HOGG BROS. 503 MAIN ST. "The Busy Furniture Store"

LIVESTOCK MARKET IS DULL FOR WEEK

Receipts for the past week in the livestock market have been: Cattle 1027, calves 74, hogs 3784, sheep 5372, horses 21.

Cattle market steady to lower. Killers have not been in the market for any large supply of beef and bidding was consequently very slow.

Prime grass steers in car lots are selling around 8c. Medium grade steers 25c to 50c lower. Butcher cattle have been steady to weaker.

Prime cows $6.50 to $6.75, choice bulls at $5.50 to $6.00; calves $6.50 to $9.00 are price tops on various classes.

The week's hog market has been a very strong affair. Prices reached $3.15 Wednesday, but the market weakened 10c to 15c at the close, the top being 9c. Liquidation has been comparatively liberal.

Trade in the sheep house slowed up considerably, due to the poor demand for mutton. The outlet is not very broad and any size receipts clogs it.

Best yearlings $4.30 to $4.75; old wethers $4.25 to $4.50 and prime selling ewes $3.75 to $4.25 were extreme tops here. Lamb market is about steady, with a shade better demand than for sheep. Choice stock selling for $6.50 to $6.75.

FINE GOOSEBERRIES GIVEN FOR DISPLAY

Some particularly fine seedling gooseberries, grown by William E. Mueller, of Carus, have been given to the publicity department of the Commercial club for its display, and have been bottled by Secretary Freitag.

The berries are of exceptional size, and have skins a very fine texture.

Mr. Mueller, who is known as "the Burbank of Clackamas county," will shortly bring to the club some seedling apples which he has developed on his ranch. He also will harvest this year his first crop of 200 varieties of seedling potatoes, that he has produced by cross pollination.

His ranch is a huge experimental farm, and upon it Mr. Mueller has grown many exceptional products, a large number of which have proved to be extremely valuable.

GOOD CROPS ASSURE PROSPERITY

(OREGON CITY PUBLICITY) With reasonable assurance of a good good grain crop, which will sell at remunerative prices in the world's markets, the Pacific Northwest can safely smile at croakers and can be comparatively indifferent to tariff-makers.

With a crop of the three principal cereals only slightly less in quantity than that of last year, and worth an aggregate of $57,450,000, prosperity will remain with us another year, and a comfortable balance will be carried over to next year.

The slight decrease in the estimated yield of wheat and barley as compared with last year is a favorable rather than an unfavorable sign, for it is mainly, if not entirely, due to decreased acreage, not to decreased yield per acre. That implies that farmers are diversifying their crops, and are thus broadening the base of prosperity for this section. A farmer who divides his land among several crops and adds hogs, cattle or sheep to his product is not putting all his eggs in one basket, as does the one-crop farmer. A big yield in one direction compensates for a small one in another, so that net loss is next to impossible.

Prosperity will naturally spread from the farms to the cities and towns through all the arteries of trade. The commerce of Portland will be swollen by the many cargoes of flour and wheat which will go from this city and by the purchases of machinery and supplies which the farmer will make. Timely rain and sunshine thus bring their blessings to the merchant, exporter and manufacturer as well as to him who cultivates the soil.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and from the first day, it seemed to help."

I had almost lost my reason, but thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardui.

The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways.

Try it.

The 'stuff Successful Men Are Made of

The International Correspondence Schools are NOT closed in summer. All of our truly ambitious students those who think more about the increased salaries their studies will qualify them to earn, than of the imaginary discomforts of summer study—devote a part of each week to their studies all summer.

A student who will only study in cold weather punishes himself. Why? Because he takes two or three times as long, in preparing himself to earn more money, as the student who studies from a half hour to an hour per day all the year round. We have enough letters on file to make several very large books, the general purport of which is: "Oh, if I had only taken up that Course when I first wrote you about it! I have just missed a fine position, at largely increased wages, because I wasn't prepared to fill it. I lacked just the special knowledge I could have had from the Course." The writers of these letters never have to be coaxed to study in summer NOW. They knew what delay costs. Why not profit by THEIR experience, instead of taking the same bitter medicine yourself?

Persons that suffer most from the heat are those that have nothing else to occupy their thoughts. A man who is interested in his studies doesn't know how hot it is. He has no time to fret about the weather. He is looking ahead a few months to the time when he can demand advancement in position and salary, because his special education will have made his services of more value to his employer. It is no harder to read an Instruction Paper in summer than to read a newspaper. How many summer days are hot enough to prevent you from reading the daily news?

The man who promises himself that he will enroll next fall is only trying to deceive his conscience. He may not know it, but he is weakening his will-power, and it is will-power—power to do, what one knows he must do to succeed—that makes the man. A man of weak will—one who will study some day, but not now—will always be down in the world; always in "hard luck," frequently out of work, and when employed, it will always be at low wages. He knows that a knowledge of certain subjects will fit him to earn more; yet he stills his conscience by promising to start later. Such a man isn't truly ambitious. He is one of the kind that always does the hard, mental work, and draws small pay all his life. Are YOU one of that kind. Are YOU truly ambitious to earn more and make something of yourself? If you won't study in summer you are NOT. If you prefer to fret about hot weather, rather than forget it by studying, you are NOT.

