A CHANCE Preparations are being made at the California expositions to afford this and other Northwestern states every chance to exhibit their resources before the millions of visitors who will take in the twin fairs. And of the two, perhaps a better chance is offered at the San Diego exposition, for at San Diego we can keep our state building just as long as it will stand up if the state will make appropriation to maintain it in repair and the citizens of the state will keep the exhibit up. This means that for years to come we will have a permanent exhibit, calling attention to our fine opportunities, in a great seaport where every month will be landed hundreds of thirty, sober and industrious immigrants—all desirable citizens other states are glad to have.

On the exposition grounds, devoted to the main exhibit buildings, there are now hundreds of men erecting buildings, planting trees and vines and doing everything possible to make of these grounds the finest possible exposition, setting ever seen. The Irrigation Congress has ordered its head officers to get busy and assemble there the best exhibit of the methods of irrigation possible to assemble. Oregon as a great agricultural state has a peculiar and most prominent interest in this exhibit.

We can not advertise ourselves by staying at home. People who live in this state know what we have and what we can do. It is to the strangers who visit expositions and who visit land shows, who travel and who are looking for new homes that we must make our appeal.

The funds at our disposal should be spent for building and gathering exhibits. More than half will probably be spent right here at home. It is, therefore, foolish to make a fuss about spending our state money "for the good of California." It will not be so spent. Neither exposition will profit one cent by our participation, the very nature of the state's participation is such that none of this money goes to the exposition companies. True we must buy some building material if no home companies will give it; but it is entirely possible to take every stick and stone for our building from home to both expositions and to erect our buildings from our own materials. In this case our only expense will be for labor at either place. There are plenty of big firms manufacturing building material right here that can furnish what is needed for these buildings and never feel the donation. That would leave most of our money for exhibits and maintenance.

AIDING A contributor in the August CUPID Women's Home Companion,

writing upon the subject of marriage, says, among other things:

"How much do most mothers know of the men their daughters finally marry? And how much real friendship and trust is there, usually, between young men and the mothers of the girls the young men choose to marry? Yet I do not as a general

Miss Katherine Force, Sister of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, to Wed

Society people in New York and Newport awaited with interest for the setting of the wedding date following the announcement of the engagement of Miss Katherine Force, sister of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, to Henri Harnickell, a New York broker. Miss Force, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Force of New York city, is staying with Mrs. Astor at the latter's summer place, La Selva, at Bar Harbor, Me. It was understood that the wedding would be in Bar Harbor in the early fall.

rule count this to be the fault of the young men. The mothers are older and wiser, should be wiser at least in all such matters, yet they are generally slow to speak of them, or share in them, whether from shyness, or jealousy, or inability to express themselves, or a forgetfulness of the years when they, too, were young.

"The mother who does not think herself wiser in all these matters than her daughter is rare to find; yet there are not so many mothers who are consciously helping—fitting would be the better word—their daughters to make a wise and rational choice. Perhaps most mothers have a hope that when the time comes they may be allowed to choose for these daughters of theirs; and they fail to realize that almost their whole duty lies in fitting them to choose for themselves."

Words of wisdom, surely—but why stop at the daughters? Why not train young men to choose for themselves, too? Why not train everybody that marriage is something considerably more serious than having a bunch of friends gather and extend good wishes and throw rice and old shoes? Why not hammer it home always that marriage is the real "business of life," and that it ought not to be entered into without considerable serious consideration. Romance is a fine thing—there must be romance for a marriage to be happy—but there should be something more as well. Too many young people get married as a mere aftermath to a course of buggy rides, candy and "cwoosing" out where nature smiles and is her prettiest. Too many marriages can be laid to the failure of man to appreciate that pretty hair, soft eyes and perpetual smiles are not the only things in the world. Too many girls get married because the young man in the case spends his entire income and all he can borrow in "showing them a good time."

It is well to think of other things, to consider temperamental fitness, equality of education, and even of social life. And then there is the matter of health, perhaps the most important of all. Cupid is a mischievous youngster, who shoots his darts hither and thither without much thought of where they will hit. There should be a realization of the seriousness of life as well, and of the responsibilities of double harness. The more thought and analysis before marriage, the less trouble will there be afterwards. Children should be taught this, for their own happiness.

"THIS IS MY 70TH BIRTHDAY"

Baron de Saumarez.
 Baron de Saumarez, who was formerly prominent in the British diplomatic service, was born July 17, 1843, and succeeded to the title upon the death of his father in 1891. The first holder of the title was a very distinguished naval officer, Admiral Sir James Saumarez, who was Nelson's senior captain in the battle of the Nile and whose activity off Gibraltar checked the naval programs of Napoleon in 1801. The present Baron, who is the fourth holder of the title, received his education at Eton and Cambridge. In 1872 he entered the diplomatic service as secretary of the British embassy at Berlin. Subsequently he served in similar capacities at Athens, Tokio, Rome and Brussels. Baron de Saumarez possesses a large fortune and has several country seats in addition to a magnificent residence in London.

Congratulations to:

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

WASHINGTON.

It is a magic name, that of the nation's founder, who is becoming, in turn, the father of the republican era in other lands.

It is fitting that this spotless name should grace the capital city of the greatest of republics, for it is a continual suggestion of the character that republic should take.

It is said by competent authorities that when present plans have been carried out Washington will be the most beautiful city in the world.

Even now it is beautiful, a city of parks and broad streets, of pleasant homes and public buildings worthy of a great nation.

The phoenix may have risen from its ashes, but Washington literally arose from a swamp.

