WHEN HEITMUELLER MADE PITCHER HIGGINBOTHAM QUIT.

Irving Higginbotham, the lanky twirler once connected with the Chicago Cubs, was with the Portland squad of the Pacific Coast league last season. Los Angeles was playing on the Portland grounds one day. It was the eighth inning, and the score was tied, 3 to 3. The Angel center fielder, Heitmuller—who died last year—walked to the plate and hollered out at Hig: "Hey, you! Put that ball anywhere near me and I'll shoot it up against the right field fence." Higginbotham threw the ball down in the box and walked off the diamond. "Not off me, you won't!" he exclaimed. "The Portland manager couldn't get Hig back in the box, so had to send Koestner to the mound. "And the first ball he threw to Heitmuller was hit against the right field fence. At least that's the story Joe Berger tells.

RULES FOR SONDER RACES.

German and American Clubs Agree on All Conditions. The German-American race committee of the Kaiserlicher Yacht club of Kiel and the Eastern Yacht club of Boston has issued in circular form the rules and conditions that are to govern the races, beginning Sept. 1 off Marblehead, of the sonderclass yachts. The trial races for the selection of the three American yachts that are to compete are to begin off Marblehead on or before Saturday, Aug. 16. Each yacht must be designed, built and all sails, sailcloth and fittings made in the country to which she belongs, and the crew must be made up of amateur members of the yacht clubs which are admitted to the trial races. The crews are to consist of not more than three persons, who must be citizens of the country in which the yacht was built. There will be five races, for each of which prizes will be given by the Eastern Yacht club. The President Wilson cup will go to the yacht which first wins three races or wins the fifth race of the series. In case the deciding race is the third, the winner will not be allowed to compete in the further races.

ARCHER HAS TWO JOBS.

When Not Catching He Will Play First Base For Cubs. Jimmy Archer, though signed to catch for the Chicago Cubs, may play first base the greater part of the season. Manager Evers can easily afford to go through with this plan, as he has Roger Bresnahan to work behind the plate while the squat throwing receiver is on first base. Evers does not mean that this should reflect on the playing ability of Vic Sailer, the club's regular first baseman. That is far from being

JIMMY ARCHER OF THE CUBS

In his mind. He considers Sailer one of the best fielding initial basemen in the league and would not even think of removing him if it were not for his weakness in battling against south paws. Slow curve balls thrown by the port siders are Sailer's hoodoo. Putting Archer on first base will not lessen the strength of the club in fielding. When Frank Chance was unable to play two years ago he took Archer from behind the plate and put him on the first base. His work was as classy as could be expected, and the hitting he did while he was there kept the team in the race.

Pugilist-Pitcher on Browns' Staff. Knockout Snyder, a pitching candidate of the St. Louis Browns, has fought in several heavyweight preliminary bouts in western and southern boxing clubs.

The Wake of a Ship. "Wake" for the track of a ship is a Scandinavian word, preserved in dialect. Its original meaning, as Professor Skeats tells us, was that of an opening in the ice, especially the passage cut for a ship in a frozen lake or sea, and then, from being applied to the smooth, watery track left by a ship after its passage through the ice, it came to be used when there was no ice at all. This useful word is one of the nautical terms which the French have borrowed from the English, although it is not easy to recognize it at first in its French form of "ouache," and it is still used on the Norfolk broads with its original meaning of an open place in the ice.

ON THE MERRY-GO-ROUND

"If your wife is a doctor, why didn't you go to her for your cold?" "Too expensive, doctor. Last time she ordered me to spend six weeks at Palm Beach and came with me herself." Both Henpecked. "We're henpecked, pa, ain't we?" "Why, what do you mean, my boy?" "Well, ma makes me wash my hands before I come to the supper table, and she makes you wash yours before you hook up her back." He Got Even. "Brown sent me a brick by parcel post, but I got even with him." "What did you do?" "Passed the word along to a number of agents that he was figuring on taking out more life insurance." Differentiation. "The man who runs this store has got the right idea all right." "How so?" "He advertises, 'Bagpipes and musical instruments.'"

Cupid and Card Index. "Charlie is so systematic." "How now?" "I asked him in my last letter if he liked my eyes, and now he refers me to his communication of Feb. 24. Says he treated the subject exhaustively in that communication." Behind on His Schedule. "What's the matter, old top?" "Lumbago." "I have a remedy I wish you'd try." "I'll put your remedy on my waiting list. At my present rate of progress I'll get to it in about two years."

FIRST AID TO THE COOK.

Every cook knows the patience and time wasted in hunting holders, which seem to have a way of disappearing just at the moment that they are most needed. All this may be avoided by sewing two holders at the end of each on a tape band which fastens around the waist, just as an apron band does. Let them reach to the bottom of the dress, one at each side of the waist line. They will always be ready when needed. Have some of your kitchen holders made of double size and stitched together on three sides, so that the hand can be thrust into them almost as into a mitten. This will save the hands from getting red, rough backs, which readily crack and chafe.

