LIVE WIRES MAKE SUGGESTION

Conference With Water Committee of Council Will Lead to Change of Procedure in Search for Supply

A conference between members of the special water committee of the city council, and a similar committee appointed by the Live Wires of the Commercial club, was held Friday evening in the council chamber. There were present Chairman F. J. Tooze, Councilman Metzner and Councilman Long, of the council committee, and Dr. H. S. Mount, William Sheahan and C. Schuebel, of the Live Wires.

Mr. Tooze reviewed for the benefit of those present the work of the water committee and submitted samples of the earth, sand and gravel through which the wells on the Englebrecht property have been driven. He then briefly reviewed his plans for the further proceedings of the committee in investigation and asked the members of the Live Wires for their opinion of the work so far done. They endorsed the work of the committee, and said that they believed the councilmen had obtained a great deal of valuable information, but suggested a radical change in the future proceedings.

Mr. Schuebel, who acted as spokesman for the Live Wires, and who was backed up in all he said by the others, told Mr. Tooze that he believed the immediate need of the situation was that an opinion be obtained from the state board of health as to the purity of the water struck in the test wells already driven, and suggested that Mr. Tooze and the council committee at once get into touch with the state officials, persuade some of them to come to Oregon City and look over the ground, examine samples of the water, and then make a written report to the council upon their findings. Such a report, said Mr. Schuebel, would be above question, and would probably be accepted by Oregon City people as being thoroughly reliable.

"You mean that Oregon City people will believe these men, while they have not got confidence in us," said Mr. Tooze.

Mr. Schuebel and the other Live Wires present promptly expostulated that they meant nothing of the kind; adding that it was necessary to have an expert opinion on the wells, and that an opinion from the state board of health would be the best obtainable; and would carry the most weight with the people.

Mr. Tooze accepted the suggestion, first saying, however, that he would like to complete the series of tests the committee was now making, and perhaps install a pump and get more water from the wells beforehand. Members of the Live Wires answered, saying that they believed it would be better to get the opinion from the state board of health first, so as to have definite grounds upon which to base an appeal for further funds for developing the Englebrecht wells if they were found satisfactory. It was therefore agreed by the members of the special council committee to get in touch with the state board at the earliest possible moment, and to arrange for them to make their report on the matter to a meeting of the council, which is to be held in some hall that will accommodate comfortably a large number of citizens. In the meantime Mr. Tooze and the committee will continue with such tests as are now being made, and will have further measurements taken of the well, the flow of water, and the direction of the flow.

Among the questions discussed at the meeting were the probable source of the underground stream of water tapped by the test wells, and the availability of the water at all seasons of the year.

GLADSTONE PARK, July 11.—Mr. Ng Poon Chew, eminent Chinese statesman, and orator of the first rank, held spellbound an audience of almost 400 people in Chautauqua auditorium Friday afternoon, and played upon their heartstrings as would a Bryan, a Spurgeon, or a Gypsy Smith. The famous Chinese was at his best in his great lecture, "Modern China," and those who heard him speak in Portland recently admitted that it was not the same man who spoke today. Wit, humor and pathos abounded in Mr. Chew's lecture, which was a plea for further recognition of his country and his people and their possibilities. He spoke for almost two hours.

Mr. Chew bitterly denounced the Manchu rule, which he says is alone responsible for China's backwardness among the nations of the world. "The Manchus," he said, "were the original slavers. They, and they alone, ruined the China that would have been."

He carried his audience with him through the 400 years of Manchu barbarities, of the many failures in attempting to overthrow their powerful system, and of the final success in September, 1911, when the fall came, and when, as Mr. Chew smilingly said, "All the kings horses and all the king's men could not put Humpty-Dumpty on the wall again."

He deplored the hogish attitude of European nations in robbing the Chinese of this territory. "Why every Tom, Dick and Harry nation just help to add to a chunk of China. Now, wouldn't that jar you?" he asked.

