SOME TIMELY OBSERVATIONS

This is the time of the year when people catch cold. They do this just to prove to themselves that summer has not really started, even if the weather does seem that way. They also do it because of the first wild and fervid desire to do without the clothing weights that they have been wearing all winter. As in most other things, mankind goes from one extreme to the other, and the man who has been wearing an overcoat and flannels blossoms out in a silk shirt and haliburgans, and then goes around to the doctor and asks him what is good for what ails him. The wise doctor gives him sugar of milk, charges him two dollars and a half, and advises him to "dress warmly for a few days."

This is also the time of the year when residents discover that mosquitoes are going to be just as bad this year as they were last. Particularly is this discovered by sweet things of both sexes who have burst forth into low shoes and thin stockings. The lower the shoes and thinner the other things, the more will mosquitoes be noticed; though as a matter of scientific fact the mosquitoes have been around ever since about the first of May.

The approaching change in the season may also be noticed by other phenomena of yearly recurrence. One may observe open cars on the interurban line. Most people think open cars are run because the great and good transportation firm believes the weather is warm. Such is not the case. Open cars are run because

HOT? YES.

A cool home on the hill, two blocks from the bluff, 4 blocks from 7th street steps, on the corner; one street improved, concrete sidewalk on the other street; 6-room up-to-date house with sleeping porch, wood shed; plenty of room for a good garden. $1650.00, $650.00 cash, the balance to run for 3 years at 6 per cent, or on monthly installments. If you see this place you will want it.
Dillman & Howland

more people are traveling, and because extra equipment is needed. And the only extra equipment on hand consists of open cars. If extra equipment, to the same degree, was needed in December, open cars would be run. The seasons are only reckoned in nickles and dimes by all transportation companies. Warm weather, more nickles; more nickles, more cars, demand for more cars, open cars. It is well to understand these things.

This is also the time of the year when municipalities and other divisions lay plans for oiling highways. They do it about this time of the year because it has become a habit. The roads have been dusty for the past month, but summer was too far away on the calendar for it to be noticed. Over in Eastern Washington, where the dust begins to blow as soon as the snow melts, they wait until June before they oil the roads, too. It is a matter of habit. In fact most of this "summer talk" is a matter of habit. Everywhere the approach of June brings on an epidemic of brides, and an epidemic of colds and an epidemic of mosquitoes, and all the other stuff. And also about this time of the year, everywhere, it will be found that observations more or less like these steal into the columns of the daily press.

SIX CENTS

Colonel Roosevelt has AND OTHERS been duly justified, and honor has been satisfied. Editor Newett said the Colonel drank too much, and the Colonel brought suit for libel. A jury heard the evidence, Newett heard it—the world at large read some of it. The jury decided the Colonel had been damaged to the amount of six cents. Editor Newett decided that he might have overstated the matter, and retracted his words—and the world is going on about the same, save that it has had an insight into the character of the Bill Moose Hope that it did not have before.

For instance, Jacob Riis, the truthful chronicler of the life of Theodore, testified under oath that the Colonel never, to his knowledge, used violent language. Maybe Jacob Riis is right. Jake, as his friends know him, said that the "strongest" term he had heard the Colonel use was "By Godfrey." And mark right there what a fall has come to the doughy Colonel's reputation. Recall for a moment that stirring scene at San Juan hill in which history recounts that Col. Roosevelt dashed madly up the slope at the head of his soldiers, shouting "Come on, boys, let's lick 'em—out of them."

It is true that certain historians say the Colonel stood at the foot of the hill and pointed up, and said "go on boys, etc." But regardless of that detail, how the picture fades if, as Jacob Riis would have it believed, the Colonel dashed ahead—or stood behind—and said merely: "Come on boys—go on boys—and lick 'em, by Godfrey." Somehow the whole scene is spoiled; spoiled so that it is not even worth six cents.

"Ready For War" Means Millions Spent Uselessly

By ANDREW CARNEGIE

LITTLE do our people realize the cost of what is called national defense against IMAGINARY FOES of unduly frightened army and naval officials doomed to live peaceful days and spend their lives dreaming of active life which they are destined never to experience. THE CHIVALRY, THE HEROISM OF WAR IS GONE. To shoot from a warship at unseen foes ten miles distant or shooting from under cover at a foe a mile distant is NOT CONDUCTIVE TO THE GROWTH OF THE HEROIC.

Little do our people know the cost of defense against imaginary foes. Listen and ponder over this. The army estimates for this year are $149,153,320; navy estimates, $154,100,000. The actual expenditure usually exceeds the estimates by some millions. We find that in round numbers, always tending to increase, our military and naval expenditure combined exceeds $300,000,000 per year, just about $1,000,000 every working day—A RUINOUS INSURANCE PRICE TO PAY FOR SUPPOSED SECURITY FROM INVASION, from which we have been free for a hundred years and which today is impracticable.

MEN WHO REFUSED TODAY TO WALK ABROAD WITHOUT LIGHTNING RODS DOWN THEIR BACKS WITH A GROUND CONNECTION, BECAUSE MEN HAVE BEEN STRUCK WITH LIGHTNING, WOULD BE THE COUNTERPARTS OF THOSE WHO FEAR INVASION, THE FIRST RISK, HOWEVER, BEING MUCH GREATER THAN THE SECOND.

