ATTEMPT MADE TO FREE RIOTER

SHERIFF'S OFFICE HEARS OF SCHEME TO GET ILES OUT OF PRISON

MASS TELEGRAPHS WARRANT AHEAD

Success of State's Case May Depend Largely Upon Return of Prisoner Here—Fourteen Others Indicted

Word was received at the sheriff's office Monday that efforts were being made in Dallas, Tex., to get "Blackie" Iles, the alleged ringleader of the riot in the course of the telephone strike at Oswego, released from custody on habeas corpus proceedings. Iles was picked up by the Texas authorities, and is being held there for the arrival of Sheriff E. T. Mass, of this county, who started Sunday morning with extradition papers to bring him back.

It is said that Iles started the fight at Oswego, on May 19, as a result of which Fred Ream, of Willamette, was shot and crippled for life by J. C. Ainsberry, the parole breaker and escaped convict employed by the Home Telephone company as a strike-breaker during its trouble with the linemen's union. Iles was arrested with the 18 men under indictment by the grand jury, but jumped bail after arraignment and left the Pacific slope.

News of the attempt to free Iles was telegraphed to Sheriff Mass en route, and the Clackamas county officials stopped off on his trip long enough to wire ahead to Dallas a telegraphic warrant, and to send word to the Texas authorities that he was on his way. It is understood that the effort to free Iles is being made by attorneys engaged by the electrical workers' union. Unless Iles is brought back and placed on trial, the state may be unable to prove its case in the riot charges against his co-defendants, as they may claim that Iles was the only one of the party who committed any acts of violence.

Every effort will be made by the state to prevent Iles being released, as even his own friends testified, at their preliminary hearing, that he had used violence in the course of the Oswego trouble. In fact their testimony was so general upon this point that it was made to appear that Iles not only kicked one of the strike-breakers in the face, precipitating the fight, but he was also blamed for the throwing of pebbles, crowbars and other missiles that enlivened the encounter between the striking linemen and the men who were working with Ainsberry, the ex-convict.

The Home Telephone company, it is said, has employed detectives to keep tabs on Iles and if the Texas courts should free him before the arrival of Sheriff Mass, it is declared that he will be shadowed and re-arrested.

MYERS NOW FACES ANOTHER CHARGE

Lawrence Myers, who was arrested Saturday for shooting at his neighbor, J. N. Besselleu, and who appeared for preliminary hearing before Justice Slevers Monday, faced a second charge upon his appearance in court, and was bound over in $2,500 bonds on both charges to await the action of the grand jury.

The second charge is that of attempting a felony, it being alleged by Besselleu that Myers threatened to kill his son, Charles Besselleu following the attack he made upon Besselleu senior.

The charge grows out of the effort Myers made to shoot W. J. Bowerman, another rancher, who ran towards him after he had shot at Besselleu, and who only prevented Myers from shooting him by grappling him.

Myers told Bowerman afterwards that he mistook him for Besselleu's son, and is alleged to have said, at the time he raised his gun: "I might as well get you now."

Myers furnished bonds in the required amount and was released late Monday afternoon. The grand jury will meet again until September.

CIRCUS DODGES GOVERNOR HERE

STATE EXECUTIVE KEEPS HIS PROMISE; SHOW FEARS TO LOSE REPUTATION

SUNDAY IS FILLED WITH THRILLS

Rev. T. B. Ford Tells West That Ministers Were Satisfied at Sheriff's Plans, Passes Blame to Schuebel

Governor West came to Oregon City Monday afternoon to attend the circus that he forbade playing Sunday, but the circus itself never came, so the governor didn't get to see the show. But he had lunch with J. E. Hedges, the circus attorney, and learned why the circus itself wasn't on hand. It seems that after the governor had promised to whoop it up for the show, the management thought things over, and decided they would rather disappoint Oregon City and the governor than cancel their date at Hillsboro, believing that getting the reputation for not showing when they billed themselves would be more detrimental than otherwise.

