

THE ENTERPRISE HABIT

A man of our acquaintance, who might not be suspected of knowing much about his wife's hats and gowns, has lately acquired the habit of studying the advertising pages of THE ENTERPRISE. The result is that he has enjoyed no little amount of profitable diversion in helping his wife make her Spring selections of hats and shoes and other apparel.

By friendly co-operation and discussion of the many attractive offerings, he proved himself of great assistance to his wife and turned many weeks of irritating shopping experiences, into a pleasant pastime.

He has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that, by a systematic study of the advertising columns of THE ENTERPRISE one may save time, money and patience in spring shopping. Also, that it is a very good habit to take THE ENTERPRISE home each day or to have it delivered regularly where it may be read thoroughly in the quiet of the home circle.

Get the news—read the Enterprise. An envelope social will be given by Warner Grange, at their hall in New Era next Saturday. Each gentleman attending will purchase an envelope, which will contain the name of his supper partner. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Miles returned Sunday evening from Medford, where they attended the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Rebekahs of the past week. While at Medford they visited their son, Fred, who is the Medford agent of the Wells-Fargo Express Co. Mrs. J. J. Cooke, who attended the Grand lodge, and who later visited Mr. Cooke's sister at Eagle Point, returned with them.

For the Children

Two Little Sons of the Crown Prince of Sweden.

The two little sailors shown in the photograph are the sons of Gustaf Adolf, duke of Skania, the crown prince of Sweden. Princess Margaret, their mother, is a daughter of the Duke of Connaught, brother of the late King Edward VII. of England. The oldest boy standing to the left is named Gustaf Adolf after his father. He is seven years old, and his title is Duke of Westerbotten. The other boy is named Sigvard. He will be six next July, and his title is Duke of Upland. They are charming little fellows in appearance, as they probably are in fact. Sweden comprises the eastern half of the Scandinavian peninsula, as all good geography scholars know. It has a population of 5,521,000 and is separated from Norway by the Kolen mountains.

The Five Senses. Any number can take part in this game, which requires a little preparation beforehand. Pencil and paper must be given each player, and the various articles for testing the senses should be in readiness before the game begins. A card and wafers, such as are used in progressive euchre, may be given each guest to keep the record of his successes and errors. As prizes first and booby are given for the best and worst answers.

The players are blindfolded, and a tray is passed to each in turn, with a dozen or more different things to be tasted—sweet, sour, bitter, bread, cake, fruits, etc. Only a very small particle of each is given. The tray is then taken away, the eyes unblinded, and each player must write down the names of all the articles he has tasted that he can remember.

A tray is brought to the blindfolded players, with spices, medicines, flowers and perfumes, which are offered them to smell, after which, as before, they must write down the names of all the things they think they have smelled.

Again the players are blindfolded, while others of the company make various noises all at once—singing, crying, laughing, pounding, ringing bells, tearing paper, playing on musical instruments, etc.

A tray is brought to the blindfolded players with various articles to be felt by each in turn. These may be wool, cotton, cloth, marble, hair, flour, ice, china, glass or anything thought of. Then, as usual, they must write down the names of all things they can remember.

A tray is placed before the players, now unblinded, and they are to look at the group of objects displayed upon it while twenty is slowly counted; then the tray is removed, and the players must write a list of all the things they have seen, so far as they remember.

This game is a good drill in observation and memory, as well as an amusing entertainment.

SCHAEFER TELLS ONE ON NICK ALTROCK.

Many funny stories are told of Nick Altrock, but one of the most amusing has been turned off by Herman Schaefer, Nick's stogie partner last winter. Nick, according to Schaefer, had the hardest time of his life trying to break himself of the habit of chewing tobacco while on the stage. "I had to threaten Nick with considerable punishment before he would drop the habit," said Schaefer to Hugh Jennings one day last winter, "and on several occasions Nick started his act with a big chew stuck in one corner of his mouth. "And there were times, many of them, that Nick kicked because the orchestra got out of time to his music. Nick always insisted that the band, as he called it, was running ahead of him, and one night I had to prevent him from warring the orchestra leader as he came from the theater."

DAY MAY PILOT BOAT.

