways in which they can benefit themselves through organized effort.

'BAROMETER' SHOWS BUSINESS IS GOOD

County Recorder Dedman expects that the business of his office for the month of April will establish a new record, particularly for the filing of realty transactions. His clerks have been busy day in and day out handling deeds and other conveyances, and when the total amount of business is made up, there is every indication that a new high figure will be set for the month's activity. The recorder's office is a very fair barometer of local business conditions and business of a volume such as was handled in April indicates general prosperity and development in the county. Many of the sales recorded were of smaller portions of large holdings, indicating that land held for investment is being cut up and sold to settlers for intensive cultivation. There was also a considerable amount of movement in timber lands, which is another indication of prosperous times.

WAGNER EVENING IS CHURCH PLAN

Richard Wagner will be the inspiration of a musical to be held in the Congregational church Wednesday evening, May 21, the centennial of Wagner's birth. The concert promises to be something new in character and excellent in quality. Dr. Gustav Flechtner is organizing a special orchestra to play selections from Tannhauser, Lohengrin and other of the great operas. H. J. Robinson, choir director, is to train the chorus, and there will be several solos, all selected from Wagner's operas. A reader from Portland will deliver several readings from the works of the great composer, so as to illustrate his great dramatic power. The concert will be given under the auspices of the Sunday School Council and the proceeds derived therefrom will be used for alterations to the church.

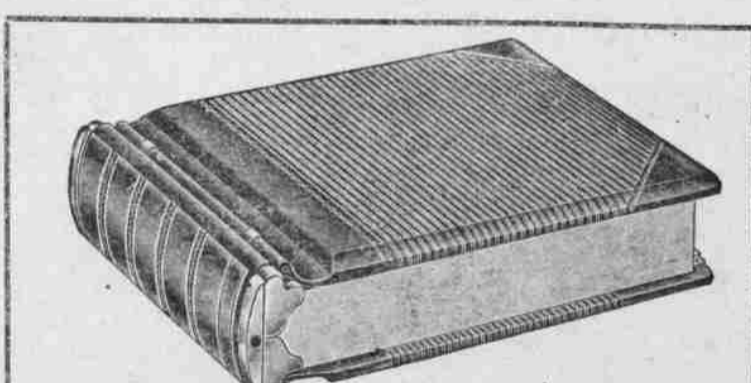

ANTARCTIC VIEWS TO BE SEEN HERE

The only film saved from the unfortunate expedition of Cap. Scott, the British antarctic explorer, will be shown at the Bell theatre today. This film was found in a sealed can among the effects of the brave party when their frozen bodies were discovered by the rescuing party which set out in search of them last fall. This is only one of the numerous films which were taken out by the explorer which was preserved, and which is now being produced before the people. The pictures were taken at Captain Scott's direction, and give an excellent idea of the terrible fastness of the polar regions and of the great difficulties which are encountered by the explorers. The pictures show the departure of Captain Scott's ship the "Terra Nova" from New Zealand, its voyage through the antarctic seas, and of the ship among the great ice and berg fields. The strange bird life of the frozen south is also shown with amazing vividness.

Henricita Crosman Is One of Country's Versatile Stars AMONG the few great American actresses the name of Henricita Crosman is notable. Her Rosalind ranks with the best traditions associated with Shakespeare's most delightful comedy creation, and she has won equal success in a number of other characters in the standard and classic drama. For the past two seasons Miss Crosman has been starring under the direction of Maurice Campbell in Catherine Chisholm Cushing's comedy, "The Real Thing," and when she closes her present season she will go to her Long Island home for recreation and the study of a new role.
