We Are Still Standing on the Threshold of American History

United States Has Always Been a World Power

By JOHN BASSETT MOORE, Counselor to the State Department

NOTHING could be more erroneous than the supposition that the United States had, as a result of certain changes in its habits, suddenly become within the past few years a world power.

The advent of the United States of America was of a significance which, although not felt at the time, has in the nature of things attained far-reaching effects that could not be foreseen.

DIFFICULTIES What is difficulty? Only a word indicates the degree of strength requisite for accomplishing particular objects; a mere notice of the necessity for exertion; a bugbear to children and fools; only a mere stimulus to men. Difficulties are to be mastered.—Warren.

TWO KINDS

There are newspapers of two kinds that will print any sort of news as long as it "has a kick to it." In former years such periodicals were referred to as "yellow." Nowadays they are not spoken of as being of any particular kind, for so the world has changed. There are also newspapers that will only print news that they have verified. In former days people did not think such papers worthy of special distinction in speech—these days they are referred to as "conservative." With the reading public, it is largely a matter of "you pay your money and you take your choice."

Some people prefer "news with a kick to it," whether it be truthful or not. They can usually get their preference satisfied. Other folk prefer what are known as "conservative" papers, because they like to believe that the matter put before them has at least reasonable grounds of truthfulness. There is a general idea in the public mind that all newspapers are liars, but this is incorrect. It may perhaps be admitted that all newspapers do not print all the news, or give more emphasis to some news than to other varieties; but even at that, the great majority of newspapers and news writers try to be as truthful as circumstances will permit. And when they do not know, or have not the means of finding out, whether an important news item is absolutely correct or not, they say "it is reported," or "it appears to be true that," or make use of some other qualifying phrase. Readers of the daily press who followed the accounts of the Titanic disaster will readily recall which papers used these qualifying phrases during the days of doubt, and which papers did not.

All of which is a foreword. The Enterprise rather prides itself on being a "conservative" newspaper. It likes to print all the news of interest to the locality that it can procure, but it also takes all means that lie within its power to verify such news as comes to it, either through regular channels or through unusual ways. This is why this paper did not shriek to Heaven, recently, that there had been an attempt made to bribe a juror in a circuit court trial. Publication of what pretended to be authentic information about this alleged attempted bribery in a Portland pa-

NEW LINE ACTIVE

Ranchers on the Molalla report much activity along the line of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern. Grading has been completed on both sides of the river, it is said, and ballasting is under way at the approaches to the bridge. A pile driver has been busy all week driving piers for the bridge over the river outside of Molalla.

KLING STRENGTHENS REDS.

With Veteran Catcher on Job, Tinker Says Team Will Be Strong. Now that Johnny Kling has announced he will join the Cincinnati team shortly Manager Tinker declares the Reds will be stronger than ever.

The Moon. Astronomers long since came to the conclusion that the moon's surface is very hot during the height of the lunar day, which, as will be remembered, lasts two weeks, and very cold during the lunar night, which is equally long. These extremes of temperature reach their height at the lunar noon and midnight and are greater than any natural temperatures on the earth.

Kling says he has been practicing three hours a day and that he is in good condition.

Tinker thinks Kling is not all in by any means. He says managerial duties affected the veteran's catching last year, but now that he is free and clear the old 'cub star will shine behind the bat again.

Women's Fashions Like a Lunatics' Fancy Ball

By BASIL KING, Author

I WALKED down Fifth avenue recently, and it was like being at a FANCY DRESS BALL IN A LUNATIC ASYLUM.

THIS FLARING OF CRAZY COLORS, I DO NOT DOUBT AT ALL, AFFECTS THE PEOPLE WHO ARE COMPELLED TO LOOK AT IT DAY AFTER DAY. IT MAKES YOU FEEL AS IF YOU HAD BEEN LOOKING AT A MOVING PICTURE OF THE CUBIST ORDER.

The more civilization was increased the further people previously had come to covering their bodies up. The inclination of the present generation is on the down grade, for women take off instead of put on.

If you are walking in a street you do not have a chance to see what sort of faces women have. Their GAUDY, WEIRD SHAPED CLOTHES KILL EVERYTHING except their figures.
