A CLOSED The McNab incident may be regarded as closed, in the opinion of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, which goes on to make some very sane and pithy comments upon one of the recent sensations in the day's news. Continuing its review of the situation, the Inter-Ocean says that whether a cabinet officer blundered or whether a district attorney was somewhat too precipitate, the administration evidently has come to realize that "the man higher up" should not attempt to suppress a prosecution for a hideous crime for any reason, and least of all for a political one.

It is a happy ending of the incident, but it carries its warning with it. The president and his administration should realize that the nation is not in the temper to view calmly the spectacle of "pull" being exerted to save any one from punishment who deserves it.

It must be admitted that President Wilson has cleverly enough extricated his administration from an unfortunate and even perilous situation. The order that the prosecution of Caminetti and Diggs for infraction of the Mann white slave law shall go forward without delay effectively nullifies the prior action of the Department of Justice. Although his chief whitewasher, Attorney General McReynolds, the action carries with it the plain injunction, "Don't let it happen again." In view of the purpose to save the face of Mr. McReynolds, the summary acceptance of District Attorney McNab's resignation was the only course open to President Wilson. It is to be hoped that the special prosecutor to be appointed to handle the case will be competent and a man with a reputation which shall guarantee him to above the suspicion of yielding to political influence.

The rumored appointment of Francis J. Heney to this position seems to insure a vigorous prosecutor and in a sense seems politic, inasmuch as Mr. Heney's appointment can hardly be deemed a political one.

THIS ONE The Enterprise is taken in ON US to task, as usual, by The Courier this week, this time for stating that Ed Olds did not bid upon the public elevator. For once in its uncertain life The Courier has hit it straight. The Enterprise did err—Ed Olds did bid on the elevator. He not only put in a bid, which was the lowest bid, but he furnished his own plans and specifications, and the elevator committee of the city council found them so inadequate and bizarre that after one glance they gave them no further consideration. For the modest sum of $11,959 Ed Olds offered the city a cross between an oil-well derrick and a power-line tower—an affair so absolutely unsuited to the requirements that no city official thought it worth while to waste a moment's thought upon it after the first review. And so no further reference was made to the Olds bid, possibly out of kindness to Mr. Olds as much as for any other reason. For $21 more the Oregon Bridge & Construction company offered to build a handsome tower, one suitable to the requirements of a public elevator, and one that is in every way safe-guarded against stresses of weather and wind. For $21 more this firm was willing to erect a structure that will endure for all time, and about which there will never arise any question as to strength or suitability. Not knowing the general opinion of the elevator committee as to the Olds plans, and never having heard them mentioned, The Enterprise concluded that there hadn't been any plans offered. How-

Women, Why Not Dress According to Your Age?

By CHARLES C. CURRAN, American Artist

THE woman who makes a skirt so narrow around the bottom that she can't take a step in it and then slits it up the sides is just about as SENSIBLE as the man who painted his whiskers green and then carried a fan to hide them.

If a woman has a good figure you'd never know it when she's wearing such freakish costumes as we see today. And then some of the coats this season have funny little tails hanging down the back, like the swallowtails men used to wear. Other coats are so skimpy that I wonder if the women haven't TAKEN BY MISTAKE THE LITTLE OLD ARMY COATS OF THEIR GRANDFATHERS.

The ideal summer costume must be beautiful, the sort of thing one can put into a picture, but it must NOT LEAVE A QUESTION in the mind of the beholder. That's the effect of the eccentric things. One is unable immediately to determine whether or not the result is successful. One is puzzled, disturbed, startled. The truly beautiful costume is so completely THE INEVITABLE THING that it is accepted at once. It and its wearer are fused into a gracious whole. One's first instinctive comment is, "HOW LOVELY!"

THERE IS ONE THING I WISH EVERY WOMAN WOULD MAKE UP HER MIND TO DO THIS SUMMER AND THAT IS TO DRESS ACCORDING TO HER AGE. IF THERE IS A SIGHT MORE PATHETIC AND ABSURD THAN THE GIRL WHO TRIES TO LOOK LIKE A MATURE MATRON IT IS THE OLD WOMAN WHO ASSUMES YOUTHFUL AIRS AND CLOTHES. WHY ARE OUR GIRLS AFRAID TO BE YOUNG, OUR GRANDMOTHERS AFRAID OF THE HONOR OF THEIR YEARS?

ever, this paper is now glad to acknowledge its mistake, and to say that for $21 less than the bid of the successful bidder, Ed Olds offered to build for Oregon City a structure that was so generally unsuited to the purpose for which it was designed that the council wasted no time in considering his bid. The council wanted, at least, to get its money's worth.

