

LOGAN BERRY CROP PAYS $400 AN ACRE

"From a strictly commercial point of view the loganberry seems to be one of the best business propositions that is open to the small fruit grower of the northwest at the present time," says Prof. V. R. Gardner of the Oregon Agricultural College.

"If an average of five tons is obtained, this means an income of approximately $400 an acre," he continues. "With an average yield of only four tons, a very moderate estimate indeed, the income an acre would be $320. The cost of picking amounts to about $25 a crate, or $20 a ton. This leaves a very good margin to cover the cost of production and for profit upon the amount of capital invested."

"Heretofore the demand for loganberries has been more or less limited. The fruit is comparatively soft and not suitable for long distance shipment. With the development of the canning trade and with the discovery that the fruit can be dried to advantage, a very large market is open to it.

"Canneries are willing to pay about four cents a pound, or $60 a ton for the fresh fruit at the same price that they pay for raspberries and strawberries. They are able to pay this price because they can sell it to practically the same trade that takes these fruits, and it is no more costly to put on the market in quantity. Furthermore, it seems very likely that they will continue to pay this price for it, for the prices of strawberries and raspberries will tend to establish a level below which it cannot well drop."

$1.20 CAUSES ROW AND FINE BATTLE

Emulating more or less the heavyweight champions, "Pat" Edwards and J. M. Murphy "mixed it" Monday afternoon at Fifth and Main streets, and were having a battle royal when Deputy Sheriff Henry Striebig and Arthur Williams butted into the mill and separated the contestants. Later Deputy Striebig turned the two recalcitrant citizens over to the local police, who in turn arraigned them before Recorder Stipp, where they drew respectively $5 and $25.00 fines.

The argument started, it is said, over $1.20, which was a matter of difference between the two men. Words grew to more words, and gradually the conversation became harsh and explicit. Finally, it is said, Mr. Murphy intimated pretty directly that there was something the matter with the brand of veracity that Mr. Edwards was using, and then blows took the place of mere breath. Both men tip the scales in the neighborhood of 200 pounds, and are stalwart and well built in proportion. Friends and onlookers who saw the mill say that both men ought to go in training for the honor of being "white hope" in the place of Luther McCarty, lately killed by a blow over the heart.

Baldheaded Row

Early Piety Not Always the Cause of Baldness
Inasmuch as it is an accepted fact that baldness, falling hair and dandruff are caused by a germ, doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to prevent such calamities is to kill the germs.

And doesn't it stand to reason that the only way to kill these germs is to use Parisian Sage, which Huntley Bros. Co. has so much faith in that they guarantee it to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back?

SENIORS, POISONED, PLANNING REVENGE

Professor Wagner, instructor in chemistry, leader in athletics and keeper of the "first aid" kit at the high school, was a busy man Saturday and Monday. Not only did he have his usual duties to attend to, but he was kept on the jump applying soothing lotions to sores of the senior picnic that members of that class acquired last week when they went on an interrupted hayrick ride.

Shortly after the return from the picnic the seniors began to blossom forth with a beautiful rash, and with a peculiar itching. At first rumors of scarlet fever and smallpox were rife, and then it developed that nothing more serious was wrong than a generous sprinkling of the aftermath of frolic in poison oak. Whether the youths acquired their decoration when the hayrick broke down, or whether they got it at the park has not yet been determined; but that they got there is no doubt.

However, the seniors are not as vexed at the matter as they might be, for they see a dawning revenge ahead of them. The freshmen are going to hold a similar picnic, and upper classmen who are already tired of being laughed at by the neophytes declare that they will get their revenge when the younger set goes out. Just how they are going to enforce an acquaintance between the freshmen and poison oak they have not revealed, but they are willing to wager that the freshmen get tangled up in the same stuff.

FOOTBALL WORK TO START

Spring football practice for the high school team will begin Tuesday or Wednesday of this week. Practice will of necessity be light, but it is the aim of Athletic Instructor Wagner to get the boys out early, and so line up material for the fall team. There is much good timber in the school, and it is expected that a strong eleven will be developed.

MAN GETS FISH, TICKET, FREEDOM

Feeling the urgent need of a salmon, one of the paper mill employees Friday morning wandered out to the falls and caught one of the real fish with a gaff. The act was noted by one of the water bailiffs, who was on patrol at the time, and the man's identity was also discovered. Shocked and pained at this breach of the fish law code, the bailiff laid an information before Justice Sievers, and a warrant for the defender was issued. Instead of going to the mill at once to get the man, however, Justice Sievers suggested that perhaps it would be better to wait until five o'clock, when the criminal would be through his work, and would have earned at least a full day to apply upon his fine.