POPE 78 ON MONDAY

Pope Pius X., the head of the Roman Catholic church, was born June 2, 1835, at Riese, in the Venetian province of Treviso. His parents were of the peasantry class. In early youth the future pontiff was sent from the village school to the college at Castel Franco, and then to the central seminary at Padua. At twenty-three years of age he was ordained to the priesthood. For eight years he was a country curate and then he was made the head of a parish. Eight years later he became the bishop of Treviso. In 1884 he was created bishop of Mantua. For nine years he remained at Mantua and then Pope Leo immediately afterward he became the patriarch of Venice, which dignity he retained until elected the head of the church in 1903, following the death of Pope Leo.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

GET THE SUCCESS HABIT.

There is a whole lot in atmosphere and attitude. Like attracts like. The man who looks prosperous and acts prosperous will attract prosperity. Get the success habit. It is irresistible. Don't be too much of a shrinking daisy. Shrinking daisies have their place, but not in the modern world of business. The shrinking man will usually have a shrinking trade. In the language of a former president, "buck the line hard." Even the man you buck up against will like you the better for it. I remember once hearing a very expressive line, "Play up and play the game." If you are going to get in the game at all you have to play it for all you are worth. I once heard of a business man who was down to his last $3. He fortunately had a dress suit left, however, so he arrayed himself in his glad habitment, spent his last $3 for a ticket at a swell theater, sat beside a man with whom he got into conversation and succeeded in interesting this man in a business deal that put the chap who had spent his last three back on his feet. He kept his nerve and played the game. He had the success habit. Psychology may count for more than capital. Often the chief use of cash is to put a man in the right mental attitude to get more. He should have the mental attitude, however, even if he lacks the cash. After all, your mental capital is your chief asset. Don't get bankrupt in that, whatever may happen to your bank account. Look like a winner. If you do the doorman to the temple of success may think you belong inside and let you pass. Floating Population. We presume the term "floating population" originated with Noah and the ark.

A PETRIIFIED WATERFALL.

Algeria's Stone Cataract is Called "the Bath of the Damned."

With all the beauty of a cataract of living water there is in Algeria a remarkable petrified waterfall which recently has been engaging the attention of scientists. This is the Hammam-Meskutin, which means "the bath of the damned," and it is located sixty-two miles from Constantine, on the site of the ancient town of Cirta.

This solidified cascade is the production of calcareous deposits from sulphurous and ferruginous mineral springs, issuing from the depths of the earth at a temperature of 95 degrees C. "The bath of the damned," even from a near viewpoint, looks for all the world like a great wall of water dashing into a swirling pool at its foot, yet its gleaming, graceful curves and the apparently swirling eddies at its base are as fixed and immovable as if carved from the face of a granite cliff.

Many centuries have, of course, gone to the making of the deposits, and the springs were well known to the ancient Romans. The name Hammam-Meskutin was given to the stone cataract in an allusion to the legend that the waterfall was petrified by Allah, punishing the impety of unbelievers by turning all the members of a tribe into stone. At night, so the story runs, its stone dwellers of the remote past are freed from their strange fetters, come to life and resume their normal shapes.—Illustrated London News.

Misjudged Her.

"I desire to insert this small advertisement in your paper tomorrow morning," she said.

"This," said the advertising clerk, looking it over "will go among the 'wants.'"

"Have you no 'wish' column?"

"No, mum."

"Then, sir," said the young lady haughtily, "you need not insert it. I simply wish a situation as governess, that's all. It is not a case of want."—London Tit-Bits.

Manners of Young Men of Today Far From Good Form

By CHARLES EDWARD W. JERNINGHAM, English Writer

IN MY EARLY DAYS NO YOUNG MAN WOULD HAVE DREAMED OF LOUNGING WITH HIS LEGS STRETCHED OUT IN AN ARMCHAIR. THESE NEW MEN WHO SPRAWL AND LOUNGE ARE OLD MEN VULGARIZED.

They plant themselves down firmly, push out their legs, spread out their arms and are careless what they look like. They say in effect, "Push me out if you can, or, rather, if you dare."

To these loungers and lollers it would appear that to be a "gentleman" consists in not so much behaving as gentlemen should, but in MISBEHAVING AS A "GENTLEMAN" DOES.

If I wanted to put my finger on the one thing, above all others, that accounts for this lolling habit I should say that nearly all is due to the LOSS OF ANY KIND OF RESTRAINT IN THE NEW MEN. These lollers, whether they loll in armchairs, in clubs, in their own homes, in hotels or restaurants, in trains, the tube, bus or tram have NOT THE INSTINCT OF GOOD MANNERS IN THEM.

They are often good fellows—fellows who would willingly risk their lives pulling me out of the water if I fell into it—but they forget that I am not always falling into the water, and one such deed does not excuse them their manners.

CONFUCIAN MAXIMS.

The path of duty lies in what is near, and men seek for it in what is remote. The work of duty lies in what is easy, and men seek for it in what is difficult.

Hold faithfulness and sincerity as first principles.

Good leads men to tranquil security.

For one word a man is often deemed to be wise, and for one word he is often deemed to be foolish. We ought to be careful indeed in what we say.

Let me not say that heaven is high aloft above me. It ascends and descends about our doings. It daily inspects us wherever we are.