American Likely to Sail Lipton Yacht in Frisco Races. Captain Thomas Fleming Day, who piloted the motorboat Detroit across the Atlantic last summer, probably will be selected as the navigating officer of the yacht which Sir Thomas Lipton will send to San Francisco to compete in the races there during the Panama-Pacific International exposition. The yacht will be called the Shamrock and will be the fifth of that ilk if the New York Yacht club gives Sir Thomas the privilege of sailing Shamrock IV for the America's cup. The yacht will cross the Atlantic under its own sail, be towed through the Panama canal and go thence up the Pacific coast to San Francisco, again under its own canvas. The racer will be convoyed by Sir Thomas' steam yacht Erin.

EXPECT MUCH OF OVERALL.

Cub Pitcher, Who Was Out For Three Years, Expected to Strengthen Team. Chicago baseball fans are particularly interested in the welfare of Orvie Overall, the giant pitcher of the Cubs, who recently joined the team after being out of big league baseball for three years. Manager Evers says that if "Big Jeff" is as good as he was in 1900 the Cubs will have something to say about where the pennant will fly. Overall does not expect to do any pitching until the middle of May, or possibly June 1, as he does not want to take any unnecessary chances with his arm in the cold weather. He has developed a spittal ball he believes will greatly increase his effectiveness. Overall has dropped twenty pounds of superfluous flesh in the last few weeks and can work hours without feeling any bad effects. Three years ago Overall was considered one of the best pitchers in the game and materially aided the Chicago team in capturing two pennants. He has been playing semiprofessional ball on the coast for the past two years and claims he has lost none of his cunning.

Meyer Ought to Make Good. Commenting on the good work being done by Benny Meyer with Brooklyn, an eastern writer suggests that he ought to be a finished ball player, as he has played under John McGraw, Joe McGinnity and Joe Kelley, three past masters at developing players.

Frisco to Hold Harness Meet in 1915. San Francisco horsemen plan two light harness horse meets in 1915, with purses aggregating $225,000. Getting at the Truth.

Was he rich, or was he poor? She wanted very much to know before giving him an answer to the momentous question. So, after thinking deeply for a minute, "I'm afraid we shouldn't get along very well," she said. "You are too extravagant!" "Extravagant!" he repeated. "On the contrary, I'm very economical. I have to be," he added as an afterthought. "Then I can never consent to be your wife." "Because I'm economical?" he gasped, astonished at her logic. "No," she replied. "but because you have to be."—Pearson's Weekly.

High School News

The junior debating team at the high school has donated a part of the prize they won in their contest with the sophomores to lessen the class debt. The freshmen will give a class picnic at Schuener's park on Saturday, May 31. This is the last high school function of the year, and promises to be a well-patronized affair. The committees in charge are: Invitation, Maxine Telford, Mike Meyers and Ted Scheuer; entertainment, Mildred Tchirgi, Carrie Moore, Meda Angel, Albert Roake and George Roos; refreshment, Clair Miller, Mary White, Marvel Ely, Virginia Shaw and "Fat" Beattie. The senior class play will be given next Sunday at Shively's opera house. Members of the cast are working hard at rehearsal, and expect to make this play the best of all that the class has given.

KRAXBERGERS GATHER TO CELEBRATE FREEDOM

A reunion was last week held at Macksburg by the Kraxberger family, to celebrate the 24th anniversary of the landing of the family in America. Forty-five members of the family were present, among them being the eight brothers who left Austria, because the governmental restrictions became so galling and irksome that they could no longer endure the persecutions of government officials. At that time the brothers were forced to leave Austria secretly, as the government allowed no one to leave without permission. Casting their lot in America they have become influential citizens of Macksburg. They propose to make the observance of the anniversary an annual event. "GRASS", BERRIES HEAD LOCAL LIST

Asparagus is still finding a ready sale, and prices are firm though varying. In Portland wholesale markets, the "grass" is quoted at from $1.10 to $1.25 per dozen bunches, while in outside markets where the farmer deals directly the prices range from ten cents to two-bits under this quotation. The stock still remains prime, and is in good demand.

State strawberries, together with the luscious Washington fruit, are ruling the berry market and forcing imported southern fruit to the background. Owing to increased arrivals of state berries, the prices are being shaded somewhat, though as the fruit is bettering in quality, not much cutting is being done. Berries are to be had retail from ten cents to two-bits a box, depending on quality.

String beans and green peas are firm and are in good demand. Gooseberries are being offered freely, but do not keep. Potatoes are not mentioned politely by market people at all.

Eggs, still being bought by commission houses at 21 cents, are falling off in quality, according to Portland reports. It is believed that poultry men are selling their prime stock direct to consumers, and are turning over "seconds" to the market trade. Butter is holding firm, with the demand increasing. There has been no change in price.
