WAR ON RABIES IS CONTINUED

GLADSTONE GETS INTO LINE BY PASSING STRICT ORDINANCE ON DOGS

C. W. SWALLOW IS BITTEN BY PUP

Deputies in Sheriff's Office Practice With Firearms So as to be Ready to Exterminate Canines

The city council of Gladstone has introduced and passed to second reading an ordinance calling for the licensing and muzzling of all dogs over the age of four months, it being provided that when such animals are at large they must be provided with a suitable wire muzzle that will meet the approval of the Clackamas County Humane society. It is also provided that it shall be unlawful for any person to remove the collar from any dog and that it shall also be unlawful for any person to interfere with the seizure of any dog by the chief of police, who is made general guardian of the dogs of Gladstone may pursue.

The introduction of the ordinance follows the general movement throughout this section to combat the spread of rabies and is in line with similar ordinances passed in Oregon City and Portland. Gladstone's law, however, is more stringent than any passed in nearby cities.

No new cases of hydrophobia have developed in Clackamas county, and as far as is known there are at present no dogs afflicted with rabies astray. Some stock is quarantined following former incursions of rabid canines into the county, but the veterinary authorities are keeping a close watch upon all suspicious cases.

Deputies in the sheriff's office are practicing with revolvers and shotguns in expectation of being called upon to rid the county of all stray dogs that do not comply with the general restraining and muzzling order issued this week by the State Livestock Sanitary board, but so far have not been called upon to put their prowess upon display.

C. W. Swallow, of Maple Lane, was bitten by a dog Wednesday, but there is no fear expressed that the dog may have been suffering from rabies. Dr. Strickland is caring for the wound, which is said to be not at all serious.

GLADSTONE PARK, July 17.—Youthful America had its inning at Chautauqua Thursday. The whole afternoon was turned over to the kiddies, and instead of the usual afternoon lecture a grand "pageant" was given on the athletic field, in which several hundred little tots participated, and several thousand older folks joined most heartily, from the grand stand and sidelines of the ball field. One of the largest crowds of the present assembly was on the grounds, and perfect skies added additional charm to the dainty drills, folk-dances and games of the youngsters. The affair was given under the direction of Miss Grace Lamkin, who has been drilling the children daily since the assembly opened, July 8, and their training has been remarkable in the short time.

The program consisted without a hitch, consisted of a grand pageant march; (2) folk dance by the Butterflies and Brownies; (3) panna march by the Hansel and Gretel group; (4) dance by the wood nymphs; (5) free ball work, "touchdown" by the Forresters; (6) small march by the Butterflies and Brownies; (7) folk dance; (8) rose dance by wood nymphs; (9) drill with flower sticks; (10) tournament, by Hansel and Gretel group; (11) dance, wood nymphs; (12) game-ball hustly by the Forresters; (13) cris-cross ball and pyramid work by the Forresters.

The evening feature was a great lecture by Colonel George W. Bain, "A Searchlight of the Twentieth Century." The news of Colonel Bain's auto accident has spread broadcast, and the eloquent Southern received felicitations from all over the state. The Colonel is able to be about, though still extremely stiff as the result of a careless chauffeurs driving by a standing street car. The auto passed over his foot and barely missed seriously injuring him.

Commenting on his narrow escape, Colonel Bain said: "Portland motorists should be more careful. They should make it a policy to run over only people having wooden legs—and say—eventually they will all have wooden legs in Portland."

One of the features of the past few days since the real good weather began, has been the great number of automobile parties, constantly coming and going. An auto drive circling through the 75 acres of the picturesque park, gives at a glance a panorama of the entire "white city" that picnic parties have not been slow to appreciate. All day Thursday, Portland autos surged the grounds, coming by way of Clackamas. At night there were almost 200 machines on the grounds. A special auto gate is provided which leads in a beautiful driveway among the stately firs down to "Auditorium avenue" where the inhabitants of the tent city and the each evening before the program starts.

Walt Holcomb and Prof. B. R. Baumgardt are the features of Friday's session. Holcomb is a son-in-law of the famous Sam Jones and is almost as fiery a lecturer as his distinguished daddy-in-law. His talk is to be "The Evolution of Wit and Humor," at 2:00 p. m. Baumgardt, who is a noted lecturer, scientist and globe-trotter, is to speak on "Venice, the City of Golden Dreams." Prof. Baumgardt lectured in Portland early last winter and made a great name for himself among the city folks. Tomorrow is also McMinnville College morning and the address of the day is to be given by Leonard W. Riley of that institution on "Atmosphere in Education, of Choosing a College."