W. E. Burlock, in advance for the show, was in town for a short time Monday, and said that pretty soon his circus would be out of the state, and beyond possible interference by his excellency, and that then he might have a few things to say in regard to the Oregon City episode that would be worth hearing. While in the governor's ballroom, however, he considered silence the better part of discretion. He added that the Sells-Floto circus had been allowed to show at Hillsboro on Sunday once, and no objection had been made, and said also that a circus had once shown in Eastern Oregon on the Sabbath.

Many people came in to town from the country Monday to see performance, and to see the governor see it, but there was not half the turnout that was on hand Sunday.

Stopping the circus Sunday was quite exciting for a Sabbath happening. The governor, Tom Kay and five strapping penitentiary guards arrived at nine o'clock. W. E. Burlock, of the show people, at once buttonholed his excellency and led him away. Tom Kay went snooping around and arrested three people for violating the liquor law, and the five penitentiary guards paraded around the streets.

Gov. West, Mr. Burlock and Attorney Jess L. Hedges, representing the circus, adjourned almost at once to the law offices of U. R. Schuebel, and a minute later Mr. Schuebel, summoned from home, chugged up. With City Engineer Nobel as a gallery they then thrashed out the situation. Mr. Schuebel accused the circus people of "trying to slip one over," and demanded to know Judge Schuebel, at Astoria, had been sought for an injunction against the sheriff, and why the papers were filed just before closing time Saturday, when Judge Campbell, of the circuit court, was in town.

Mr. Hedges denied that there had been any effort to "slip one over," and said that he had tried to get Judge Campbell to act Friday, had heard he was in Tillamook and did not know when he would be back.

The conference got back to the law in the case again. Mr. Hedges stating his reasons for believing that such a performance was not a violation of the law. During this the Rev. T. B. Ford entered the office, and said that he would like to set the ministers' side of the case before the governor.

"This matter came up at the regular meeting of the local pastors," said he, "and we agreed that it was a violation of the law. We complained to the sheriff, and he referred us to the district attorney. Mr. Stipp, the deputy, rendered an opinion on the case which we considered no opinion. I put it up to the sheriff. Later he gave a different opinion, saying that the sheriff could arrest the person or persons who were actually responsible for keeping the circus open, and when the sheriff agreed to do that we were satisfied. Governor, I want you to believe that this is not a minister's fight. We did not appeal to you, we did not ask Mr. Schuebel to appeal to you. He did that himself. We were satisfied with what the sheriff had promised he would do, and we would have been satisfied if he had done that. That he was restrained from doing it, did not in the least alter our approval of his course."

Governor West then gave his side: "Gentlemen," said he, "I am not straight-laced in this matter. There seems to be a difference of opinion in regard to the public feeling upon this subject. Mr. Schuebel tells me that nobody but saloon bums want this circus to play, and that everyone else in the city is opposed to it. You other gentlemen tell me that only five percent of the people are opposing it. I do not know which is right, but I do know this: these circus people have obtained an injunction preventing county officers from carrying out the law, and when that is done, I am going to take a hand in the game. It is establishing a precedent, and if it is allowed to go on, every bootlegger in the state will be getting out an injunction. Now I advise you show people not to try to give a performance here today."

"Well, governor, I still think it is not a violation of the law to give a performance," said Mr. Hedges. "Now supposing the circus goes to the grounds, puts up its tents, and gives a performance, what will you do?"

"I will declare martial law, and take charge of things. I will continue to keep charge until the injunction against the sheriff is dissolved, and then we will see what we will do."

The discussion was the resumed for some minutes, when City Engineer Nobel, who was present, broke in with some comment.

"Now you keep out of this," said the governor. "You are not concerned in this matter at all. I'll tell you what, gentlemen, let us stop this thing, if there is some men here in town, and if there is an attempt to give a Rivadavia, the Largest Battleship Ever Built, Now Ready For Her Trial Trip at Rockland, Me.

