ELEVATOR ARGUMENT STIRS UP COUNCILMEN

Contract for the construction of a public elevator from the business section to the top of the bluff at Seventh street will probably be let to the Oregon Bridges & Construction company for $11,980 as a result of the action of the city council at a special meeting Friday afternoon. While no decision in the matter of letting the contract was reached, the council voted to accept and approve the bid, and if nothing goes wrong the mayor and recorder will be authorized to sign the contract at a special meeting to be held next Wednesday afternoon at half-past four.

These were the final developments of a particularly stormy session of the council, which was opened by the reading of the report of the special elevator committee, which has had the bids under consideration since last Wednesday. The committee recommended that the bid of $11,980 be accepted and the contract awarded to the above-named company. Councilman Holman thereupon moved that the report of the committee be accepted, and that the mayor and city recorder enter into a contract with the Oregon Bridges & Construction company.

Followed a silence. Then Councilman Meyer rose to mention that there might be some trouble about securing a right-of-way across private land for the landing at the upper end of the elevator, and asked City Attorney Stone to tell what was being done towards securing this land. Mr. Stone replied that notice of condemnation proceedings had been given, and that he did not think the city would have any trouble in securing the property. He suggested that the council appoint a board of appraisers to fix the value of the land desired.

Mr. Holman, seeing that his former motion had not received a second, rose and moved that the report of the committee be accepted, and that the mayor and city recorder be instructed to enter into a contract as soon as the right-of-way was secured. Followed then another silence. The mayor asked if he heard a second to Mr. Holman's motion, and was told that nobody had heard any.

Councilman Beard then rose and moved that the report of the committee be accepted and placed on file. This motion was seconded and passed at once.

Mr. Tooze Asks Time.
Councilman Tooze was the next man up. He said that he would like more time in the matter so that he might examine the plans and specifications submitted, so that he could explain to his constituents, if they asked him, just what the city was undertaking to do. He thought that since so much time had already been spent on the matter, a little more would do no harm, and suggested next Wednesday as a good date upon which to take the matter up.

Mr. Holman objected to this, saying that he thought his motion ought to pass, and pointed out that as under its provisions no contract would be signed until a right-of-way for the landing had been secured, there would be ample time for the councilmen to familiarize themselves with the plans. Councilman Meyer thought so, too.

The chairman of the special elevator committee, Councilman Albright, then took up the argument. He said that his committee had thoroughly gone into the matter, and that the city attorney had informed him that there was no way private interests could stop the progress of the elevator. He pointed out that under Mr. Holman's plan there would be ample time for inquiries to be made by those who were interested.

Albright Asks Action.
"This committee has been on the job since the first of the year," he said, "and the council has had lots of time to look into the matter. I do not think it ought to be blocked now. If the council empowers the mayor to sign this contract now the bridge people are not going to put up the elevator tomorrow. They will have to wait for steel and material, and there will be lots of time for these parties to look into the details."

As he said "these parties" Mr. Albright regarded Mr. Tooze fixedly. Before Mr. Tooze could take up the apparent challenge, Councilman Beard turned the light on another angle. He said that he had not been in favor of Seventh street, but believed that what was the rest of the council wanted, so had sided with the majority. Recently however, the claims of Fourth street had been brought to his attention, and he said he believed that they should be given thoughtful and careful attention.

First Public Audience Granted to Americans By the Pope After His Recent Critical Illness.

American pilgrims to Rome were honored with the first public audience by Pope Pius X. since his recent critical illness. The pope appeared on the little balcony of the Vatican court and bestowed the papal blessing upon the throng. The picture shows his holiness, indicated by a cross. It is of particular interest because the world had never expected the pope would be able to leave his bed.

Councilman Long declared the people voted for Seventh street. He was followed by Councilman Metzger, who said:

Fourth Street Favored.
"I have looked this matter over pretty thoroughly, and I want to say that I have found the majority of the people would rather have the elevator

PACIFIC SLOPE CREW TO ENTER

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON
OARSMEN SEEK HONORS
IN EASTERN REGATTA

CORNELL IS MOST FEARED RIVAL

Lads From Northwest to Meet Classiest Athletes of Great Colleges in Race on Upper Hudson River Course

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 20.—One hundred and twelve sturdy oarsmen, divided among seventeen crews and representing six prominent universities of the country, have finished practice and are awaiting the signals that will start them in the races for glory tomorrow in the nineteenth annual regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing association. The universities are Cornell, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Wisconsin, Syracuse and Washington.

The big race of the day will be the varsity eight-oared contest, in which each of the six universities will be represented. Preceding the big race will be the two-mile race of the varsity four-oared shells, for the Kennedy challenge trophy, and the freshman eight-oared two-mile race, for the Stewards' cup. All six universities will participate in the four-oared race, but Washington will have no representative in the contest of the freshmen eights.

Chief interest, of course, centers in the contest of the varsity eights. Cornell's men of brawn, the last crew to be trained by the veteran coach, Charles E. Courtney, are picked to win. In the light of the past performance it could not well be otherwise. Of the eighteen regattas held by the intercollegiate association on the varsity eight-oared races, as the Ithaca crew this year is composed of veterans and has the further advantage of having the extreme outside course, the wide channel, sea little or no chance for them to lose.

Columbia appears to be the second favorite. Pennsylvania's chances are well thought of by many, while Syracuse, which has sprung more than one surprise in former years, is mentioned with respect. In the many years that Wisconsin has sent her crews to Poughkeepsie the Badger boys have always displayed great gameness and several times have finished well in the running.

