

100 Cents Worth for a Dollar

Being better dressed or more appropriately clothed, having more attractive furniture in your house, living in a better apartment, or owning a better automobile than your neighbor, doesn't necessarily mean that you have more money to spend than he has. It might, and probably does, mean that you are more alive to the possibilities and opportunities that surround you.

The same qualities of mind and intellect which make one merchant a shrewd purchaser than another make you a better manager of your annual expenditure.

The merchant or the purchasing agent of any big organization knows all there is to know about the things he buys. His dollar is 100 per cent. efficient.

If some large organizations conducted their purchasing departments as loosely and thoughtlessly as some families they would be bankrupt before very long.

And yet there is really no good reason why every individual should not get 100 cents worth for every dollar he spends for himself and his family.

Reports received from the Ogle Creek mines, in southeastern Clackamas county, state that the snow is still lying upon the ground to a depth of about 8 or 9 feet. The season is unusually late in the mountains this year, and snow was falling at Ogle Creek during the past week.

Generally the snow has entirely disappeared at this time of the year at Ogle Creek. Its presence upon the ground is causing no little trouble in transporting supplies.

to scientific rules the thought of these two quotations.

"Eugenics, which strictly defined means perfect generation, may be defined as 'the science and art of being well-born,' or as Galton the founder of the science said some ten years ago, 'Eugenics is the study of agencies which may improve or impair the racial qualities of future generations either mentally, physically or spiritually.'

"Oliver Wendell Holmes tells us that the time to begin the education of a child is a hundred years before it is born, and if this is true, as we are now beginning to realize, we may agree with the president of the first international congress of eugenics held in London only last year, that 'At present the most urgent need is for more knowledge.' In line with this plea there has been founded the Carnegie station for experimental evolution at Cold Spring Harbor, which is now busied collecting great masses of interesting statistics.

"But to us the question that eugenics raises must come closer home, and at present there are three fundamental and essential problems which we are all interested in solving.

"First we must secure wiser mating on the part of men and women of intelligence and education. The prime importance of spiritual education makes itself shown here. In addition, make the church a meeting place for young people. Acknowledge Nature's great force in securing mating—propinquity, and let the church guide it by throwing the youth of both sexes into good companionship.

"Our second problem is the immediate one which some of the states are already meeting; limitation by public authority of the marriage of the defective, the insane and the criminal. The vast amount of harm done to the race as a whole by our 3 or 4 per cent of this off-color humanity should certainly lead the church to stand firmly and aggressively for progress in this type of legislation.

"Lastly, remains the fantastic problem of breeding the superman. This third problem, if it may even be called such, gives ample ground for the roving scientific imagination but in a practical way, offers little of real merit. The emotion of love absolutely controlled, presents just as sorry a spectacle as the passion we know of as utterly uncontrolled love, and the superman will for a long time remain the visionary product of that impossible conception—scientific love."

AGENT TOM KAY LOSES HIS CASE

Thomas Kay, erstwhile member of the Portland police force, but now special investigator for Governor Oswald West, lost his case against W. S. Flynn, saloon keeper of Wilsonville Wednesday when the matter was tried before Justice Stevers. Flynn, who had been charged by Thomas with running his saloon on Sunday, was found not guilty, and the case dismissed.

Mr. Kay had one witness with him to prove that Flynn had violated the law. Mr. Flynn was supported by nearly a score of his neighbors, who were unanimous in declaring that he operated a most orderly resort, and that there was never any trouble there. The court ruled on the evidence, much to Kay's disgust.

Kay did not state what moved him to descend suddenly upon Wilsonville and endeavor to make the arrest. Nor did he go into much detail in regard to the fact that he never made the arrest at all. Flynn, hearing that there was a charge against him, voluntarily came into court while Kay was industriously slouching him.

MRS. HEPP DIES

Walter H. Hepp, of this city, has received the sad news of the death of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hepp, at Gresham last Saturday. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon in the Finley chapel, Portland. Mrs. Hepp was 75 years of age, and aside from Walter Hepp is survived by the following children: Mrs. Charles E. Wilson, of Corbett, Ore.; Mrs. Harry Holbrook, of San Francisco; Mrs. A. G. Coombs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Mrs. F. Cullin, of Oakland, Cal., and Daniel Kerr, of Chicago.

