

SECOND TEST WELL BORING ON TODAY

Preparations to drill a second test well north of the city limits and east of the county road across the marsh towards Gladstone were completed Tuesday, and drilling will get under way in earnest Wednesday. Though this site is often flooded with back-water from the Clackamas river, Chairman Toole, of the special water committee of the city council, believes that underlying the surface deposits rock will be struck, and that under that a stream of good water will be found. The site selected is one mentioned by Robert Dieck, when he was consulted by the special committee.

Drilling here will probably be pushed to the full depth of 150 feet which the council has empowered its committee to go. If deep level water is struck in large quantities it will be rigidly tested as to its purity, and if found free from vegetable and other matter, plans will be made to sink other wells, and to encase each bore in concrete or some other barrier that will keep surface water from percolating into the drinking supply. Even though the site for the drilling is not one which the average layman would pick as lying over a source of pure water, experts say that there is no reason why surface contamination should interfere with the purity of the subterranean supply.

No water found will be chosen for city supply until every test as to its purity has been made; and the special committee will not report favorably on the test until its members are thoroughly satisfied that there is no danger of future contamination. Drilling is now being made over what is in all probability an old river bed, buried by landslides and upheavals many thousands of years ago. If this bed is struck, and water is still found seeping along underground in its old channel, there is every reason to believe that the source of the supply will be high in the mountains, and possibly upon the slopes of Mt. Hood itself.

BITHIAS GATHER FOR BIG MEETING

Among those at the last meeting were Mrs. W. E. Johnston, Miss Mabel Moore, Miss Daisy Moller, Miss Alice Bailey, Miss Bernice Welch, Miss Mina McDowell, Miss Elva Blanchard, Miss Clara Lewis, Miss Anna Myers, Miss Wilma Myers, Miss Malva Holle, Miss Evadine Harrison, Miss Myrtle Rose, Miss Anna Larsen, Miss Jessie Bowland, Miss Nellie Swafford, Miss Hulbert and Miss Lillie Miller.

There was a veteran firemen's parade and muster in the morning, under the auspices of the Charlestown Veteran Firemen's association, and in the afternoon the usual naval, military and civic parade under the direction of the city committee.

WILL JACKSON SHINE THIS YEAR?

Cleveland Outfielder Is Out For Batting Title.

HE IMPROVES EACH SEASON.

"Shoeless" Joseph" Has Given Ty Cobb a Good Run For Two Years—Some Experts Claim He Will Eclipse Georgia Peach In Hitting Line.

Cobb, Jackson, Baker, b-z-z-z-z! Every time that the ordinary A. L. hurler thinks of this thumping trio he grabs hold of his Adam's apple to discover if he is still walking around in one chunk.

It is the earnest but none the less sincere belief of the gent who gyrates his typewriter to get out these items for the paper that the battle for leading hipster of the Johnson organization in 1913 will be a battle royal between these three monarchs of Maul.

Jackson and Baker are due to thump the everlasting wadding out of the ball this season. They have been quietly grooming themselves for the task of stealing the trophy from the glittering Cobb. This season both youngsters should be at least at their best. It took Tyros Raymond a couple of seasons to acclimate himself to the big show. It was three years before he started to violate the Sherman act as a hitter.

Cobb's first season saw him taking the place of a wabby brother at the shank of the year. The Tiger had been chewed and clawed until he looked like a pussy with a ring in its neck. Cobb stepped into his shoes and never deserted the footwear. Ty is the only gent in the Johnson aggregation who cultivated the 400 habit and allowed it to stick to him. He looks, of course, like the best bet to smash his way to stellar honors as the sweetest swatster in 1913. But the two other chaps are a-humming along and may shuffle past Ty to the post.

Skim over Jackson's record since he has been a member in good standing. As a Naplander he was a pretty frisky son of Swat. You may not believe it, but in Joseph's major league slugging fests he has a better average than Tyros Cobb. Look over the statistics of these lairds of Lam. Cobb has been trifling with the American league twirlers' shoots for five solid.

fat, busy years. In that time he has never dropped below the nobby .300 boundary. He has peered over the .400 hedge twice. His total batting average for these five years registers .383. Taking Cobb's personal mention by years, the statistics appear in the following form: 1908, .324; 1909, .377; 1910, .385; 1911, .420; 1912, .410.

Dating back Mr. Cobb's royal record to the time that Joe Jackson became a steamed contempt of this smashout southerner, you find that Tyros has an average as fat as an elephant's instep.

Now skim your orbs across the Jackson dope sheet during his three years of chopping down the old B. A. When Jackson slambanged for an entire season he just naturally fell into the lockstep with T. Raymond. Joe slatered the shoots for .387 in 1910 and had the proud and distinguished place of honor among the potentates of the punch for that year. His two following seasons netted him the following numerals: .408 and .395. These figures—and figures are supposed to tell no falsehoods—stamp him as a .400 puncher without fuss or furbelows.

DO SMALL THINGS. You are waiting to do some great thing. You are all waiting to pull down some great evil. Perform the small things that are unseen, and they will bring other and greater things for you to perform. You would bleed and die for your country. Citizenship does not demand any such act of heroism. Do the small things, and the first one that comes to you, and a second will immediately come.—John Bright.

MASSIVE CULVERT FINISHED SHOWERS GREET

On the Borland road on Saum Creek in Road District No. 31 has just been constructed a new culvert that is a fine specimen of highway building. The construction was in charge of R. DeNeil, supervisor of the road district, and the culvert takes the place of an old bridge that was condemned last fall. Two hundred and eighty sacks of cement were used in the construction of the culvert, which was built below a 20 per cent grade. The county road on both sides of the culvert will be sloped gradually to it. The dimensions of the culvert are 10x12x10 feet. Road Supervisor DeNeil is standing at the extreme right in the accompanying illustration.

SHOWERS GREET TEACHERS' CAMP

Camp life for Clackamas county teachers in attendance at the first annual summer school at Gladstone park began yesterday in the bright sunshine. After the school had been organized, the program outlined, and the instructors divided into groups and study classes, the sky became overcast. By supper time it looked like rain, and after the evening meal, when the school principals and pedagogues wandered out in the open to enjoy an evening about the campfires, it was sprinkling.

Teachers thereupon went to their tents, and by that time the rain was doing its Oregon best. Retirement was a rather complicated process, owing to puddles that formed on the tent floors, and moisture that seeped through seams in the new canvass. However, the teachers made the best of it, and while some few sought shelter in their homes, or the homes of nearby friends, most of them stuck it out, deciding that camp life would not be real unless there was some discomfort.

PATRIOTIC DANCE SOON

While merchants of this city have given up all plans for a special Fourth of July celebration, owing to many rival gatherings planned by nearby communities, one feature of the original program will be held. This is the special ball, to be given in the evening in Busch's hall, under the management of Frost and Edwards. Former dances arranged by Jack Frost and his partner have been successful and well attended, and it is expected that the Fourth of July affair will prove popular.
