Ship Ahoy! The Niagara Is Again on the Bounding Wave

COMMODORE PERRY'S flagship, the Niagara, is again plowing the waves of Lake Erie, where she battled with the British a hundred years ago. Since she was raised from the bottom some months ago the old vessel, which the American commander abandoned when she was sinking, has been overhauled and put into shipshape. The old guns have been mounted on her decks and she is again as formidable a fighting craft as she was in 1813. The Niagara is now visiting various cities on the great lakes, where celebrations are to be held, and the old ship is attracting attention everywhere. The lower picture shows the launching of the bull of the Niagara after it had been raised and repaired.

SUMMONS
In the Circuit Court of the state of Oregon, for Clackamas county.
Maude M. Watson, Plaintiff, vs.
Valentine Watson, Defendant.
To Valentine Watson:
In the name of the state of Oregon you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled court and cause before the 16th day of September, 1913, six weeks from the day of the first publication of this summons.
If you fail to appear and answer, the plaintiff will take judgment against you for want thereof and for the relief prayed for in her complaint on file herein, to which reference is hereby made and more particularly as follows:
For a judgment against you and a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between you and the plaintiff, Maude M. Watson and for such further relief as the court may deem meet in the premises.
This summons is served by publication by virtue of an order made by the Honorable J. U. Campbell, Judge of the above entitled court, and dated August 3rd, 1913, to be published in the Morning Enterprise, a newspaper of general circulation in said county and state.
JAS. S. STRICKLER,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

ORDER
In the County Court of the state of Oregon, for the county of Clackamas.
In the matter of the guardianship of Frieda Braunschweiger, an insane person.
It appearing to this court from the petition this day presented and filed by Edward Braunschweiger, the guardian of the person and estate of Frieda Braunschweiger, an insane person, praying for an order of sale of the undivided interest in certain real estate belonging to said ward, described as follows: An undivided one-fourth interest in lot numbered nine (9) in block numbered forty-nine (49) in Oregon Iron & Steel company's first addition to the town of Oswego, in Clackamas county, state of Oregon; that it is for the best interest of said ward and necessary that said real estate be sold.
It is therefore ORDERED that the next of kin of said ward, or persons interested in said estate, appear before this court on Monday, the 11th day of August, 1913, at 2:00 o'clock p. m., in the court room of this court at the court house in the county of Clackamas, state of Oregon, then and there to show cause why an order should not be granted for the sale of said real estate.
And it is further ORDERED that a copy of this order be published at least once a week for three successive weeks before the said day of hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation in said county of Clackamas, state of Oregon, published at Oregon City.
R. B. BEATTIE,
Judge.
Dated July 18th, 1913, and first published July 19th, 1913.

of including it in "forest reserve." But Mr. Pinchot, in his zeal for the protection of future generations, saw possibilities of forests in many places. He reserved the West, which didn't need his attentions, the first thing in his official career, and after he had crippled the West he reluctantly turned his attention to the East, and established a few reserves in the White and Adirondack mountains. If he had paid his earliest attentions to the section along the Atlantic coast, he might have saved some of the forests that draped the hills there at one time, but not until the so-called mountains of these ranges had been "skinned" by hungry timbermen did he see fit to throw his protecting mantle about them.
Pinchot has now gone from out the government service, and a man who is using common sense, instead of faddism, in the transaction of business is holding office. Yet the Pinchot peril is not passed entirely. His best friend, the Colonel, is yet a menace, and is still hoping against hope that the people will return him to the presidential chair. And if the Colonel should ever be allowed his "third cup of coffee," Pinchot will be sure to be thrust back, to undo the work of his successors in office, and once again to begin his crippling of development.
The opening of the "short grass lands" should be regarded as a signboard on the road to the future, and should also be borne in mind as a warning of the past. Every person in the West who has suffered, either directly or indirectly, through "Pinchotism," should remember that the Bull Moose ambition carries with it also more "Pinchotism," more crippling, more setbacks. The Pinchot peril is but one of the tentacles of the Colonel's octopus, and while in itself it may be a menace to only a part of the country, the surest way to prevent its return is to scotch the creature close to the ears, and so make its tentacles useless. The squelching of the Colonel's ambition, and all effort directed towards such action, will be a safeguard of the future, and an assurance that progress can be continued without stumbling over the barriers of "reserves" created by a faddist who cannot, even, be convinced that he may be wrong. The Northwest knows this, and should remember that it knows it.