"THIS IS MY 41ST BIRTHDAY"

Ameer of Afghanistan

Habibulla Khan, the Ameer of Afghanistan, was born July 3, 1872, and came to the throne upon the death of his father, Ameer Abdur Rahman Khan, October 3, 1901. The country over which he rules is an independent Asiatic state on the northwestern frontier of India. Its area is estimated at 246,000 English square miles and its population at 5,000,000. Three-fourths of the country are covered by mountains which are interspersed by many fertile valleys. The present Ameer had a considerable share in the government of the country before he came to the throne. For some years, under his father's controlling hand, he had charge of the army and the state treasury and the supreme court of appeal. He is regarded as a wise and temperate ruler, but less masterful than his father, who was an extremely able soldier and a vigorous administrator. Habibulla Khan has five sons and four brothers.

Congratulations to: Emile Olivier, former premier of France, 88 years old today. George W. Kirchwey, professor of law at Columbia University, 58 years old today. Marquis of Cholmondeley, who holds the hereditary office of Lord Great Chamberlain of England, 55 years old today.

BERRIES LEADING MARKET FEATURES

Market conditions are generally quiet. Berries still hold the front of the fruit trade, with loganberries ranging from $1 to $1.25 a crate, raspberries about 20 cents cheaper, and strawberries—late ones—ranging about the same as loganberries. Peaches, cherries, melons and plums are also being freely offered, and at prices somewhat lower than formerly. Eggs are remaining stationary, dealers paying 22 and 23 cents for best grade stuff, and selling the same at two-bits a dozen. Eastern storage eggs are being offered in Portland, but are not showing in local markets. New potatoes are now being quoted at $1.75 and $2.00 per hundred pounds, and are pretty plentiful. First blackberries of the season are in from Eastern Washington, and are being offered dealers at $1.35 per crate. Like all other Washington fruit, the berries are in the best of shape, and are finding ready sale. Green vegetables are easy, with practically no change in quotations.

Livestock, Meats.
BEEF—(Live weight) steers 7 and 8c; cows 6 and 7c, bulls 4 to 6c.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE NEW AGE.
It is the hour before the dawn. Here and there some sliver, a prophetic voice, tells of the coming morn. The mass of men do not know, for they yet sleep, but one by one they awaken and, as with an inward eye, see the first signs of the daybreak.

In the long night of history a decade is as an hour, a day is a second. The great clock of time ticks on. The light grows. Now and again some new voice is added as a herald of the sunrise.

The world always has its eers, but does not heed them till the event they foretell is past. Especially is this true in the great epochs, the times before the crises.

The morning star of hope is shining, and the clouds above it take on a gray tinge. The mountain tops of the future catch the first faint radiance, though the bases are yet in shadow.

A faint breath, like a psychic wave, stirs through the world of thought. More souls emerge from their slumber and wonder if at last the long looked for day is nigh.

Why paint the sunrise? For that is yet under the veil of the future. And it may come through black clouds and storm. Who knows? It is enough for us to feel that it will come; that sooner or later the new day will flood the world with light.

Mankind is on the eve of a spiritual awakening. Liberty is again to lead the races. The old creeds, dogmas and husks are to be supplanted by the living religion of the Christ. Old errors will pass away, and old truths will be seen in a new light. The century plant of progress, which has grown so wonderfully during the past 100 years, will burst into flower. Human brotherhood will cease to be merely a preacher's phrase and will become a vital fact.

The marvelous material advancement of the world will not end in machines and scientific formulas. It has another and deeper meaning. It will have its counterpart in human development. It will reach its logical result in an intellectual, artistic and spiritual unfoldment such as the world has never seen before. It will bring its blessings, not to the few only, but to all mankind.

The age is electric with new thought forces. Over the shoulders of the green old world is rising the dawn of a better day.

More to Come.

Germany's Great Gift to the Scholars of America

By JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, President of Princeton University

THE commercial relations which have existed for many years between Germany and the United States have brought out two countries into CLOSE AND INTIMATE RELATIONS and have proved of inestimable benefit to us and we trust also to Germany. It is unnecessary to recollect how deeply indebted we are to this sister nation for the innumerable necessities and luxuries of life which bear the well known stamp, "Made In Germany." It is not, however, of these material benefits that I would call attention. I refer rather to the COMMERCE OF THOUGHT, the interchange of ideas, the traffic in the things of the mind. It is a commerce which is not so obviously a matter of observation. It follows a hidden current of exchange, yet nevertheless has AFFECTED OUR COUNTRY AT THE SOURCES OF ITS LIFE.

WE ARE INDEBTED TO GERMANY IN A PECULIAR MANNER FOR A SET OF IDEAS WHICH HAVE INSTRUMENTAL VALUE IN INTELLECTUAL FIELDS, IDEAS WHICH ARE THE VERY TOOLS OF THOUGHT, AND BY THEM INDEED WE BECOME SKILLED IN THE VERY ART OF THINKING ITSELF.

The majority of teachers in the higher institutions of learning in our land have been trained in Germany. There they have LEARNED THE SECRET OF SCHOLARSHIP. Germany has given to the scholars of all countries an incalculable treasure; not knowledge merely, but a method of acquiring knowledge, and of discovering and testing the truth.

No gift is comparable to that of imparting to another a method of investigation which is fertile in suggestion and productive of rewarding results. This is GERMANY'S GIFT TO THE SCHOLARS OF AMERICA.