It was in discussing the problem of "opium" that confronts the Chinese race that Mr. Chew's oratory was at its best. In his large audience there were but few untouched by his pathetic description of the ravages of this drug among his countrymen. "We can forgive and forget our financial stringencies, our sacrifice of 4,000,000 lives as a tribute to historic and modern warfare; we can overlook the humiliation that we must endure as a nation centuries behind the times, and still with 5000 years of history back of us; we can overlook all these things, but we never can forget the introduction of opium among our people as a result of early contact with a Christian nation."

Mr. Chew paid a glowing tribute to the United States, referring to our country as "China's foster mother," and telling how the constitution of the new republic was patterned after that of the United States. President Wilson's generous attitude toward the Chinese financial policy met with the hearty commendation of the speaker, though he regretted the long wait of fourteen months before the United States recognized China's new republic.

"Had Teddy been on the job, he would have swung his big stick in the air, brought it down with a bang and said 'See-lighted,'" said Mr. Chew, and he showed his teeth in the favorite attitude of the former president.

Mr. Chew is a staunch advocate of universal peace among nations, a unique position for a man whose home land has been steeped in the blood of 54 revolutions in the last 400 years, and innumerable international conflicts. Mr. Chew commended the suffrage movement which is as prominent in his own country as here. The system of education now being started in China will solve all the Chinese problems, he believes, better than any other factor. "We have not experience, it is true, but you realize with me that experiment must precede experience. Our patriotism is growing however, growing wonderfully, and that is the surest omen of our ultimate success."

Frederick Vinson, Fisher was the speaker Friday night, with an illustrated lecture on the Panama canal and the Panama Exposition. He, too, was well received, with almost as large an attendance as greeted Mr.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND.

—Briggs in New York Evening Sun.

Chew. Reed college morning today was unusually attractive. About 1000 people heard Dr. N. C. Coleman of that institution in an able address on "Problems of Social Hygiene." The speaker condemned commercialized vice and "quack" medical men as being on about the same low basis, and saw the remedy only in the elimination of the quacks and in the education of children by the inauguration of a nation-wide social hygiene course. Starting statistics were advanced by the speaker, which brought the results of vice clearly before his listeners. He was given close attention and hearty applause. The Reed College Quartette, composed of Howard Barlow, Ruth Barlow, Clara Wuest and Ray-numbers. Tomorrow is Willamette University day and a large delegation is coming from Salem. A special program of musical features is being arranged by students and alumni, and Dr. Homan's address, "Power Houses of History" will be the morning attraction. If crowds keep up the way they have the last two days, tomorrow and Sunday will see record attendances at Clatskanie.

PARIS, July 11.—Hundreds of automobile enthusiasts left the capital today and journeyed northward to be on hand for the Grand Prix, the most important of the European road races, that is to be run on the nineteen-mile circuit near Amiens tomorrow.

STOCK ELECTION CALLED
Voters of Sunnyside precinct will go to the polls on July 24 and ballot as to whether or no stock shall be permitted to run at large within the precinct. The election will be the second held in the county under the new "local option stock law" passed by the last session of the legislature.

JUDGE DIMICK TO SPEAK
Judge Grant R. Dimick, of Oregon City, will address the German Verein picnic at Macksburg on July 20. Music will be furnished by the Mollath-Neady band, and there will also be a program of sports.

WEST TACKLES CANNERY STRIKE

PORTLAND, Or., July 11.—Ploughing his way through a mob of 1000 persons, a block from the Oregon Packing Company's plant, where a strike is in progress, Governor Oswald West at noon Friday planted himself two feet from a barrel on which Tom Burns, a socialist orator was making a speech, and interrupting the talk shouted to the orator that if any more disorder took place he would take such action as would quickly quiet the disturbance of the peace.

As a result of the action of the governor a parley was held between him and the striking girls of the packing plant, at which it was agreed to cease all picketing until 10 o'clock this morning, when a conference will be held in the office of Mayor Albee in the city hall, at which an effort will be made to end the strike.