Constable Jack Frost took the warrant and went to the mill at the appointed hour, and waited for his quarry. At half past five he was still waiting, and at six the constable became nervous and started inquiries. Then it developed that the fish poacher had been warned of the fate awaiting him, and early in the afternoon had obtained a transfer to the Callahan plant, of the same company, had drawn his pay, bought his ticket south, and left for the land of (advertised) sunshine and oranges.

Constable Frost was much peeved. This is the first prisoner that he has gone after that he has failed to get, and he feels that in justice to his reputation the court ought to appoint him a special officer and send him south after the fugitive and the salmon. Justice Sievers does not see it in that light however, and Frost is doubly sad over the loss of both the prisoner and the California trip.

LOCAL YACHTSMEN SEE SPEEDY RAGE

Oregon City motorboat enthusiasts joined in the run to Wilsonville Sunday with members of the Portland Motorboat club, and reported a thoroughly good time. A number of the races were entered by local boats, and all acquitted themselves well. People who went from here saw the remarkable race between the Vamoose and the Oregon Wolf II, in which the former title holder was beaten by over a hundred feet in the six-mile race. The two speed boats traveled at a rate in excess of 40 miles an hour for most of the course, but the Vamoose was never for a moment in danger.

The H. W. Scott, of the Portland Harbor patrol, won the free-for-all and finished second in the race for boats averaging 15 miles an hour and under. The Martha King, owned by Ray King, finished second in the free-for-all, with the Laureate, owned by Charles Kranz, third. The Leslie S., owned by Leslie Seabrook, was first in the 15-mile class race, with the H. W. Scott second and the Reo owned by Volger Bros., third.

WARM TIME WAITS CALIFORNIA FOLKS

The Royal Oaks, the unique organization of five wives of Oakland, Cal., are coming north 200 strong by special train to capture the Portland Rose Festival. Enroute, they will visit in many cities of Western Oregon, spreading the gospel of optimism and good fellowship. The members of the order are preparing special stunts for the trip and getting ready a number of surprises to spring at the various stops. Oregon City will be one of their calling points.

Fully uniformed, they will march in the Rose Festival parade and will participate in all the features of Portland's great floral frolic. While here they will have the Royal Rosarians, the organization of local boosters, for their playmates, and they will have at their command the whole city and everything in it. Nothing will be too good, it is announced, for Portland's guests.

They will be taken on board the flagship of the Rose Festival fleet for the trip down the Willamette river to welcome Rex Oregonus, king of the Festival, and his royal suite to Roseburg.

The king and queen of the Pasadena Rose Festival will be given an elaborate reception by Rex Oregonus and his court, in which the royalties of the different floral fetes of the coast will receive their subject and these monarchs will owe allegiance to none save the rose, which all are pledged to honor.

A program has been arranged for the city's guests that appears to preclude the possibility and possibility of more than 40 winks of sleep for the Royal Oaks during the week.

MISS CRAWFORD TO SPEAK

A PAYING BUSINESS.

Authors Who Don't Neglect Home Duties For Literary Work.
"I am aware," said Mrs. Rinehart, author of popular plays and novels, in a recent interview, "that folks imagine Mary Roberts Rinehart is an old maid, with a lean, wrinkled face, spectacles, a dress that doesn't fit and perhaps a parrot, or that she is minish in her garb and yearns for a vote, or that she talks of art and the wonders of Bohemia. I know they do, and it hurts me."

"I'm a regular person, with a home and a husband and three children, with all the desire of my sex to wear the best gowns I can have and wear them as well as the next woman. I don't yearn for a vote. I don't talk about art, because I'm busy with my household and my writing. As for Bohemia, I have no part or parcel of it."

"We have a Pomeranian and an Airedale terrier and a Persian cat. We have a lot of chickens—Orpingtons, Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes, all white—and a few turkeys."

"I have a very pleasant library in our home at Sewickley. It is equipped with all the books, pictures and desks that any author's heart could desire, but I can't write in it. The only work I can do in our house is running the house. In a Pittsburgh office building I have a small office, with a plain table and chair in it. There I do my writing. I consider five hours' work a good day, and then I go back to Sewickley and take up my household duties and pleasures again."

"So you see literature is more of a business than a passion with me. I like to write, but it doesn't take up all my thoughts. There is a demand for what I turn out, and I produce it as carefully and conscientiously as any manufacturer would produce collars or candy."

