FOOD FOR Considerable has been THOUGHT said of late about the ly known members of the Roman county court and its methods of doing business. Certain intersects, Ireland, June 6, 1850. In his youth moved mostly by selfishness and he accompanied his parents to the ing business. Certain intersests, pique, and also by ambition, have produced charges which so far have not been borne out by facts, and one by one the hollow accusations of mismanagement have collapsed. Throughout this campaign of mis-statement and misrepresentation. The Enterand misrepresentation. The Enter-prise has refrained from entering in-and vicar-general of the Trenton dioto the controversy, save when it has, from time to time, printed news stories dealing with the local situation. This paper has editorially ex- half of other movements looking to pressed its opinion of the frame-up the public welfare. He reorganized against the county court, but even at that it has not in any sense cham- tions, and was one of the active proploned the commissioners nor the moters of the American Federation of county judge. It has simply tried to Catholic societies. give them a square deal.

That will be the policy of The Enterprise for sometime to come. This old today. paper believes in the square deal, and it has attained its present prestige in this county largely because it bishop of Scranton, 60 years old tohas told the truth to the best of its day ability, and spared nobody in telling the truth. The Enterprise believes that it is the duty of a newspaper to print the news, and to print it as nearly correctly as it is possible to obtain it. This has been the stand of this paper in regard to the county court matter, as well as in regard to other matters.

There is another side to this county court business that has not as yet been brought to the light. Under the present control, Clackamas county has been brought to a sound financial basis for the first time since its organization. In April of this year the county was absolutely out of debt for the first time in its history. More over, it was brought to this condition in spite of the outlay of thousands of dollars for public improvements and for needed betterments in the county building. Previous county adminisknown, for instance, that the county court house was in need of repair and enlargement. Each administraand enlargement. Each administration, for reasons of its own, "passed the buck" to the next. The present county court accepted the responsibility, did the work in a creditable and efficient manner-and still had the county out of debt in April.

The present county court has built a large number of steel bridges for the public highways, replacing old and inadequate wooden structures. These bridges cost money. The county court found a way to spend this money that was required-and still had the county out of debt in April.

The present county court has cared for other things in the line of public work. It has cared for the poor, it has contributed as required to various development and booster plansand still it had the county out of debt in April.

In short, the present county commissioners and the county judge have FOR SALE-Good as new Esty organ. given Clackamas county a business administration. They have accepted FOR SALE OR TRADE-Stump-pullthe responsibilities passed down to them by previous administrations, they have met their bills, they have served the people faithfully and to FOR SALE OR RENT-5-room house the best of their ability-and they had the county out of debt for the first time in its history.

these men ought to be recalled on a batch of trumped-up, flimsy and misleading charges? Does this record make it seem that the present court is incompetent, or is stealing the people's money, or is unworthy of the trust imposed upon them? In short, is there anything in this record that gives the slightest excuse for recall talk? Any fair, open-minded man must conclude that a court that can accomplish these things is a good court, that in the main it is doing right by the people, and that it deserves the support of the people.
