

COLLEGE TO AID PASTORS, IS PLAN

EUGENE, Ore., July 22.—A further extension of University Extension work was proposed today by Rev. F. H. Gabelbricht, of Albany at the State Conference of Ministers which began today in connection with the Summer school of the University of Oregon, and which will last all this week. All denominations are represented. Mr. Gabelbricht pointed out the high cost of those books which are necessary if a preacher is to keep up with the best modern thought of matters of government, sociology, history, philosophy, economics, and literature.

It is out of the question, he said, for the average clergyman to buy such books with any regularity. The university is already loaning books all over the state in connection with correspondence courses, but he proposed that special accommodations be offered ministers because it was a matter of importance to the state that the clergy, who address thousands every week, be afforded every advantage for the obtaining of sound information.

Prof. G. H. Patterson, of Willamette university at Salem, also took up the "conditions for the best mental productivity in the intellectual life of the minister." "The minister of today," he continued, "has found that he must know men in their business activities and relations with all the problems of everyday life in their social and political aspects, and these very conditions constitute a challenge to his intellect and draw forth its very best activities."

He closed with a reference to the extreme value to the clergyman of participating in a professional institute occasionally for the study of problems.

Postmasters in Session

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 22.—Columbus is entertaining for three days the annual convention of the Indiana State Postmasters' league. A large attendance is marked the opening of the gathering today.

UMPIRE ROLLER DOESN'T STUDY NATURAL HISTORY.

Cy Rigler of the National league staff of umpires is not a student of natural history. Earl Blackburn, utility pitcher of the Reds, on the other hand, is, and as a result the Cincinnati team is telling a capital story on Rigler.

While loafing on the players' bench during a game at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, recently, Blackburn opened a book and started to read a story of the African rhinoceros. Becoming interested, he read aloud to the other players.

"The rhinoceros is a beast of low intelligence and insatiable appetite. Its hide is three inches thick and is impervious to any bullet or shock, however powerful."

He got no further in his reading, for Rigler turned with a frown and said: "That will do for you. I heard every word you said and will stand for no personalities from the bench."

The Lost Leader Writer.

The story is told that when the new proprietor of the London Times first went over the building in Printing House square he saw a door covered with cobwebs which wouldn't open. After he had waited a long time an aged caretaker was found burdened with enormous keys, one of which fitted the rusty lock, and after great straining turned it. Inside were dust and ashes and cobwebs and a skeleton! It was leaning over a table with a pen in its bone fingers. "What on earth is this?" they asked. "Oh, I remember hearing that in my great-grandfather's days they lost one of their leader writers," said the old key bearer. "He must have got locked in!"—London Sketch.

Moving a Billiard Table.

Probably the most remarkable journey ever made from Cattaraugus to the mountains, was that of an English billiard table. Fifty sturdy porters were required to carry the table over the mountain, and a pilot stood astride it to shout directions as to how best to get round awkward corners. The building in which it was housed retained the name of "Big Harde" when converted into government offices and parliament house many years later.

Clever Conundrums.

How is it that summer passes so quietly? Because there is so often an evening mist.

What is that which is invisible, yet never out of sight? The letter S.

Why is an umbrella like dried fish? Because it isn't often seen after lent.

Why is a fly taller than most men? Because he stands over six feet.

The drunkard will have none of me.
 The heavy drinker says "no" when my name is mentioned.
 The man who craves rough—strong—whiskey passes me by.
 All this is as it should be—as I myself would wish it. I am not for them.

Cookery Points

Cherry Delights.

Cherries served fresh and cold on their own stems for breakfast are so delicious that no other way of serving them at that meal could be better. But pitted and sprinkled with sugar and a bit of lemon juice they serve as an appetizer and at the same time lose none of their delicate flavor. Another way of preparing them for breakfast is to pit them and mix them with sugar in the proportion of half a cupful to a pint of cherries and cook them until they are just tender. Then pour them over buttered toast.

Cherry soup has been made, but it could hardly be more than the result of an effort to serve cherries in a new and unexpected way. However, at every course save the soup course cherries can be legitimately served.

