The West must plead guilty to being young but as to being provincial. that is another matter. Probably every person in the West knows more about the doings and habits and customs of the rest of the world than does the average New Yorker. The typical Gothamite has his vision limited by the East river on the one hand. Washington on the south the Hudson river on the west and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street on the north. People who live beyond that shopping thoroughfare, whether in Upper Harlem or the Bronx, are not regarded as belonging to "our set" by good New Yorkers.

New York still thrills over "Western" moving pictures, many of which are enacted and made in New Jersey. Its knowledge of the real West, and of the West's broadness and independence and development, is limited to what it reads in Mr. Willie Ranolph Hearst's "magazine sections," and to the gossip that sifts gradually into the Great White Way about San Francisco and the Alaskan coal fields To New York all Westerners wear sombreros, pack Colt's 45's, and drink red whiskey. Therefore, New York and "Life" are duly-shocked that Mr. Bryan should offer his guests grape juice and lemonade.

Maybe New York ought to be shocked. Perhaps the process of receiving the shock will make it more broad-minded and charitable. And if this results, maybe when the editor of "Life" next comes West, and some hospitable soul invites him to have a drink, and offers him only one brand of beverage, with the commen: "you can drink my brand of poison or go without, stranger, for its all I've got -maybe then "Life" will-realize that there is a sort of noble hospitality in it after all. The man who has the consumate nerve to offer to profes sional diplomats a temperance drink at a state banquet deserves some thing better than sneers; he do serves a medal for bravery.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The idea of the mastership of man over woman has changed to the idea of equal partnership and right between man and wife and the loftiest type of family life that I know is in the homes where that equality is accepted as a matter of course. Votes for women will not cure all evils. If I thought that I'd take 'em away from men. But in no state where suffrage has been tried has it done damage, and in every state it has bettered social and industrial conditions. All the arguments against it are duplicated in the arguments against manhood suffrage a century ago. Our democracy is based on the theory that the average man shall be the controlling factor in the government. Our whole effort is toward that. We have made the average man the master. All we propose to do now is to put his partner alongside him.-Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

Cost of Living Is High Because We Are a Nation of Cities

HE COST OF LIVING IS HIGH BECAUSE WE HAVE RAPIDLY BECOME A NATION OF CITIES.

Fifty-five per cent of our population today lives in cities and towns. Twenty-five per cent of our population lives in cities of one hundred thousand or more. In 1950 there will be three hundred million people in the United States, and if the present drift continues seventy-five per cent of them will live in our cities. Then we will have a FAMINE AND THEN A REVOLUTION. The high cost of living brought on the French revolution.

OUR LIVING IS HIGH BECAUSE WE ARE POOR FARMERS. TO REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING OUR FARMERS MUST BE TAUGHT HOW TO INCREASE THEIR YEARLY YIELD. TO THIS END WOULD GIVE NATIONAL AID TO AGRICULTURE AND TEACH AGRICULTURE IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The living is high because our immigration of more than one million a year CROWDS, EIGHTY PER CENT. OF IT, INTO OUR CITIES. These newcomers should be distributed on the soil and become producers rather than consumers.

I would reduce the high cost of living by ESTABLISHING A PUBLIC MARKET IN EVERY CITY IN AMERICA, as they have done in Europe. The ELIMINATION OF THE MID-DLEMAN and his profits and expenses by buying direct from the factory is the solution of the problem, and the parcel post is helping in that direction.

Heart to Heart Talks

A RAINY DAY. As I write this it is raining. The water just outside my window is plunking down from a leak in the Rainy days have their uses, but for myself I prefer to invest in sunshine. On a rainy day I can almost believe in infant damnation, whereas when the sun is shining it is utterly repug-of the weather nor again of theology. Those things are only thrown in as background.

So we will literally turn our backs on both, throw a fresh log on the hearth, light our pipes and talk things over. You want to get on in the world. Well, that is just what I want you to do. You can't get on any too fast or too far to suit me so long as you play ALONE BY CHILDREN, BUT A ISITED BY THE the game square. Are you playing it square? Think it You need not tell me, but you had better not try to deceive yourself. We will assume that you are. I do not believe a man like you could long be content to play it any other way. Now, since you play fair, why don't you get ahead faster? Maybe you don't work bard enough. You can't get anywhere unless you "stir your stumps," as the saying goes. The only way to arrive is to move.

Assuming, however, that you work hard what is the trouble? Possibly you do not use enough intelligence. Outwardly all men look pretty much alike. They have the same kind of They are not widely different in phys-

What is it, then, that differentiates them, that makes one a world celebrity and the other a clodhopper? Why. it is a mere matter of brains. The winner is bound to find out the truth about things, while the other takes hearsay or prejudice or some other balf baked or inadequate process. You have got to get right down to business and think things out.

If you play fair and work and think, and if you do all these hard enough nobody can stop you.

TAMED THE MONARCH.

The Part a Silver Inkstand Played In a National Crisis,

The pages of history record many instances in which trivial incidents have shaped the destinies of nations. Ac-However, I did not start out to talk cording to a story in the New York Tribune, a small silver inkstand and the quick wit of a prime minister once played an important part in the history

William III., king of the Netherlands was a man of violent and ungovernable pull up the most comfortable chair, temper. Although in general a clever statesman, he was inclined, for some reason or other, to involve Holland in the trouble that was brewing between France and Germany in 1870. He was deaf to the appeals of his ministers. who foresaw the rule to the country that war would bring.

Thorbecke, the prime minister, resolved to make one last attempt to change his soverign's resolution. On enturing the royal presence Thorbecke was greeted with a rough "Good morning! What's the news?"

'Nothing particular, your majesty Only the people of The Hague are talking a great deal of nonsense about your majesty."

"About me!" exclaimed the monarch, in wrath. "What do they say about me?"

"Well, sir," answered the old statesman, "The Haguers declare that your majesty has become stark, staring Before he could utter another hands and legs, faces and bodies. word King William, his face purple with fury, jumped up and seized a heavy silver inkstand, with the intention of hurling it at the head of the premier. Fortunately a projecting and gle of the inkstand caught in the tablecloth and dragged it off the table with everything upon it. In the confusion the discharge of the missile was delayed for a moment. "Sire," exclaimed Thorbecke quietly.

"if your majesty hurls that beautiful inkstand at my head The Hagners will have much reason for their assertion!" For a minute the angry king gazed in silence at his minister. Then he gradually lowered his arm and replaced the inkstand on the table. He walked to one of the windows and stood looking out for a few minutes. Returning to the table, he resumed his seat and said, as if nothing had happened: "And now tell me what you have got to say."

An hour later, when the statesman left, he carried with him the monarch's promise to issue a proclamation that would declare the neutrality of Holland.

Dropped. "Why does Miss Eider always drop her eyes when she meets you?"

"If you will never give it away ! will tell you. She drops her eyes because I saw her drop her teeth one
