OREGON CITY COMMERCIAL CLUB INVITES CALIFORNIANS HERE FOR FRIENDLY VISIT

MAYOR JONES JOINS IN INITIATION

Oakland Boosters, Coming North on Special Train, Urged to Pause on Journey to See Local Scenic Features

President B. T. McBain, of the Commercial club, and Mayor Linn E. Jones have both sent invitations to the "Royal Oaks," the booster organization of Oakland, California, to stop over at Oregon City on their way to Portland to attend Rose Festival gaieties. The Californians have been invited to visit Oregon City's rose show, to view the mills and the falls, and to partake of luncheon at the Commercial club on June 7. Oregon City boosters are hoping to entertain many delegations of similar organizations that are scheduled to pass through the city this summer.

In inviting the Oaklanders here Mr. McBain outlines the entertainment the local boosters will provide, his letter being as follows:

"Having learned of the proposed visit of your 'Royal Oaks' during the Portland Rose Festival, and knowing your train will go through our city, we, in the name of the Commercial club of Oregon City, invite your organization to visit Oregon City en route, where, if you will give us sufficient notice of your acceptance, we will gladly prepare a Royal Chinook salmon luncheon, and if you give us sufficient time, the Clackamas County Automobile club offers to show you the city.

"On Saturday, June 7th, the Oregon City Rose Society has its annual event, and we trust if you are going to be in Portland during the entire week, you can arrive here on that date to witness what is always a preliminary event to the larger and

FILMS TO SHOW OREGON ABROAD

GERMANY TO BE INVADDED WITH "SILENT MISSIONARIES" IN SETTLER'S CAMPAIGN

COUNTY COMMITTEES HAVE CHARGE

Immigration Bureau of State-wide Activity to Control Efforts to Lure Old World Folk to Pacific Coast

Following the meeting of those interested in bringing immigrants from Northern Germany to Oregon, held in the State Immigration Commissioner's office in Portland Thursday, O. E. Freitag, publicity manager of the Oregon City Commercial club announces that there will shortly be named an "immigration board" in this county, the business of which shall be confined to attracting new settlers to this section. The committee, the first of several that will be appointed in conjunction with it, will concern itself mainly with German immigration, and will be composed of three, some citizen of note, a representative of one of the German societies, and a member of the Commercial club.

This committee will take charge of all correspondence from Germans who are inquiring about locations in this section of Oregon, and will eventually share in conducting a campaign of publicity in Germany on behalf of Oregon agricultural districts. It will have direct charge of Clackamas county's share of this exhibition, and will bear its share of the expense of the old-country campaign. The committee will be appointed in this county simultaneously with the appointment of similar boards in other counties.

As plans are at present, Oregon will be advertised in Germany largely through the moving picture shows. Films showing the various agricultural activities of the state will be displayed, together with some views of the scenic wonders and the cities and towns. Each film will be preceded by a brief statement announcing what the views are, and requesting all who desire information about the district shown to write to the "immigration board" of that particular county. Possibly a small exhibit of products will also be sent with the films, and will be exhibited in the lobbies of the theatres.

It is believed that by means of this "silent missionary work" much can be

IN NIGHT SESSION GRANGE ENDS WORK

ALBANY, Ore., May 17.—(Special)—Long after midnight tonight delegates to the annual convention of the State Grange were still in session, battling over problems consisting mainly of changes in the organization's form and constitution, and in the endorsement of certain resolutions. Among other things holding the delegates in night session is the plan to do away with the county system of electing delegates to the state body; the endorsement of a law for the reforestation of stump land; and action upon the state university-agricultural college matter.

LIVING COST HIT AT EUGENE'S MEET

COMMONWEALTH CONFERENCE OPEN AT STATE UNIVERSITY FOR REVIEW

STATE LEADERS GIVE ADDRESSES

Blame for Expenses of Present Day Life Placed Upon Undue Waste in Production and Distribution

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, May 16.—The high cost of living was analyzed in two of its phases today by leaders in many different lines of public activity in Oregon, who gathered at the university to take part in the fifth annual commonwealth conference, the university's annual stock-taking of the progress achieved by the state in the preceding twelve months.