DR. MARIE EQUI LEADS IN PORTLAND RIOTING

PUNITIVE action was expected to be taken against Edward Lauterbach, the New York lawyer, and David Lamar, the New York stock plunger, as a result of their testimony before the senate lobby investigating committee at Washington. Lamar, who is called "the wolf of Wall Street," and Lauterbach played in each other's hands in attempting to secure the latter's employment by the Union Pacific railroad for lobby purposes. Lamar freely acknowledged that he had impersonated congressmen and others over the telephone to gain his ends for Lauterbach. The lawyer admitted he had led to Lewis Cass Ledyard, attorney for the Union Pacific, when he said he could influence federal legislation.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 17.—(Special)—Dr. Marie Equi was the star performer in one of the hottest street riots in Portland's history tonight, and wound up by getting lodged in the county jail charged with inciting a riot, carrying concealed weapons, assaulting a policeman and disorderly conduct. In the course of her meteoric career Dr. Equi jabbed Patrolman Larry Evans in the arm with a baton and slashed him across the face with the same weapon.

Dr. Equi and some 11 other women endeavored to deliver Socialist speeches at Sixth and Washington street about half past eight. Five thousand people gathered to see the fun, and 60 policemen, mounted upon horses and in the big patrol wagon, battered their way through the crowd dragged the women off their soap boxes, and hauled them off to jail. About eight men, also orators, were also taken into custody.

Three of the women arrested were found to have concealed about their persons two-foot length of gaspipe, loaded with lead. Dr. Equi had one of these, which accounted for one of the charges. At the police station she had her mixup with Patrolman Evans, and was only prevented from doing more damage by Patrol Driver Schaefer, who throttled her.

The disorder lasted about two hours and gave the police one of the hardest fights they have so far had.

THRILLING NOVEL! BASIS OF "MOVIE"
Based upon the thrilling novel by Frederick Isham, a film entitled "Half a Chance" will be presented as the feature at the Star Theatre today. The production is a Romance feature in two reels, and abounds in thrilling incidents and situations. The story of the drama tells of the reformation of a convict in a British prison, and differs from many other "prison photo plays" in not being overdrawn or morbidly exaggerated. The picture faithfully follows the action of the novel of the same title, and is said to be a masterpiece of dramatic power.

REV. MR. SPIESS HAS STATEMENT

CLACKAMAS PASTOR SENDS REMARKS TO ENTERPRISE BY ROUNDABOUT ROUTE

ENGAGEMENTS PREVENT INTERVIEW

Matter of Action of State Board of Health Discussed at Considerable Length—Old Charges Reaffirmed

The Rev. Henry Spiess, of Clackamas, came to The Enterprise office Thursday morning to register an objection to an article printed in Thursday's Enterprise. All the members of the editorial force were out, and Mr. Spiess was invited to call later in the day and talk to them. His pledged engagement in Portland, and departed, apparently going direct to the office of The Courier, where he left with M. J. Brown a communication intended for this paper. Mr. Brown, for reasons best known to himself, mailed the communication to this office, with a letter. His letter and the communication of the Rev. Mr. Spiess are as follows:

Oregon City, Oregon, July 17.
Enterprise:
Mr. Spiess asked me to deliver this letter to you and ask you to publish it in Friday's Enterprise, and that he would pay any expenses in connection. Yours,
M. J. BROWN.

Oregon City, Ore., July 17, 1913.
Editor, The Enterprise:
Will you please make correction of the article in The Enterprise of July 15th, under the heading, "Dr. Norris not Ousted—White" and its connection with my article in The Courier of July 10.

The letter of Judge Beattie, you published July 15th, was more than three months old at the time that Dr. Norris sent his letter to the state board of health.

Judge Beattie did not write to the State Board of Health, and did NOT notify them that Dr. Norris had not resigned until he was forced to by a public admission in the meeting at Oak Grove July 2nd, and also after my article appeared in The Courier of July 10th. After these exposures he had to do something, and you will note that Dr. White's letter to him was after the exposures, and dated July 14th.

I hereby reaffirm every charge I made in The Courier article, which The Enterprise attempts to put in a wrong light.

Will The Enterprise please state in what possible sense its article of July 15, under the bold headlines, and Dr. White's letter of July 14, answers my article and the charges in The Courier of July 10?

They quote from my article in The Courier and then publish this letter: Portland, Ore., July 14, 1913. Judge Beattie, Oregon City, Oregon.

Dear Sir:
Answering your inquiry of today, the board has taken no decisive action in regard to the matter of Dr. Norris since giving the official information that Dr. Norris had not resigned.

No official notice of the former hearing was ever sent to you. A special meeting of the board will be held within the next ten days and a definite action taken one way or the other, and you will be promptly notified of that action.

Yours very truly,
CALVIN S. WHITE,
State Health Officer.

Does The Enterprise see no difference between dates of letter written in March and April and one written July 14th, several days after exposure and publication of the facts?

Perhaps Judge Beattie sees and can answer. Will The Enterprise publish a signed article from me setting forth this matter as it really is? Since you have published the letter to Judge Beattie with comments, I respectfully ask if you will give your readers an opportunity to read official letters from the State Board of Health on this matter which I will furnish.

Will The Enterprise please answer through its columns whether they will so publish these letters, signed by Calvin S. White and Dr. J. W. Norris?