Yet its growth in a century to an ideal capital is no more of a miracle than that of the nation about it, which has sprung up in the same time from out of a wilderness.

Some people call Washington a southern city, but this is a misnomer. It is both southern and northern, with some of the best features of each section.

One to appreciate Washington must ride around it and look down on it from the heights along the Tenallytown road. He must behold it from many angles, both from near and far, must approach it from the river and see it from the Virginia hills. It is well worth study even in its present uncompleted state. What, then, will it be when the plans of its builders have been translated into parks and malls, memorials, statues and classic buildings?

The parking is being continued along the banks of the Potomac. There the Lincoln memorial will stand. The capitol will be, in part, surrounded by parks, one extending to the new Union station and postoffice and another down past the agricultural buildings to the Washington monument.

In vision one can see the heights about the city crowned with beautiful homes. Already these are beginning to appear.

As the republic advances in wealth, culture and art it is not difficult to imagine Washington becoming a second Athens or Rome, a center of poetry and learning, an intellectual as well as a political and social capital.

An American can take a greater pride in his country after looking upon her capital city.

CALIFORNIA'S LAND LAW.

California's attitude in the Japanese land matter was necessary, wise, just and for the best interests of the country. If the legislature had failed to act as previous pledged legislatures had, there is no telling what violence and bloodshed might have resulted to stir up a really serious international episode. I believe that before many years the whites of Hawaii will petition congress to annul their right to vote and grant government by a commission sent from Washington, simply because native born Japanese will outnumber and outvote them. California has learned her lessons from Hawaii.—Rudolph Spreckels.

NOTICES

ORDINANCE NO. —
 An Ordinance authorizing the Mayor to compel all owners and keepers of dogs to muzzle the same, and compelling owners and keepers of dogs to muzzle their dogs during July, August and September of any year.

Oregon City does ordain as follows:
 Sec. 1. Owing to the danger from mad dogs and the prevalence of rabies, it is expedient that all dogs in Oregon City be kept muzzled during the time of the prevalence of said disease.

Sec. 2. From and after the approval of this ordinance the mayor of Oregon City may by proclamation, order all owners and keepers of dogs in Oregon City, to provide a good and sufficient muzzle for the same, so as to keep the said dogs from biting and giving the disease known as rabies. Said proclamation to be published at least three days before this ordinance takes effect. All persons are required to muzzle any dog in their custody during July, August, September and October of any year.

Sec. 3. Any person or persons refusing to muzzle his dog within the time provided by said proclamation, or during said months, or any person who violates this ordinance in any other respect, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not to exceed

ELECTRICAL WORK

$100.00, or by imprisonment in the city jail, not to exceed 90 days.

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of the police force or any of the citizens of Oregon City to kill any and all mad dogs.

Sec. 5. Any dog found unmuzzled during the time the mayor's proclamation is in force and effect, whose owner refuses to provide a muzzle for the same, may on order of the chief of police, be killed.

Sec. 6. Owing to the danger of contracting rabies from the numerous mad dogs now at large, it is necessary for the immediate preservation of the health and safety of the citizens of Oregon City that this ordinance take immediate effect, an emergency is therefore declared to exist, this ordinance to be in force and effect upon its approval by the mayor.

Read the first time and ordered published the 16th day of July, 1913, to come up for second reading and final passage on the 28th day of July, 1913, at 9:30 o'clock a. m.

Coeducation Is a Good Thing For Both Boys and Girls

By Professor M. V. O'SHEA of the University of Wisconsin

COEDUCATION IS A GOOD THING FOR BOTH BOYS AND GIRLS, AND UNDER THE CHARGE OF EARNEST, COMPETENT AND DYNAMIC TEACHERS CHILDREN OF BOTH SEXES WILL GROW UP INTO BETTER MEN AND WOMEN IF TAUGHT TOGETHER.

In Europe it is very rare to find boys and girls being taught together. As a result there is LITTLE REAL FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN MEN AND WOMEN ON THE CONTINENT. Women there are not regarded as the equal of men.

With us WOMEN PLAY A PROMINENT PART in all phases of intellectual, social and educational activities, but such a thing would be impossible in European countries. In France, Italy and Germany people never expect women to show competence in hardly any situation except a purely domestic one.

The girl has been the chief gainer from our plan of educating boys and girls in the same way. The American girl has become INDEPENDENT IN HER THINKING AND ACTION, and this is to the advantage not only of herself, but of boys and men also. There is a higher appreciation of womanhood in this country than in any foreign country, so far as I have observed. In countries in which women occupy a subordinate place the moral and social tone is not apt to be wholesome or invigorating. Women hold the trump hand in social and moral advancement. Men's energies will be expended in general according to the standards set by the women in their intellectual and social activities.

WE OUGHT TO PREVENT THE RELATIONS BETWEEN BOYS AND GIRLS FROM BECOMING MERELY ORDINARY OR COMMONPLACE. BOYS OUGHT TO BE KEPT MASCULINE AND GIRLS FEMININE, AND EACH SEX SHOULD BE TO SOME EXTENT IDEALIZED FOR THE OTHER SEX.

So while boys and girls may work and recite together in the schoolroom, still there ought to be a SENSE OF DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THEM. It should always be insisted that courteous attitudes be assumed by the girls for the boys and the other way around. Every day in the schoolroom the teacher can take advantage of opportunities to impress the idea of chivalry, gallantry and respect between boys and girls while at the same time ENCOURAGING GENUINE COMPANIONSHIP in most of the work and the play of daily life.