The Argentine Dreadnought Moreno Rivadavia, the biggest battleship in the world, arrived at New York city recently for her final painting preparatory to official tests. The monster vessel was launched at Quincy, Mass., Aug. 26, 1911, and her sponsor was Senora de Naon, wife of the Argentine minister to the United States. The displacement of the Rivadavia is 27,500 tons, and she has twelve twelve-inch guns, all of which can be fired at one broadside. These guns can throw a projectile which will perforate a fourteen inch thickness of cemented steel at a distance of thirty-seven and one-half miles. The dimensions of the Dreadnought are: Length, 577.5 feet; width, 96 feet. She will start on her trial trip over the government course at Rockland, Me., Aug. 12. A number of United States officers will be aboard her.

performance, I will stop it. But I tell you what let's do. You show people put this thing off until Monday and I'll come and see your circus. I'll boost for it, and I'll arrange that tonight in every church in Oregon City the pastors will urge their people to go to the show Monday. I'll do my part for the show. I like shows like this—I guess I have broken more horses on Sunday than any of the performers in this show have done. But I don't think this show ought to be given here Sunday. You show Monday, and we'll all 'go' for the show. You'll win, you'll, Schuebel?"

Representative Schuebel looked dubious. "I'll send my family," he finally said.

"That's not enough," laughed the governor. "You've got to do more."

"Well, I'll get the Presbyterian church people to go, if I can persuade them to," said Mr. Schuebel.

And so the conference ended.

When Governor West and the five penitentiary guards alighted from the train, there was a big crowd at the depot. As the prison wardens passed, many people commented.

"That's a nice slap at the local militia company," said many people, "probably the governor doesn't think the Oregon City boys could be trusted to stop the circus."

Many other comments of a similar nature were made. And at intervals throughout the morning the church bells rang out triumphant peals.

TOM KAY'S CASE ON; TWO PLEAD GUILTY

Thomas Kay, himself, special deputy for the governor in matters of law violation, appeared in Oregon City today and arrested C. Hartman, agent for the Weinhart Brewery company. Roy Cox and Nicholas Humphreys, the latter proprietors of the cold storage plant where the special deputy yesterday discovered a keg of beer being delivered to an automobile party. The three prisoners taken yesterday—the man who delivered the keg and the autostists who received it—were utilized merely as witnesses.

Cox and Humphreys pleaded guilty to selling liquor on Sunday, and were fined $50 each by Justice Slevers, who then suspended sentence. Hartman pleaded not guilty, and his case will be argued Wednesday. Deputy District Attorney Stipp, who is prosecuting for Kay, says that while the keg of beer may have been ordered Saturday, the delivery that completed the transaction was not made until Sunday, so the Weinhart people are guilty of selling beer on Sunday.

Who Gives You the Poorest Service

Is it the merchant who has the brightest store, the most attractive things to sell you, a polite and intelligent sales force to serve you and an all 'round genial home-like, welcome atmosphere awaiting you in his shop—and then tells you about it in his advertising?

Is it from that kind of merchant that you receive poor service? It is not probable.

The chances are ten to one that the poorest service and the least satisfaction come from the shops where business is done under antiquated conditions; where the merchandise is badly chosen and badly displayed; where salespeople are not well-informed and courteous and obliging; and where the merchant either has nothing much of interest to advertise or else "doesn't believe in advertising."

There MAY be exceptions but, if so, they indicate the rule. The best service comes from the business that has so much confidence in its methods and its merchandise that it is a part of its splendid service to tell you about it.

Faithful ad-readers seldom go to the wrong store.

DODGE CITY, Kas., Aug. 4.—Ten thousand acres of "short grass" land in Hamilton county, south of the Arkansas river, was thrown open to public settlement today. MILITIA READY FOR I. W. W.'S

CALIFORNIA HOP YARDS ARE LIKE ARMED CAMPS—PICKERS DEPARTING

FURTHER TROUBLE IS DISCOUNTED

Authorities Think Situation is Well in Hand, and Troops May be Recalled Soon—Danger Zone Quiet

WHEATLAND, Cal., Aug. 4.—With six companies of militia camped in the school grounds, and the hop-pickers' encampment of the Durst Brothers' ranch reduced to a few hundred persons, there was little indication here tonight of the rioting which brought death yesterday to four men, among them District Attorney E. T. Maxwell of Yuba county.