A handy hook is made by taking any smooth stick and inserting into one end a good strong screw hook, right angle shape. It is useful for various purposes. It will draw hot utensils from the oven, pull down window shades that have jumped beyond one's reach, pull windows down from the top and reach anything tucked away in the corners of shelves, etc.

An Old Favorite The Lost Chord

SEATED one day at the organ, I was weary and ill at ease, And my fingers wandered idly Over the noisy keys. I know not what I was playing Or what I was dreaming then, But I struck one chord of music Like the sound of a great amen. It flooded the crimson twilight Like the close of an angel's psalm, And it lay on my fevered spirit With a touch of infinite calm. It united pain and sorrow Like love overcoming strife, It seemed the harmonious echo From our discordant life. It linked perplexing meanings Into one perfect sentence, And trembled away into silence, As if it were loath to cease. I have sought, but I seek it vainly, That one lost chord divine Which came from the soul of the organ And entered into mine. It may be that death's bright angel Will speak in that chord again. It may be that only in heaven I shall hear that grand amen.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

If He Only Had a Tail!

Little Carlo—Dear me; I wish he had a tail to wag. I could tell then whether he was angry or only in play.

Elephant Nurses. India has some of the strangest children's nurses in the world, for many elephants are used there in that way. The mother or nurse who wants to be relieved of the care of the baby for awhile shows it to the elephant, and then places it within reach of the long, twisting trunk. No matter how the child may try, it cannot get away from the big beast, who gently brings it back by an infolding circle of the trunk if it begins to stray. The little creature may tumble about as it will between the four big feet: not one of them will brush its dress carelessly.

Even elephants which are cross to other people are gentle to their keepers and may be trusted with children without the least danger. Why It's Called Worsted. The cloth is called worsted because it was originally manufactured in large quantities at Worsted, England, which was then a comparatively large and flourishing place.

A Well Spent Life. He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction.—Bessie A. Stanley.

Better Still. "No woman knows how to drive a nail." "And what of that? Every woman knows how to drive a man any way she wants him to go."—Washington Herald.

Leprosy. Sir George Turner is reported to have said that, though leprosy is usually spread by contagion, most lepers are not nearly so dangerous to the public as a person suffering from consumption.

A Legend. I have heard that all the tears That we never cry All are saved throughout the years Until some time by and by. When they're changed to jewels gay, Gems that flash far away Catch and fling upon the grass. We can see them as we pass, And they make the morning bright With their gleaming, happy light. Think! The drops of dew you see Might belong to you or me! —Youth's Companion.

Riddles. When is a blow from a lady welcomed? When she strikes you agreeably. What snufftaker is that whose box gets fuller the more snuff he takes? A pair of snuffers. Why is a fishmonger never generous? Because his business makes him selfish. Why are religious communities like bees? Because they are in-sects. Why ought an omnibus to be considered secure from lightning? Because it has a conductor.

MARKET SHOWING UPWARD TENDENCY

Strawberries have been arriving in the Portland wholesale market in force and have filled a long-felt want. Though the supply Monday was generous, buying was eager, and the stock was soon cleaned up. Sales ran from $1.65 a crate down, the lesser prices being paid for imported berries from the south, which are in poor shape. The egg market is picking up again, strength of prices in the Sound and California centers being responsible. From 18 to 20 cents is being offered for ranch eggs, and indications are that the price will better a few cents on this before the end of this week. Asparagus, owing to continued demand and lack of supply has risen from $1 to $1.15 per dozen bunches. Stock is still prime, and the "grass" is somewhat longer than that earlier offered. Sweet potatoes are bringing 4 cents in the wholesale market. Ordinary spuds are still a glut, and are not paying cartage expense. Continued high water has boosted salmon still further, and only retail supplies are being bought, the packing interests have left the field.

YOUNG SCIENTIST MAKES DISCOVERY

While conducting personal experiments with sodium, the better to discover its properties, "Tub" Gault, a student at the high school, discovered Monday that when the chemical was mixed with water and certain other ingredients an explosive of no mean force could be obtained. The result of Gault's experiments sounded considerably like a Fourth of July celebration, and was followed by a shower of minute particles of glass about the laboratory.

The experimenter himself was about as surprised as his fellow students, and though the instructor in chemistry was rather inclined to take a serious view of the matter, and discouraged original research of such a nature, no damage was done. After being reprimanded Gault promised never to do it again, and even admitted, with a twinkle in his eye, that he probably couldn't do it again, because he didn't know what he had poured into "the stuff" to make it go off.