The University of Washington, which is represented here for the first time, is naturally an unknown quantity. The crews have come from the far Northwest with the reputation of having cleaned up everything on the Pacific coast, but whether they are of a class to hold their own against Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania can be determined only by the results tomorrow.

The Hudson river course over which the races will be rowed is a straight deep stretch of water beginning three miles north of the Poughkeepsie bridge, and finishing one mile south of that structure.

THIRTY-FOOT FALL BREAKS MAN'S ARM

Shingles sliding from a pile on the roof of Tom Kelland's barn at Twilight early this week knocked down the scaffolding on which Alfred Johnson was working, and precipitated him to the ground some 30 feet below. The fall broke both of Johnson's arms.

The injured man was brought to the office of the Drs. Mount, and after the injured limbs had been set, he was taken to his home at Canemah, where he is recovering as rapidly as can be expected.

Southern Textile Association
CHARLESTON, S. C., June 20.—The annual convention of the Southern Textile association, composed of the engineers and operative officials of all the large cotton mills of the South, met here today and was called to order by President T. M. McEntira.

COOK'S RECORDS ARE NOT FOUND

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, June 20.—The ascent of the highest peak of Mount McKinley was accomplished successfully for the first time June 7, when the party led by Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, Episcopal Missionary for Alaska, accompanied by Robert G. Tatum, Harry P. Karstens and Walter Harper, reached the top of the south peak of the mountain, the highest on the continent.

News of the success of the expedition was received today by a messenger sent by Dr. Stuck, who is resting at the Base Camp.

No mention of finding the brass box Dr. Cook said he left on the peak was made.

GAME FISH STOCK TO BE INCREASED

S. S. Mohler will start Sunday for the Cascade mountains, to plant fish in the lakes for the State Game and Fish commission. He will commence this work at Detroit, Ore., and continue south to Redmond and the Bend country, planting 60,000 or more fish, in lakes which have never been stocked before.

Last summer Mr. Mohler planted 110,000 fish in 93 lakes throughout this district.

FORMER PASTOR HONORED

News has been received here that W. M. Proctor, formerly pastor of the Congregational church here, and more recently superintendent of the Forest Grove schools, has been appointed to the faculty of Pacific University.

YALE DEFEATED BY OLD ENEMY

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 20.—For the sixth time in six consecutive years Harvard's eight-oared varsity crew triumphed over the Yale oarsmen in the four-mile race that closed the annual inter-university regatta here this afternoon. Preceded by the two Crimson victories of the forenoon and the two won on Thursday, it completed a Harvard sweep that has been equaled only once or twice in the long history of Yale-Harvard rowing.

The final defeat administered to Yale was so crushing that the English stroke and rowing methods imported from Oxford are being ridiculed tonight in a manner which many veteran oarsmen think unjust.

NO MORE REDRESS IN ASSESSMENTS

Efforts to get the special committee that reviewed the assessment complaints of property owners living on Jackson, Sixteenth and J. Q. Adams streets to reconsider their report made Friday afternoon when the council gathered to take up the elevator problem, did not meet with success. Chairman Holman reported for the committee that there was no change to be made in their findings.

Objection to this was made on the grounds that many property owners had not been heard.

Oregon City opens its new Carnegie library building today. The library itself is two years old, but it has just been placed in a new structure of red brick, with trimmings of cream brick, and is a very handsome and well planned building. It stands in its own park, in the residence section of the city—but two blocks up the main thoroughfare from the business district.

With the opening of the present adequate quarters, the library becomes free to all residents of Clackamas county. Telephone service is established, by which the most remote residents of the county can have as good reference service as those near by.

On the occasion of the formal opening of the building today, it will be open for inspection afternoon and evening. Besides the librarian, Miss Price, and the assistant librarian, Mrs. Berta Adams, the following women will be present to act as hostesses: Mrs. E. P. Carter, Mrs. W. S. U'Ren, Miss Myrtle Buchanan, Mrs. J. E. Hedges, Mrs. B. T. McBain, Mrs. Charles Caulfield, Mrs. John W. Loder and Mrs. E. Kenneth Stanton.

Miss Marvin, librarian of the State library, will be present and several other librarians are expected, including Mrs. Edith Truscott, the first Oregon City librarian; Miss Northey, of the Hood River library; Miss Bailey, of the East Side branch library, of Portland, and Miss Hall, of the Grand Rapids library.

Promptly at eight in the evening the program will begin. J. E. Hedges, president of the board, will preside. B. T. McBain will make an address, and Miss Marvin will be among the speakers. It is expected that Miss Northey will tell something of what has been done at Hood River.

There will be some excellent music, vocal solos by Mrs. Leon DesLuzac and Oscar Laurence Woodfin, and piano numbers by Miss Florence Grace.

RUNAWAY CAUSES JOY FOR KIDDIES

Seventh street was made a regular strawberry patch Friday morning when a team belonging to B. A. Anderson, of Maple Lane, hauling a load of the luscious fruit to market, became frightened at a passing automobile and started down the steep hill on the upper part of the thoroughfare at breakneck speed. The light wagon behind them swayed from side to side, and at each lurch it spilled strawberries to right and left.

Near the base of the hill the team was stopped. When Mr. Anderson viewed the nice surfacing of strawberries on the street behind him, he concluded to try to pick the fruit up, and continued on into town with the balance of unspilled supplies. Small boys and young misses of the neighborhood soon gathered at the scene, however, and enjoyed themselves thoroughly in the wake of the runaway.

Unbiased spectators say that there must have been pretty nearly a million berries scattered, judging from the activity of the children; but Mr. Anderson thinks this estimate a trifle high. Aside from the loss of the fruit the runaway did no damage.
