BURIED TREASURE DUG FROM BUSCH GARDENS

While digging on Frank Busch's property at First and Jefferson streets late Friday afternoon, preparing to put in a garden, James Dawson dug up a golden coin of Asiatic origin. Two minutes later he turned up another one. Some moments later still his shovel struck a hard substance, and he unearthed a small brass statue, apparently a Buddha. In the course of a few minutes digging he unearthed about a quart of brass coins, several sets of hand-carved earrings of Oriental design, some small Indian totem poles, a number of other brass statues, and enough carved black beads to make a "rope" about six feet long.

Then he told somebody about it, and in the course of the next half-hour the neighborhood went treasure mad, and by dusk there wasn't enough left of the garden on the Busch property to assess even under a single tax system. There was just a series of holes in the ground and piles of dirt.

Stones Mark Cache.
The treasure was found between two smooth stones, oblong in shape, and evidently finished by hand. The stones were standing upright under the surface of the earth, and in a pile between them was the greater part of the find. Owing to the rush of people living nearby to the place, Mr. Busch has been unable to recover all the material uncovered, but as nearly as can be ascertained the treasure consisted of the following:

A number of gold coins of the approximate value of $10 each.
Enough brass coins to fill to atmospheric capacity a quart pail.
One or more pairs of hand-carved earrings, either of brass or gold.

Several brass statuettes of exquisite workmanship.
A number of miniature totem poles of exceptionally fine carving, though somewhat damaged by their stay in the earth.

Enough beads, if strung together, to make a necklace or "rope" about six feet long. The beads are hand-carved, and may be of ebony or ivory.
A mass of small brass or silver bells, partly welded together, as if at one time exposed to great heat.

Coins Are Oriental.
The coins could not be identified Friday evening, but apparently are Japanese or else are from one of the Asiatic countries, possibly India. The markings of one side of them suggest Arabic characters, while the markings on the other side seem to be strikingly like Japanese. Both the gold and brass coins are similarly marked, and have small square holes in the center.

The earrings are crescent-shaped, and are fine pieces of workmanship. The statuettes also show the marks of a skillful craftsman. The bells are beautifully made, but bear no marks or descriptions that could be deciphered.

As to the origin of the matter, many

ANCIENT 'MUDHOOK' IS FOUND IN RIVER

Government dredges, while at work just above the Clackamas rapids, in the Willamette river, Friday brought to the surface an old anchor that measured twelve feet across the points, and which had evidently been used at some time by an ocean-going vessel of considerable size. The rust pits in the big mud-hook were so deep that it is known the anchor is of great age, and it is estimated that it must have been imbedded in the river bottom many years ago.

No vessel carrying an anchor of this kind is known to have come up the river this distance as long as the oldest inhabitants of the county can recall, and considerable speculation is being indulged in as to how the great hook became lost in the upper river. One of the most plausible explanations so far offered is that the mud-hook may have belonged to some vessel in the service of the Hudson Bay company, which ventured on an exploring trip into this country when the fur trading post was maintained at Astoria. The anchor is of ancient make, apparently, and might have been carried by such a vessel.

Dowager Queen of Italy May Soon Pay Visit to the United States.

The dowager Queen Margherita of Italy, whose latest picture is presented above, was recently reported to be considering a trip to America. Although no definite plans have been announced, it was said she would make known her decision soon. The visit of the dowager queen to this country would be made the occasion of many celebrations by the Italian American people.

PURE BULL RUN WATER POSSIBLE

CHANGES IN PORTLAND MUNICIPAL SYSTEM MAY SOLVE OREGON CITY PROBLEM

PRESENT MAINS COULD ALL BE USED

Search for Good Local Supply Likely to Lead to Adoption of Mountain Current for Home Service

That Oregon City may solve its water troubles in the very near future by getting its supply from the Portland Bull Run pipe-line is the hope of many influential citizens who have been quietly looking into the matter for sometime past, and who now believe that they have found a way by which this "best water in the Northwest" may be piped into town at a minimum cost.

Two years ago this matter was taken up with the Portland water board, but as that body was appointive, and only held office until the end of May or Rushlight's term, the members of the board felt that they could not enter into a contract with Oregon City for a period extending beyond their term of office. With the adoption of the new charter, however, and the abolishment of the water board, it is believed that the incoming commissioners can enter into a contract for a term of 50 years or more, and can deliver water for Oregon City's use at any point on the pipe line that may be desired. The completion of a second pipe-line, doubling the supply of water available, also helps along the plan.

