The council also took up other street matters, among them being the passage of a resolution calling for a change of grade upon Center street from Ninth to Tenth streets, and the settlement of various old assessment matters hanging over from former improvement work. In some of these settlements a partial payment was accepted together deeds to part of the property, while in other cases the property is to be deeded to the city, and a small payment made to the owners to compenthem for the difference between the value of their lots and the amounts due the city.

Protests were heard from some property owners who declared changes in grades had damaged their holdings. In one instance it was recited that a second change in street CORONER'S JURY changes in grades had damaged their grades, at Thirteenth and Jackson, had made necessary a seven-foot cut on two sides of some corner property thus blocking sale of the land, and practically forcing abandonment of the property. Some of the council men met this charge by saying that the laying of two modernly improved streets upon two sides of the land sufficiently to pay for any damage reports calling for change of grade were