The dangerous habit of "putting off" has ruined the lives of more promising young men than drunkenness. It is so easy to say "yes, it's what I need; I'll start tomorrow—next week—some other time." The difference between the man that makes a failure of life and the man that succeeds is simply this: The failure is going to begin "tomorrow"; the success begins today.

The men who "get there" are those that study for self-improvement in summer, or whenever they have time. They don't let the weather keep them in inferior positions, at small wages. They don't make excuses to themselves when they ought to be up and doing. They don't work for wages barely enough to keep soul and body together either.

To Keep The House Comfortable

No matter where you live or what the temperature of the outdoors, you can do a great deal to keep your house cool and comfortable if you spend a little time and thought on the subject.

Your doors and windows should be screened and your windows fitted with awnings on the sunny side of the house. Then every window may be opened, so that the air can come in and the flies and mosquitoes will, perforce, stay out.

If your rooms are darkened and well aired your house will be a pleasant place to come home to, especially if you have in the house a good supply of ice and a variety of sensible summer food.

Summer beverages are improved by bottled water, either naturally or artificially aerated, so it would be well to have something of that kind on hand also.

If you have not already perfected your arrangements for making your house a pleasant oasis during the warm weather, read the advertisements in THE ENTERPRISE and you will come across numerous suggestions that will help you to decide just what you want and where to get it.

BOLL WEEVIL CONQUERED

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 8.—The government experts here are of the belief that the boll weevil is no longer a serious menace to cotton. Despite the large number of weevils this year Louisiana and Mississippi bid fair to produce record crops. Careful attention is declared to be the secret of the victory over the pest.

By this means the keeping of the field clear of litter and rubbish, picking off the punctured bolls and burning them, and exposing as much of the plant to the sun as possible. This latter is accomplished by leaving more space between rows and plants and by trimming out as much of the plant as possible to prevent too much "weed."

ROBING THE BRIDE.

Early Saxon Customs and the Advent of the Flowing Veil.

In the old days, as now, the bride generally dressed in white. From early Saxon times down to the eighteenth century a bride of the poorer classes came to the wedding arrayed in a plain white robe as a public warning that since she brought nothing to the marriage her husband was not responsible for her debts.

Brides soon began to add some little touch of color. Blue was for constancy and green for youth, but in some places these might not be used because of feuds between families having these tints in their liveries. Yellow might not be worn, as it stood for jealousy; golden might not, as it meant avarice.

The Anglo-Saxon bride went to the wedding with her hair hanging loose as a sign of freedom, but upon reaching her new home immediately bound it up as a sign of submissiveness. In the days of Shakespeare the veil began to take the place of the flowing tresses, but this, however, was not original with the British, for centuries earlier the Roman and Hebrew brides had worn yellow veils, while the early Christians of southern Europe had enveloped both man and wife in one large cloth.

Whatever was lacking, however, in gorgeousness of dress was compensated among all the nations by the profusion of flowers chosen for their significance.—Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Herculeum and Pompeii.

Pompeii was buried in ashes or light scoria, while Herculeum was entombed in lava, which, after cooling, hardened into a material of the consistency of marble, and we thus have the explanation of the fact that while the first city has long been unearthed the latter is still largely covered with its ancient lava shroud. Excavations are constantly going on at Herculeum, and the work will in all probability continue to the finish, but it is not likely that any especially important results will accrue, since the life of the two cities was practically the same.—New York American.

Rational Love.

"The rational rather than the romantic view of marriage is the one most in favor with the young people of the twentieth century," said a well known eugenics expert in an address in Cleveland.

"The rational view will make for happier marriages. And this rational view is beautifully illustrated in two questions—a little dialogue—running thus: "Will you always love me?" "Will you always be lovable?"—New York Tribune.

Antiquity of the Census.

The idea of the census is almost as old as history itself. King Amasis of Egypt took a census of his people 500 years before Christ. The Athenian senate established a census for the purpose of facilitating taxation. We learn that about 443 B. C. Servius Tullius took a census of Rome. During the chaos of the dark ages the census dropped into oblivion, but was revived again about the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Discretion.

"Now, Mike, you must forgive your enemies." "Uch!" "Do you object to that?" "Not altogether. There's some of 'em I might as well forgive. I ain't big enough to lick 'em"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Very Plural.

"Now, Edgar," said the teacher to one of the members of the primary class in grammar, "what is the plural of tomato?" "Ketchup," was the prompt, but unexpected reply.—Chicago News.

SUMMER WEATHER PRICES ARE HIGHER

Butter 35 cents a pound and eggs at 30 cents a dozen, retail, are helping to make warm-weather life interesting for local housekeepers. The rise in the price of eggs is laid to refusal of chickens to work as they have been doing, but the advance in butter is said to be due solely to an agreement on the part of creamery and dairy companies.

Cantoloupe are selling 25 cents a crate here, the former quotations being ranging now from $1.75 to $2.25, depending on quality. Loganberries are quoted down as low as 75 cents a crate, though the greater part of the offerings are bringing better prices. Raspberries are not to be had for less than a dollar a crate, and most of the offerings are higher.

Green peas are retailing at two pounds for 25 cents, and are just about in their prime. New sprouts are easier. Lettuce is holding firm in price, but is apt to be uncertain as to quality. Other vegetables have not changed in quotations.

With the apparent arrival of summer, the price of tomatoes has jumped up 40 cents a box, mainly because of the increased demand. Boxes are now quoted at $1.25.

A few late strawberries are still on the market.