Citizens whose public-spiritedness has moved them to go into the matter have already had preliminary talks with the incoming commissioners of Portland, and believe that the matter can be satisfactorily arranged. Until the commissioners take office and get formally organized, however, the matter will not be taken up officially. Indications are that the scheme can be carried out, and that the only expense entailed will be the building of a pipe line from Oregon City to tap the Bull Run line, and a nominal water charge. As the plan is at present, it is believed that the best place to tap the Bull Run pipe line will be in the neighborhood of Gray's Crossing. At this point the pipe line has an elevation of about a hundred feet above the business portion of Oregon City. It is estimated that a pipe line eight miles long will be sufficient to carry the

WILSON WATCHES UNMERGING PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 27.—President Wilson brushed aside late today all plans for a week's trip to Cornish, N. H., the Summer capital, to examine immediately the tentative agreement reached between Attorney-General McReynolds and the railroad attorneys for the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger to prevent, if possible, the appointment of a receiver.

Unless a method of dismembering the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific satisfactory to the judges of the United States court for the eighth circuit is submitted by July 1, the United States supreme court has ordered the dissolution of the merger by government receivership.

CAMP MEETING? WELL, HARDLY!

NO, Anxious Inquirer, the Chautauqua is NOT a religious camp meeting. The Chautauqua directors this year can boast of almost every other possible form of attraction, but are forced to admit that they haven't a camp meeting, nor anything like it. Pamahasika, (whose picture is shown above) and who with his troupe of educated pets, is to be the children's day attraction at the coming assembly.

Pamahasika

ably, way, Pamahasika never heard of such a thing, and his trained parrots would swear like troopers if they thought they were to perform at a camp meeting on the evening of July 8th.

Pamahasika and his pets are to appear at Chautauqua the first day, as a special attraction for the kids—young and old. With the assistance of his trained pets, Pamahasika gives a wonderfully interesting performance. His birds and dogs go through most wonderful stunts and seem endowed with human understanding. This performance is one which cannot be duplicated on the American continent. This entertainment is to be purely a recreative attraction for the patrons, and was given a place on the first day's program, that the busy campers might be given an exhilarative treat after the arduous labors of first day camp life.

So, anxious inquirer, feel perfectly free to attend Chautauqua this year, without any religious restrictions whatever. There'll be plenty of things to keep you busy, and it won't even be necessary for you to attend the morning Bible study classes, in charge of Dr. Hinson of the Portland White Temple. Enjoy the music of the ladies' band, stroll down to the ball field each afternoon; take in the fireworks; hear the Sierra Quartette, the Tyrolan Alpine Singers; take in Baumgardt's travel talks; Walt Holcomb's "Horse Race"; listen to Colonel Bain's masterly eloquence; enjoy Frances Carter or Maude Willis; attend Dr. Gilbert's lectures on "Economic Problems of Oregon." Do all these things, anxious inquirer, and you will be conclusively convinced, once and for all—that the Chautauqua and the camp meeting are not even fourth cousins.

GREAT CONFERENCE WILL OPEN SUNDAY

The most notable gathering of Christian workers ever held in America will be opened in Portland Sunday and continued through the coming week. The gathering will be the second World's Christian Citizenship conference, for which preparations have been going forward for nearly two years. The National Reform association has conducted the preparations, with the indorsement and co-operation of many of the national church bodies.

Statesmen, philanthropists, sociologists, preachers, missionaries, educators and other leaders of Christian thought and action will take part in the conference and exchange views on the big social problems of the day. England, Ireland, France, Italy, China, Japan and other foreign countries, as well as the United States and Canada, will be represented.

WINDSOR AWAIT'S WILSON'S VISIT

WINDSOR, Vt., June 27.—Here as well as at the Winston Churchill place at Cornish everything is being put in readiness for the arrival of President Wilson and his family, who are expected late tomorrow or Sunday morning only a few days, but as soon as the important work of congress is disposed of he will return to Cornish to spend the remainder of the summer.

While the "summer white house" will be located at Cornish the real seat of the executive department of the government will be Windsor, on the Vermont side of the Connecticut river and the nearest railroad and telegraph station to Cornish. The executive offices will occupy quarters in the Windsor postoffice building and here will be the headquarters of the numerous clerks, stenographers and secret service men who will be in attendance on the president during the summer.

To War on Illegal Clubs.
GALVESTON, Texas, June 27.—Clubs formed in this state solely for gambling, liquor selling or other illegal purposes will be put out of business, if plans discussed here today at a conference of executive officers of legitimate clubs are carried through. The legislature will be urged to enact a law which will abolish the evil and at the same time not be a hardship on the legitimate clubs.