"It has had its rewards like any other business. There were lean years and fat years. The leanest of the lean years brought $1,200, and in the fattest of the fat I earned $50,000. I once made $5,000 in three weeks."

The Velvet Waistband.

Black or colored velvet ribbon of excessive width forms sashes for new lingerie frocks.

One of these new models is made of white batiste, all over hand embroidered with a rather large and cold floral pattern, and inset between the garlands with small squares of creamy lace. About the waist at its normal line is a girde of flame colored velvet ribbon, which at the back is tied in a butterfly bow.

The loops of the bow are drawn upward and caught against the shoulder blades, while the long ends fall over the demitrain of the skirt.

New Cotton Fabrics.

The semi-military Balkan styles lend themselves well to development in the new cotton stuffs. Belted jackets of raffie or eponge are mounted over skirts of cotton crepe or harmonica, crepe with a thickened thread in the weave which gives the effect of pin tucks or broken stripes. Buttons are the first requisite of the Balkan costume, and the buttons must be gay enough to make themselves heard, so to speak, on the costume or their effect will be lost. With such frocks are worn hats of a smart semi-tailored character and buttoned boots of white buckskin.

Victor Emmanuel II's Long Mustache.

Sir Frederick Carrington is said to have possessed the finest mustache in the British army. It was not so long, however, as that worn by Victor Emmanuel II, whom the Duchess of Sutherland described as "the only knight of the Garter I have ever seen who looked as if he would certainly have the best of it with the dragon."

The first ruler of United Italy allowed his mustache to attain such a length that in his later years he would never eat anything at a public banquet. He was obliged to tie his mustache behind his head when taking food, and this he thought looked undignified in front of people not belonging to his own circle.—London Globe.

MUSICAL COMEDY TROUPE COMING

By way of a change from vaudeville Manager Murphy will offer the Frank Rich company at the Star theatre for an engagement of four days opening Thursday evening, May 29th. The announcement has been received with much favor by the patrons of this popular theatre. There are twenty people in the organization, and they come here direct from a long run in Vancouver, and bring with them their entire equipment, which is the largest carried by any popular priced organization in America.

The stage settings and electrical effects are said to be finer than any ever seen outside of the big road shows. Each bill will be given in the entirety, and will include many novel numbers by the chorus, which is well-known throughout the country as the "Sunshine Girls."

The production is brought out under the personal management of Walter F. Smith, business manager of the Frank Rich company. Mr. Smith who is a theatrical man of wide experience, declares that he is willing to risk his reputation on the present company. "We deliver the goods," said Mr. Smith, "and we base the reputation of our shows on delivering the goods. We don't advertise what we haven't got, and we produce everything that we advertise. That is our system, and has been the backbone of our popularity."

THE LATEST FASHION NOTE

Says: "It is a wise precaution against getting holes in delicate hosiery to powder the shoes before putting them on." Many people sprinkle the famous antiseptic powder, Allen's Foot-Lose, into the shoes, and find that it saves its cost ten times over in keeping holes from forming as well as lessening friction and consequent chafing and acting of the feet.

Mount Scott Chapter, U. D., Order of Eastern Star, of Lents, will come to Oregon City Tuesday night for a fraternal visit to Pioneer chapter, at its regular communication. All members of the local chapter are requested to be present at the meeting.

O. C. WHITE SOX 10, PIEDMONT MAROONS 1.

Playing in mid-season form, the Commercial club White Sox of Oregon City won their initial game from the Piedmont Maroons, of Portland, by the overwhelming score of 10 to 1 Sunday. The game was played on the Peninsula park grounds, and was witnessed by 700 fans. Several sensational plays were pulled off by the locals, the most noticeable being the long backward run by Bruce into deep right field pulling down a hard fly; George Miller's brilliant stops at third base and Carothis home run in the 9th.

Arch Long, pitching for the White Sox, was there with air tight ball and fielded his position perfectly. Piedmont's lone run was made in the fourth, a single by Leopold and a triple by Doty, pushed Leopold across the plate. Base stealing by the Sox was a common occurrence. Riley of Piedmont, allowed 8 hits, fanned 8 and struck 4 men by pitched balls.

Long whiffed 5, allowed 5 hits, two being very scratchy, and issued no passes. The Sox play the Blue Bells of Portland, on the Canemah park field Decoration Day, Friday, May 30th, at 2:00 p. m.