"THIS IS MY 43RD BIRTHDAY"
Henry B. Irving, eldest son of the late Sir Henry Irving and himself an actor of considerable note, was born in London, August 5, 1870. He received his education at Oxford University. He studied law and was called to the bar, but never practiced the profession. Instead, he embraced the profession of his famous father, and in 1894 joined the company of Mr. Comyns Carr at the Comedy Theatre in London. In 1896 he joined George Alexander's company at the St. James' Theatre. In 1905 Mr. Irving secured a

She'd Cut His Hair.
"A woman is very unreasonable," said a venerable New Hampshire justice of the peace. "I remember that my wife and I were talking over our affairs one day, and we agreed that it had come to the point where we must both economize."
"Yes, my dear," I said to my wife. "we must both economize, both!"
"Very well, Henry," she said, with a tired air of submission; "you shave yourself, and I'll cut your hair!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Tail Wagging Muscles.
The wearing of tails is no longer considered fashionable, but that we did once have tails and are prepared to grow them again should the fashion change is shown by remains in our pelvis of tail wagging muscles, now rudimentary and degenerate from lack of use. Wiedersheim calls attention to the remains of arteries and veins which formerly nourished the tail. Gould and Pyle's "Anomalies and Curiosities of Medicine" gives a picture of a child born with a tail. These modern tails, however, are too short for any use, unless it is to make the father stop drinking.—New York Medical Record.

"Can you tell me how to secure a husband, Mrs. Worldlywise?"
"Why, you're got a husband, my dear."
"True, but I haven't got him secured."—Judge.

Heart to Heart Talks

EVERY ONE IS A CENTRAL.
The telephone central is a wonderful place—a maze of wires and plugs and switches. Through it flow constantly, day and night, the hundreds of messages testifying to the usefulness of the greatest of modern inventions.
Every human being is a central. Into him and out of him flow messages to and from the others of his kind.
He is in constant connection with his fellows. Through him they call up others. Through him go the words of peace and good will and perhaps the tones of strife and anger.
A wonderful thing is the telephone central. Still more marvelous is the human central.
Greater than man's inventions is man.
He is in constant communication with all humankind. The diver seeking pearls in the depths of the Indian ocean, the hawk hunter on the slopes of the Himalayas, all are connected with you and with me by wires invisible, but strong.
From each human being radiate the lines of common interests. Whatever affects you affects me. Whatever you do for good benefits me. Whatever you do for evil rebounds on me, on you, on every one else.
It is a law of the universe, a law of humanity.
You cannot evade the law or live without its bounds. You cannot set yourself apart from your fellows. Whether you will or not, you must live for them as well as for yourself. You cannot disconnect the wires.
And more—
When the call of our common humanity comes in and you are summoned to do something to prove your human fellowship you cannot answer "Busy!"
If you do you are recreant to yourself and you fail to fulfill your function.
When "central" fails, all is confusion among the telephone subscribers. The activity dependent on the telephone line ceases. Life itself seems to halt. So it is when the great heart of humanity, made up of millions of individual hearts, fails to respond to the call of human brotherhood.
Keep yourself in readiness to answer the call.
Keep your lines of sympathy and interest in mankind clear. Do not clog them with messages of self.

REMOVE YOUR CORNS
You don't need to cut them. Rexall Corn Solvent will remove them far more effectively and without the danger that cutting involves. You don't need to suffer any longer, for Rexall Corn Solvent will remove the cause. If it doesn't, your money back.
Why suffer? Is there any excuse for you to continue to groan and limp and endure those excruciating tortments, when a prompt, safe, painless remedy is offered under a positive guarantee to relieve or money back? Surely, it is worth a quarter to get it offered you with a guarantee to restore your feet to comfort, or money back, is worth a trial. Sold in this community only at our store. ## Mothercraft Should Be Studied by All Women

By Miss MARY L. READ, Director of the School of Mothercraft, New York City
IT IS NOT MERELY THE MOTHER OF THE POOR SECTIONS WHO NEEDS INSTRUCTION IN THE CARE OF HER BABY. IT IS THE COLLEGE WOMAN, THE WOMAN OF WEALTH AND POSITION, WHO OUGHT TO STUDY MOTHERCRAFT. NEITHER INSTINCT NOR GENERAL CULTURE IS SUFFICIENT IN ITSELF TO ENABLE A MOTHER TO GIVE HER LITTLE ONES REALLY INTELLIGENT AND SCIENTIFIC CARE. SHE NEEDS TO LEARN HOW TO PROTECT HER BABY'S HEALTH JUST AS SHE NEEDS TO LEARN HOW TO KEEP HERSELF WELL AND STRONG.
They are AHEAD OF US IN ENGLAND. They have a number of schools there where refined and intelligent young women may learn how to feed and clothe and train the babies.
The life chances of the baby whose mother nurses it compared with the bottle fed baby are TEN TO ONE. I cannot imagine any social or professional duty of sufficient importance to interfere with a mother nursing her baby. Parenthood is a responsibility, and if it is undertaken at all it should not be half heartedly. Mother instinct, which is their love, impels most mothers to DEVOTE THEMSELVES TO THEIR BABIES during these precious and swift flying early years.