Cherry cocktails are made in this way: Stone ripe cherries, chop them up, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice to each cupful of cherries, sweeten them to taste and serve them either in champagne glasses, or else in lemon skin cocktail glasses. Moving part of one cup made by a number of lemons, cut a bit of the rind from the other side, removing all the pulp and juice and washing and chilling the shells.

Cherries served with French toast can be used as an entree. To make them cut rings half an inch thick from bread and soak them in beaten egg yolk, milk, a little sugar and a pinch of salt. Roll the bread rings in crumbed bread and macarons and brown them in butter. Stew ripe cherries with sugar enough to sweeten them, drain and pile in the middle of a dish. Surround them with the fried bread rings and serve them with the juice of the cherries thickened with a little cornstarch and flavored with orange juice.

Cherry fritters can be served with most as a separate course or as dessert.

To make them prepare a batter of a cupful of flour, a teaspoonful of salt and half a teaspoonful of baking powder mixed with a tablespoonful of melted butter, a well beaten egg and enough water to make a thin batter. Stew ripe, pitted cherries until they are just tender—but do not cook them to pieces—and sweeten them. Drain them and add them to the batter. Drop it in spoonfuls into deep fat and fry brown. The juice drained from the cherries can be substituted for water to moisten the fritter batter.

Sour cherries are needed for cherry sherbet. Stone a quart of them. In the meantime boil together a quart of water and a pound of granulated sugar for fifteen minutes. Add the cherries to the hot sirup just as it is taken from the stove and stand aside until it is perfectly cold. Strain through a fine wire sieve and freeze. When you take out the dasher stir in a meringue made of the white of one egg sweetened with a tablespoonful of granulated sugar. Pack in ice for an hour or two.

Raspberry Tarts.

Raspberry Tarts.—Delicious raspberry tarts can be made by cooking paste in patty tins, filling the shells with rice or beans in waxed paper to keep the paste from bubbling and filling the shells with fresh raspberries covered with sugar and whipped cream.

Raspberry Ice Cream.—This ice cream calls for three pints of raspberries. Cover and mix them with a cupful of sugar and let them stand for an hour. Mix three pints of cream with a cupful and a half of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of sherry. Freeze and when stiff take out the dasher. Put the berries and sugar in the cavity where the dasher was and set away in ice and salt for an hour and a half.

Boiled Sweet Apples.

Take five nice, ripe, sweet apples, halve and core them, place in a kettle, sprinkle with four teaspoonfuls brown sugar. Add water enough to boil well over the apples. Cover and let them cook until tender and the juice is becoming thick. Then with a silver fork or spoon lift the bottom pieces, letting the top ones down into the sirup. Cook from twenty to thirty minutes longer, being careful not to burn them. These are much nicer than baked apples.

Pan Dowdy.

Pie crust, apples, two cupfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one cupful of cider. Line the sides of a deep baking pan with common pie crust, fill it with apples, pared, cored and quartered. Add the sugar, cinnamon and cider. Cover it with rather a thick crust. Bake it slowly four hours, then break in the crust and mix it well with the apples. Eat with cream.

FILTERS FAIL TO KEEP GERMS AWAY

According to a report just issued by the United States Geological survey, filters are useful mainly to clarify water of sediment that discolors it, and not to remove germs or minute organic matter from it. Commenting upon the use of filters in connection with cisterns for the storage of water, the reports says:

"Cisterns that are properly constructed and receive rain water from roofs generally afford water of good sanitary quality but if water of doubtful quality is stored in cisterns the supply is of course not safe for domestic use. Filters used in connection with cisterns are of value in making the water clear but are generally of no value in removing disease germs. Many cisterns are divided into two parts by a brick wall, the water being admitted into one compartment and drawn from the other. In such cisterns the water passes through the brick and in that way is improved in clearness and color, but generally unsanitary in quality."

Interest attaches to this report locally in view of the discussion recently as to the effectiveness of filters in purifying the proposed and present water supplies of the city.