In the morning it was the high cost of government that occupied the speakers, and in the afternoon the high cost of production and the wasteful methods of distribution. In both sessions, examples of progress toward efficiency and economy made in various parts of the state were related by publicists, social workers, and research experts.

Porter J. Neff, city attorney of Medford, led a discussion of the establishment and maintenance of municipal markets in Oregon towns, and he was followed by a discussion of the general subject of co-operative marketing in agriculture, horticulture and dairying, participated in by G. W. Gwin and J. O. Holt, manager of the Lane County Fruitgrowers association. J. George Johnson, master of the Lane county Pomona Grange, told of the rural credit system in use in certain foreign countries, and described the advantages to be derived from providing the farmer with cheap money. Z. W. Commerford, organizer of co-operative stores, told of his success in benefiting both producer and consumer by installing the Rochdale system. In the morning the speaker at Astoria, Edward E. Gray, described present conditions in Oregon municipalities, and furnished the basis for the outlining of the path of future progress by expert municipal workers, including Dr. Herman S. Brauer, director of the state of Washington's bureau of municipal research at the University of Washington, Herbert R. Sands, expert for the New York bureau of municipal research and L. H. Weir, field secretary of the Playground and Recreational association of America. The speeches largely centered around the university's proposed bureau of municipal research to be established in connection with the department of economics and sociology. Dr. Brauer described how much service the bureau in Seattle had been able to lend to lawmaking under democratic conditions.

Addresses by students, Thaddeus Wentworth, on the undergraduate's part in commonwealth service, a consideration of Oregon's efforts to realize the highest racial standards, introduced by O. M. Plummer of the Portland Stockyards company, who is secretary of the American Eugenics society, and by Mrs. Millie R. Trumbull, secretary of the Oregon Child Labor commission, closed the session. In the evening was a discussion of city planning and state planning, started by A. H. Harris, editor of the Portland Labor Press.

Tomorrow will be the big day of the conference, with sessions by educators, engineers, editors and women, ending with pageantry and plays on the campus in which students will take part, and with three different banquets to visitors in the evening. More than five hundred additional visitors are expected from Portland at noon, special cars will be run from Corvallis, and guests are expected from many other points. Over 400 were present at the opening session.

MOOSE ARE HOSTS TO PORTLANDERS

Members of the Oregon City lodge of Moose were the hosts of 100 members of the Portland lodge Thursday evening at the Moose hall, Sixth and Main streets. The Portland crowd came to this city about eight o'clock and were met by the Oregon City lodge at Ninth street. At this point a parade was formed and the visitors and the Oregon City lodge marched up Main street to Fifth, and thence back to the Moose hall.

At the hall, lodge was opened and the degree team of Portland, initiated 12 of Oregon City's prominent business men into the mysteries of Moosehood. The work was put on in a fine shape and proved to be very pleasing to the Oregon City lodge, about 300 of whom were present.

After the initiation a reception was held by the Oregon City lodge in honor of the visitors. B. C. Yoman, of Portland, district deputy supreme dictator, was present and delivered a fine address. Other speeches were made by Major C. S. Noble, Frank Busch and John Albright. During the evening music was furnished by an Oregon City orchestra.

A fine banquet was served by the local lodge to the visitors. Among the Portland visitors who were present were Judge Bell and Judge Morrow.

The Oregon City lodge of Moose is doing so well that they are already crowded from rooms, and it may be necessary for them to find new quarters before long as at the present rate at which members are joining the lodge it will soon be impossible to hold sessions in the present rooms. There are over three hundred members in the local lodge and the fact that an addition was recently put on the lodge building, it has already proven too small.

GRAIN CORNERED IN NORTHWEST

Oregon wheat brokers are reported to have cornered a large proportion of the wheat crop of the Northwest as the result of steady buying for the last month. It is said that investigation shows that there are less than 260,000 bushels of grain still uncontracted. The crop already in hand is said to range from three-quarters to a million bushels, and to embrace practically all the available wheat that will be harvested in Oregon and Washington.

Club wheat cannot be had on the local market now for less than 91 cents. Some business has passed between dealers for next month's delivery at even better prices. Before the season ends there is little doubt that the price will approach close to the dollar mark.