HENRY SPIESS.
The Enterprise has but little comment to make. In regard to the second paragraph of the communication from the Rev. Mr. Spiess, it may be advisable to state that the postmark upon the envelope which contained Dr. Calvin White's letter to Judge Beattie was "Portland, Oregon, July 14, 11:30 p. m." If this makes the letter "more than three months old," as the Rev. Mr. Spiess states, there must be something wrong with the calendar.

As to publishing letters which the Rev. Mr. Spiess may have, The Enterprise is always glad to print communications from people who believe they have a message for the common good. In this instance, however, as Dr. White has announced that the State Board of Health would take final action in the matter under discussion within the next ten days, The Enterprise believes it might be well to wait until the board acts before reviewing what may have gone before. As Dr. White, speaking as secretary of the board, says no decisive action has yet been taken, but promises that it will be taken shortly, The Enterprise can see no use in reprinting a mass of letters which may have no bearing upon the final settlement of the matter in hand.

WATER TESTS CONTINUE
Further tests of the water in the wells on the Englebrecht property, to the north of the city limits, were made Thursday afternoon by Councilman Tooz, chairman of the special water committee of the city council, and City Engineer Noble. Sample of the water were sealed and sent away for analysis.

BIGAMY RIDDLE FOLLOWS BRIDE

MRS. EMMA ELEY-MADDOX HAS IDEA THAT SHE HAS MARRIED TWO MEN

CASE PUZZLES COURT AND LAWYERS

Former Ceremony Believed Performed in Montana. But Bride is Hazy as to Important Details

Whether or not Mrs. Emma Eley-Maddox is a bigamist is puzzling her, her attorneys, Justice Sievers and her present husband, William Maddox, of this city; to whom she was married Wednesday in Portland by Judge Gatens. Mrs. Maddox has an idea that she is a bigamist, and has asked two attorneys to sift the matter to the bottom for her. Whether she is a bigamist or not, she has been bound over to the grand jury on a statutory charge with her present husband, and the case presents a number of unique complications.

Maddox, who is 27, and Mrs. Emma Eley, as she called herself, who is but 19, went to Portland Wednesday, following their arrest here on a statutory charge, and thinking they could get the case against them dismissed by wedding, obtained a marriage license from County Clerk John B. Coffey, and then sought Judge Gatens to tie the knot for them. When brought into Justice Sievers' court Thursday for preliminary hearing, their attorney, J. E. Hedges, produced an elaborate affidavit and decorated marriage certificate, and asked that the charge against the pair be dismissed.

It then developed that Mrs. Eley-Maddox had been, according to her belief, married some time previous to a man who gave her his name and decorated marriage certificate, and that she had deserted her. Following the desertion she asked John W. Loder, another Oregon City attorney, to secure her a divorce. Mr. Loder was unable to find any record of the marriage, and so could not proceed with the divorce proceedings. Mrs. Eley, however, told him that she had been married by a "lady minister." She did not know where the ceremony had been performed, or on what date, but said she thought it was in some town in Montana. Her haziness as to details complicated the case still further, and is not explained in any way by her, she simply says that she cannot recall the exact details of the proceedings.

After hearing as much of the case as possible, Justice Sievers was unable to feel that the marriage performed by Judge Gatens was sufficient to warrant his dismissing the action, and so he bound the pair over to the grand jury under bonds. After surety was furnished, the couple left the court room, agreeing not to attempt to live together until the mystery as to the previous marriage was cleared up. Mrs. Eley-Maddox was formerly Emma Ladd of Clackamas Heights.

Local authorities do not feel concerned over the possibility of bigamy having been committed, saying that as the marriage was performed in Multnomah county, it is up to Portland officials to take action in the matter.

CHAMPIONS TAKE VICTORY EASILY

The ninth game of the Chautauqua series, played Thursday afternoon at Gladstone's Park between Clackamas and Oswego, was won by the former by the score of 20 to 1.

The lowest ten men and poor support of the team in general was the cause of the defeat of Oswego. Chuck, of Oswego, was the only player of that team who starred. In the seventh inning many people left the grandstand on account of the poor game. The game was a comedy of errors all the time.

The line-up was:
Clackamas—Wilson, c.; Scott, p.; Burdon, 1b.; Rittenhouse, 2b.; Mulkey, ss.; Hargrave, 3b.; Foster, rf.; Jones, cf.; Lauenberger, lf.
Oswego—Stauerhoff, c.; Ginfelter, p.; Austin, 1b.; Anderson, 2b.; Chuck, ss.; Shipley, 3b.; Roos, rf.; Ditzen, cf.; Worthington, lf.

TRIAL DA'E CHANGED
The preliminary hearing of Charles Wright, who shot at Miss Elsie Ulker of Oak Grove, last week, while under the influence of liquor, has been reset for Saturday afternoon at one o'clock. The hearing originally was to have been held Friday morning, morning. Justice Sievers will preside.

JOHN FORD SO SILENT
John Ford, 14 years old, of West Oregon City, who has been ill with typhoid for some time, succumbed to the disease Thursday. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but the lad's remains will probably be buried from St. John's Catholic church.