Woman's World

Mrs. Guilford Plans Suffrage Roller Chair Parade.

MRS. ELLA GUILFORD.

Suffrage on the board walk! Yes; it has reached even that stage. You simply can't get away from the yellow banners with their inscriptions "Votes For Women" nowadays.

Coney Island was invaded long ago. So has been the solemnity of baseball fields all over the country, and it is really not surprising after all that the "cause" has popped its irrepressible head up on the board walk of Atlantic City.

Devoted to pleasure and fatal to thought as this same board walk is, it has responded with delightful courtesy to the presence of an alien. In a land where nothing grows but taffy, an occasional mosquito, rolling chairs and moving pictures a little touch of a serious nature is as welcome as a black velvet bow on a light summer frock.

The invader of the board walk this summer will be the suffrage roller chair parade, which is to take place in a few weeks. Mrs. Ella Guilford, an ardent New York suffragist, was the instigator of this very novel idea. No speechmaking is permitted on the board walk at Atlantic City, but the superintendent has promised permission for a "voiceless parade." Just see what women can suffer for a great cause!

Fifty chairs, with women gowned in yellow and white, carrying yellow banners, will make the historic board walk sit up and take notice, thanks to the efforts of Mrs. Guilford.

Restored to Health.

Miss Jane Addams, who went to Egypt because of a breakdown, is coming back to Chicago in July and is said to be quite recovered. She will spend a few days with friends at Newport and will make a speech there.

Alice Crispell Murder Mystery Reveals Girl's Love Escapades.

The murder mystery of Miss Alice Crispell, the attractive eighteen-year-old girl, whose body was found in Harry's lake, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., after a Fourth of July outing with her lover, Herbert Johns, did fair to be difficult to solve. Johns was held, but denied that he had caused the girl's death. He had been courting her for two years, but she had had other admirers. They spent the entire day at the lake on the Fourth, and Johns claimed he left the girl about 11 p. m. to go home. He was afterwards to accompany her to her house because he was not in the good graces of the "girl's father." Evidence showed that the girl was wayward and had given her lover a lot of worry. The victim is here shown with Johns, and the boathouse near which the body was found is also shown.

DR. STRICKLAND NAMED BY RAILROAD WORKERS

Members of the Employees' Beneficial association of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, stationed at the Oregon City power house, have voted to secure the services of Dr. M. C. Strickland as their physician and surgeon, and have asked him to accept the care of any of their members who may be injured or taken ill. The members of the association, at their annual meeting, select for themselves some physician to care for such as may need medical attention throughout the following year. The election just passed resulted in a vote of 77 per cent in favor of Dr. Strickland.

Last year Dr. H. Mount was the physician and surgeon for the members of the association employed at the local power plant.

Pennsylvania Democrats

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 22.—Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania are rounding up here for the annual meeting of the state central committee tomorrow. Interest in the meeting centers chiefly in the election of a new chairman to succeed George W. Guthrie, ambassador to Japan. The state chairmanship will be an important office next year, because candidates for governor and United States senator will be nominated.

TRAMP CALF FOLLOWS MAN TO EUGENE HOTEL

EUGENE, Ore., July 22.—A tramp calf who picked up a friendship with whomsoever would permit of the familiarity and followed Fred Flisk into the lobby of the Hotel Osburn at Eugene one day last week, caused somewhat of a commotion. Bossy had attempted to follow several other people but had been driven off.

Mr. Flisk did not know that the young bovine was following him until one of the employes informed him that he would have to leave his pet at the door. The animal strenuously objected to being separated from his newly found friend, but after considerable moral and other persuasion he was finally induced to occupy a stall at a livery barn until the owner should call for his property.

THIS MOUSE SINGS

GOLCONDA, Ill., July 22.—John T. Fulkerson of Lusk, this county, recently captured what he very appropriately calls a "singing mouse." It is a great wonder to all who have seen it, and it certainly is something very much out of the ordinary. It sometimes makes a noise like a dove makes with its wings when flying; then again it will make a noise like a martin singing; then again it will make a noise exactly like a quail calling to its young after being disturbed.