Every train today carried out a full load of hop-pickers from the area of more than 2000 which occupied the tents, sacking shelters and even brush leanto's which formed the harvesters' camp. Every hour saw the number dwindle as the workers were paid off and departed by train, on wagon or on foot.

Rumors were rife about town of various parties of Industrial Workers of the World, said to be marching to the scene. No foundation for these reports could be discovered, and General Forbes said tonight the soldiers probably would be withdrawn tomorrow.

GLADSTONE STREET WORK NEARLY DONE

Street grading in Gladstone is being rushed ahead just at this time, and it is expected within a few weeks that entire program of improvement mapped out for this summer will be completed. Dirt taken from the grades in the eastern part of the city is being used to raise the grade of Dartmouth street on the west side, and to fill in the low parts of Portland avenue, and already the subgrades on these thoroughfares have been nearly completed.

Surfacing will be added in the near future, and the whole mass rolled, after which it is possible that the new streets may be oiled, covered with a light covering of sand, and rolled again. While it is late in the year for road oiling, it is believed that such a finishing on the newly graded highways will prepare them better for service, and will add to their wearing qualities.

Gladstone has its own road oiling plant, and equipment, and with its municipal gravel pit in a position to complete its street work in fancy style at the minimum of cost.

DEEP MOLALLA CLAIMS BATHER

GEORGE OGLE, FORMER REPRESENTATIVE, IS DROWNED IN 40-FOOT HOLE

WIFE WITNESSES FIGHT FOR LIFE

Aid Called By Young Woman Who is Wading Near Treacherous Spot at Time of Accident—Long Search for Body

While spending the day on the shores of the Molalla river with his wife and her niece, George Ogle, one of the prominent political figures in the county during the early years of the twentieth century, and well known as a rancher and leader in local affairs, was drowned in 40 feet of water underneath the covered bridge at Molalla Monday.

About noon Mrs. Ogle's niece, Mrs. Burley, decided to go in wading, and was paddling about near the shore when Ogle decided that the river was too tempting to resist, and joined her. Just beyond where the young woman was wading the bed of the stream shelved away rapidly, and discovering this Ogle, who was regarded as a good swimmer, plunged out into deep water.

He was splashing about, shouting to his wife and the young woman, when he was suddenly seized with cramps, and sank beneath the surface of the stream. He fought his way up again, however, and his wife saw the top of his head rise for a minute above the water. A second later he sank again, and no further trace of him was seen. Mrs. Ogle was prostrated, and her niece ran barefoot for aid, summoning many to the scene.

Though the accident occurred at midday, it was not until late Monday night that the body was recovered, lying at the bottom of a 40-foot "hole" in the river bed. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but the remains will be buried in Adams cemetery, near Molalla.

Mr. Ogle was at one time a member of the house of representatives, being elected as a populist. He served in the lower chamber for the legislature at the same time as W. S. U'Ren, and after the completion of his term was known as a leader in public affairs. He was about 45 years of age. He had been married but a comparatively short time, and leaves no children to share his widow's grief.

LAUNCH JOURNEY ENJOYED BY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Tietze, of Canemah, were the host and hostess of a launch party given to their friends Sunday. Mr. Tietze, who is the owner of the speed boat Eva II, took the party up the Willamette and Yamhill rivers to Dayton, in Yamhill county. The party started early in the morning and arrived at Dayton about noon. They ate their lunch in the shade of the large trees which skirt the bank, after which the town was visited and a general sight seeing trip made. "The Old Block House" was visited and much time was spent in examining the fort, which is a object of historical interest. All reported an enjoyable time and gave Mr. and Mrs. Tietze a hearty vote of thanks and appreciation.