FISHERS GATHER MEN, NOT SALMON

Commercial fishermen this week ceased pursuit of the royal salmon for awhile, and instead drew from the Willamette six Japanese who came into their midst trolling for chinook. A flood from the head waters above their dams has made fishing very poor the last several nights for the gillnetters, and as a result few of them have gone out. One or two boats were on the river when the Japs arrived, however, and thus it was that the variety of fishing changed.

The Orientals, strangers on the stream, became entangled in the eddies below the falls, and their boats were capsized. All the fishing gear they had was lost, as well as the few salmon that they had caught. Six of the little men were bobbing into the torn waters of the upper rapids, and their cries for help brought the gillnetters to their rescue. With much spluttering on the part of the Japs, and considerable advice from the commercial fishermen, the strangers were dragged into the staunch fish-boats, and later were set ashore, provided with a chance to dry their clothes, and left to their own devices.

Whenever water in the upper river becomes high, gillnetting below the falls suffers a setback, just as it does when the river is backed up by a rise in the Columbia. For the last two nights there has been a combination of these two drawbacks, and local fishermen have mostly stayed off the river. Wednesday the upper Willamette showed a general dropping, however, and the gillnetters will be out again in the latter part of the week. Below the dam the river is still high, owing to back pressure from the Columbia.

Catches of commercial fishermen have not been as heavy this week as earlier in the season, and as a result there has been a sharp rise in the bids offered by Portland buyers. Early in the season the prevailing price was seven cents, but this week bids as high as 12 cents were made.

EXPERIENCES FOR BOYS

The coming appearance in this city of "Roney's Boys" Concert company on Friday, recalls the interesting fact that the experiences of these musical cherubs is strangely fascinating and interesting. From the executive mansion at Washington, where they received the enthusiastic admiration of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and their 500 invited guests at the now historic Christmas Concert, given by them at the White House, to the gloomy prison cells in the great penitentiaries, is a wide gulf, yet their prison audiences are no less critical and appreciative than those at the Nation's capital.

In the past 25 years Mr. Roney has given concerts to about 100,000 unfortunate inmates of penal and other public institutions in the United States. The effect of these marvellously sweet voices upon the criminal class is described as wonderful. The audience of thieves, burglars and murderers listen with rapt attention, many of them with tears running down their faces, and applaud with a frenzy of enthusiasm.

They have several times sung in the cells of condemned prisoners awaiting the electric chair. Mr. Roney is usually allowed to talk to the boys along the tiers of cells and talk with the prisoners, and the gratitude they show for the pleasure brought into their monotonous lives reveals the good which lies even in such hearts as these.

C. B. WILSON NEW MAYOR AT WILLAMETTE

C. B. Wilson has been elected mayor of Willamette, to fill the vacancy recently made by the resignation of county School Superintendent T. J. Gary, who resigned because he had moved from the corporate limits of the town. Mr. Wilson, who was formerly a member of the city council of that place, was elected by the council. In his place was elected Edward Carpenter. James Edmonds was elected to the council to fill the vacancy recently made by E. Duncan, who recently moved out of the state. John Turner was elected to fill a vacancy in the position of town marshal.

The people of Willamette greatly regret that his change of residence made it necessary for Mr. Gary to resign his position, as the earnest efforts which he has put forth to advance the town have been greatly appreciated.

OREGON BERRIES FILLING MARKETS

State grown strawberries are getting a firmer hold on the market, and in spite of over-stocking of California fruit are holding firm at from $3.25 to $4 per 24-pound crate depending upon kind and grade. The Oregon berries as yet lack color, due to the want of sunshine, but are of good flavor, and are finding ready sales in retail shops.

New potatoes are following in the lead of last season's crop, and have declined to 3 and 4 cents a pound, with but little buying. As a result of the glut of spuds this spring, it is said that many ranchers are not going to plant any this year, and it is expected that 1914 will see the tubers soaring in the local markets.

Asparagus, coming in plentifully and in prime condition, is now quoted wholesale at 75 cents per dozen bundles of the best grade stock. The outlook is for a further drop, with corresponding reductions in retail prices.

Eggs are still being bought sparingly in Portland, and at prices not at all satisfactory to poultry. But few shipments are being made to commission houses.
