Three Masked Men Successful in Third Sullivan's Gulch Robbery—Police Soon On Scene—No Clues

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 19.—(Special)—Three masked men held up the Soo-Spokane limited on the O-W. R. & N. shortly after nine this evening and secured $585 in cash and $500 worth of jewelry before they were frightened off. Within ten minutes later the scene of the robbery, which was in Sullivan's gulch, near the East 12th street bridge, was infested with an army of police and deputy sheriffs, but up to midnight no trace of the robbers had been discovered.

The three hold-up men rode out of Portland on the roof of the train, which is a Canadian Pacific special running out of the Oregon metropolis. Just before reaching the Twelfth street bridge one of them clamored down over the tender and into the cab, and commanded the engineer to stop the limited. The engineer did, and the other two men then dropped to the ground climbed in over the observation platform on the rear car, and ordered the passengers to hold up their hands, enforcing the command by firing a shot through the partition into the smoking room.

The passengers offered no resistance, and the "picking" was easy for the robbers until a shot at the head-end of the train told them something had gone wrong with their plans. It developed later that the fireman on the engine, noting that he was uncov-ered by the bandit's gun, had leaped from the cab and started up the side of the gulch in search of the police. The bandit on the engine fired at him, and then started back for the observa-tion car to warn his pals. The two men who had been securing booty promptly dropped off the car and fol-lowed him down the track.

About this time Joe Barros, a Mexi-can hobo who was also riding on top of the limited concluded it would be a good time to get out of sight and dropped down from the roof of one of the sleepers and started "sloping" down the track. The bandits saw him, and fired at him, the bullet entering his abdomen. Barros crawled to the observation platform, and there threw the passengers into a panic, until cool-er heads discovered that he was prob-ably fatally wounded and made him as comfortable as possible.

The fireman, in the meanwhile, had found a policeman, and the alarm was spread. Captain Riley, of the first night relief, with two automobiles filled with officers, dashed to the

ALL WELL WATER MUST BE BOILED

CITY AND STATE HEALTH FORCES WARN WELL OWNERS TO TAKE NO CHANCES

ARE HUNTING DISEASE SOURCE

Believe Epidemic Can be Checked if People Follow Out Orders of The Authorities—Are New Cases

"Boil every drop of your well water" is the warning that has been sent out by the health authorities of the city and state pending the results of their investigations into the cause of the typhoid fever epidemic that has claimed such a large number of cases in the city.

Some of the officers believe that a large percentage of the cases that have been attracting attention the last few weeks have come directly from the disease-bearing germs that are in the wells in and around the city. Though they also have other ideas that account for part of the cases, they cannot find any other reason that would explain some of the cases that have been called to their attention.

At any rate, they do not believe in taking any chances. They have issued a warning to all well owners that the water should be boiled, at least until the "bug hunters" have located the dangerous bacilli that have caused the disease and have carried out the campaign of extermination.

The city and state boards plan to make the campaign this time a thorough one and to take every step that will throw any light whatever on the disease in the city. Until they have definitely discovered the reason, they warn the families whose water supply is a well to boil every drop that they use for domestic purposes and to take no chances whatever with the merciless germs that lie hovering in the sparkling water—seemingly pure than the best that could be had in Bull Run or elsewhere.

A five up-to-the-minute store is really an attractive exposition. It is a mirror of the world's work. You could not see all the stores in a day—but you can pick out the ones most likely to interest you by reading the advertising in today's ENTERPRISE.

Let this advertising be a sort of tourist bureau for you, saving you feet steps and leading you directly to what you want to see.

Every advertisement is a notice from the merchant that his "latch string is out."

Children of Big Cities Are Taught Graphically By Model How to Avoid Street Car Accidents.

This picture is worth your attention because it illustrates what is being done in some of the big cities of the country to minimize street car accidents and fatalities to children. It was taken at the American League of Safety rooms, which were recently started in New York city, and shows the class of children gathered around a model street car. Little ones from the poorer sections are taken to the museum and shown how to avoid accidents. They see exactly how to get on and off a car without standing the risk of being hurt. A number of wealthy philanthropists are interested in the league, including Andrew Carnegie. In addition, the children are taught what games to play on the streets and in general how to conduct themselves outdoors.

FIREMEN OPEN NEW HALL AT ELYVILLE

He congratulated the members of the company on the services that they had rendered to the city at various fires and spoke of the bravery and judgment that they had displayed on several occasions. Members of the company spoke along the same lines.

An excellent musical program was given and a vote of thanks was passed by the visitors to the company for its past services to the city in the protection of property. The committee in charge of the arrangement consisted of William Friebe, Babe Elliott, Herman Trikler, C. Gathberg and A. Dahlke.

With the official vote all in from the county and canvassed by the board, H. S. Anderson was declared the new county judge Tuesday and the oath of office was administered by County Clerk Mulvey.

The canvass of the board increases the lead of the recall candidate from 331 over Judge Beatie to 496 and that of Smith over Blair is decreased by the difference in the final vote is brought about by the addition of several of the precincts that had not been heard from on the night of the election and that were not included in the unofficial returns. Even in some of those that were reported, the official vote shows a difference in the final count.

Judge Anderson took charge of the county affairs Tuesday afternoon as soon as he had taken the requisite oath of office.

RIOT-MAKERS NOT WANTED

HOP GROWERS TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT IMPORTATION
OF I. W. W. CROWD

PICKERS MUST BE MARRIED MEN

Big Producers Believe that Men With Families Are Less Apt to Create Trouble Than Others

I. W. W.'s are not wanted in the hop yards of Oregon. Several of the biggest hop growers of this section of the state have especially instructed their representatives to pick only men whom they personally know and who are free from the propaganda of the anarchistic order.

In order to be sure that none of the fops to law and order are imported to the hop yards, the representatives have been instructed to get married men with their families wherever it is possible to do so and to take on only those single men who are well known in the community and whose tendencies do not align them with the I. W. W. crowd.

Hop-pickers are going into the yards by the hundreds and everywhere the I. W. W. element has been barred by the most stringent tests. The representatives of the large growers are now careful in their selection of the men who are to be sent into the yards and their reputations in the community in which they are to be closely investigated before the men are given the jobs. This is particularly true where the men are not married. Many of the pickers are taking their families with them and the growers report that they are having no trouble to get all of the men that they will need.

One representative, for instance, was instructed to get 150 men for a yard and has more than 250 on the list all eager for the jobs. As the season opens next month, the growers are employing their men now in order to be sure to have them when the time comes, but there is now no indication that there will be any shortage of labor.

Through all of the work of selecting the men for the places, the representatives take particular pains to keep out the anarchistic element and to prevent any recurrence of the California trouble. The experience in Portland, California and other points has placed the growers on their guard and they declare that they will take every measure to prevent one of the elements from getting into the yards.

GOVERNMENT COMES TO AID OF FARMERS

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug. 18.—The United States Department of Agriculture, through the division of farm management will co-operate with the Oregon Agricultural College as soon as the federal government is able to make the necessary adjustments. This important step was definitely decided upon at recent conference held at the Oregon Agricultural College between President W. J. Kerr and R. D. Hetzel, director of extension, representing the college, and C. B. Smith and Byron Hunter, acting for the federal government.

The new arrangement calls for cooperative overhead supervision of field and farm demonstration work by the federal and state departments. When put into operation the plan will have the advantage not only of furnishing financial aid from the federal government, but of bringing the help of the great federal organizations and the information in its possession directly to the farmers of Oregon. Mr. H. T. French will have immediate supervision of this department of the extension work.