While the activity has been mainly in club wheat, the bluestem market has not been lagging. The demand for the higher grade milling grain has come almost entirely from interior millers, and they have paid, in the past two days, the best prices of the year for necessary lots. A few deals were put through at prices equivalent to $1.01 here, and other transactions were up to $1.03 and even better.

Judge Beattie and the county commissioners met at the court house Friday morning and then made a trip of inspection over the roads and bridges to the west of the river. Saturday they will inspect the site of the proposed span over Ramsby creek.

FIFTEEN AUTOMOBILES BRING 60 OF WASHINGTON HERD OVER COLUMBIA FOR VISIT

GOOD FELLOWSHIP RULES EVENING

Initiation Ceremonies, Banquet and Interesting Addresses Are Features of Neighborly Gathering

Fifteen motor cars, bearing more than 60 members of Vancouver lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, invaded this sister state Friday night for a fraternal visit to Oregon City lodge. They were cordially received and royally entertained, first at a meeting of the lodge at which three candidates were initiated into the mysteries of Elksdom, and afterwards were treated to an elaborate spread in the banquet hall of the Elks' home.

The menu, which was toothsome, was not the leading feature of the affair, for the speeches that followed were full of good cheer and close fellowship. Henry O'Malley, exalted ruler of Oregon City lodge, burst into verse in his welcome to the visiting brothers, and Exalted Ruler Shaw of Vancouver lodge, made a fitting response. Rev. Charles W. Robinson, of St. Paul's Episcopal church, one of the baby Elks of Oregon City lodge, talked in his always entertaining vein, illustrating every point with a good story that won him bursts of applause.

Thomas Clark, head of the state school for the deaf at Vancouver, was the next speaker, and he was followed by Senator E. M. Rands, who was one of the pioneer residents of Oregon City, where he was publisher of The Enterprise. Senator Rands congratulated the people of Oregon City upon the growth of their town, and expressed wonderment at the many improvements here since his departure. Gilbert L. Hedges, the silver-tongued orator of Oregon City, made a happy and clever talk. W. E. Graham, of Oregon City, rendered vocal solos, and speeches were made by Past Exalted Ruler Blaker, of Vancouver lodge; G. R. H. Miller, of Oregon City lodge, who was the oldest Elk to march in the parade during the Grand Lodge at Portland last summer; Past Exalted Ruler Marshall, of Vancouver lodge, who assisted in instituting Oregon City lodge three years ago; and Judge Gordon E. Hayes, who made an eloquent address on the stories of the Elks' lodge.

The banquet ended at 11 o'clock, the mystic hour, with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne." An entertaining feature was the music rendered by an Oregon City quartette composed of Gilbert Long, Harry Confer, Louis Smith and Ben Holsclaw.

The visiting Elks were honored during the ceremonies of initiation by being placed in charge of the impressive ritual. Their trip to Oregon City was in the nature of a return call for a visit made by a delegation of Oregon City Elks to Vancouver several weeks ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF HAS ADVENTURE

Reports that an insane man was at large in the town took Deputy Sheriff Miles to Oak Grove Thursday evening and were responsible for his acquiring a perfectly colored black eye. On arriving in the suburban settlement, Miles located the "trouble" sitting on a box and gently swinging an axe in his hand. The deputy discovered further that the gentleman with the cleaver was named Moore, and that he had been imbibing somewhat too freely. In the background were to be seen other residents of the vicinity, watching the progress of events with interest.

After some parleying Moore agreed to drop the axe and go in the house with the deputy to talk things over. While the two were sitting socially in the parlor, discussing things, Moore suddenly sprang at Miles and gave a demonstration of heavyweight championship methods. After thus acquiring the black eye, Miles retreated, came back to Oregon City, and accompanied by Sheriff E. T. Mass, went back to Oak Grove and got his man. Moore was sentenced to 30 days in justice court.

CHURCH CONTRACT LET

The contract for remodeling of St. John's Catholic church has been awarded to F. S. Baker, of Gladstone. Mr. Baker, who was the city local bidder, secured the contract over the bid of eight Portland firms. He was awarded the contract by the architect.

Work will not be started for several weeks, as the closing of the McLoughlin Institute was awaited so that if it is necessary to close the church during the work McLoughlin hall can be used.
