Enterprise advertising pays.

Farmers are having fine weather for haying and cutting grain and are improving it by the looks of the fields. The voting on the stock law at Sunnyside went 57 to 14, so we are living in hopes of having the stock off from the road soon. The ladies were some of them registering at Damascus Wednesday. Mrs. Geo. Johnson has her mother with her for a few days. Mrs. Dick Hunter has one of her hospital friends visiting her at present. The Rev. G. R. Ellis and wife have moved to The Dalles where he is doing missionary work. Nita is staying with her grandparents until school commences. Mrs. Burchell is on the sick list. Mrs. Pevan and Miss Elva Dardorf, who are sojourning near Kluckwitz, Wash., write about being being rather too many rattlesnakes to be comfortable. They will probably stay until September.

GRANDMOTHER USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HER FADED OR GRAY HAIR Mixed With Sulphur It Makes Hair Soft, Beautiful. Cures Dandruff The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. But the brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting Wyeth's, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. HUNTERLY BROS., Druggists

Town and Country

THE city and the country are linked together by the Bell Telephone service.

The city man when away can keep in touch with his office and business interests. In a like manner, the man from the country who is visiting in the city can telephone his home and find out how things are. This is possible all over the country because Bell Telephone service is universal.

HISTORIC REVIEW IS SHOW FEATURE

"Apache Kid," the notorious outlaw, and other reckless border bandits of his kind no longer hold up the Deadwood coach, command driver and passengers to hold up their hands under penalty of being riddled with bullets, and then ride away on their fleet ponies loaded with plunder.

From a dramatic as well as an historic standpoint, however, the Deadwood stage coach holdup holds a fascinating interest to the public of these more prosaic days, and the reproduction of one of those thrilling events in the performance of the Oklahoma Ranch Wild West, which exhibits in Oregon City, Sunday, August 3, is said to create a sensation.

For the purpose of the drama, it is announced, a genuine old-time Deadwood stage has been secured. The driver is one of the original "Wells Fargo messengers, who, in the language of his time, would "rather fight than eat." Some of the old scouts and frontiersmen who ride in the coach have actually had the experience of being held up by border bandits. The stage, drawn by four army mules, comes dashing down the arena. As it turns the corner on the second lap, a band of marauders dashes out of ambush, surround the coach, shoot the driver, and compel the passengers to alight. It is all done so quickly that there is no chance for defense. The passengers are relieved of their valuables and the safe, containing an express shipment of gold is thrown out upon the ground and blown open.

Just when it seems that the bandits will escape with their ill-gotten plunder, there is the sound of many horses feet, and a band of scouts and cowboys, led by Col. Zack Mulhall, the famous Oklahoma ranchman, in the role of the sheriff, get into the picture. There is a short, sharp exchange of shots; those of the bandits who do not fall are captured, another driver is substituted, and escorted by the sheriff and his posse, with the prisoner held at the ends of the riders lariats,—the coach starts on its long journey again. This is not the reproduction of a faint part of the imagination, but it is declared to be an actual representation of a scene enacted hundreds of times in the old days on the plains.

As rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid in the system, the only sensible, rational treatment is one that removes this poison. That is what Hollister's Rocky Mountain tea does. That's why it cures for good. Jones Drug Co.
