BASEBALL IN SHORT METER

Roger Bresnahan now is thirty-three years old. The Boston Red Sox possess a battery of identically the same age. Wood and Nunamaker both were born Oct. 25, 1889. Bedient was born two days earlier. Manager Birmingham of the Cleveland Naps is pleased at the return to form of Willie Mitchell, who, he says, ought to be a consistent winner from now on. Hans Wagner hopes to boost the total base hits of his career up to the 3,000 mark before the season ends. At the close of the last campaign his total was 2,827. Tom Jones, formerly of the Browns, and Tigers, is leading the former big leaguers of the American association in batting. He has a mark of 345 in forty-eight games. Brief and Austin of the St. Louis Browns and Gedeon of the Washingtons, are said to be the most sensational performers in the game in diving after hard hit balls just out of reach. There is one mark that Walter Johnson still has a chance to get this year—that for a season's total strikeouts. He now has more than a hundred to his credit. It never was decided definitely whether he broke Rube Waddell's record in 1910.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS REAL ICONOCLASTS

When the St. Louis Browns trimmed the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 2, recently and ended the winning streak of the Mackies, which totaled fifteen successive triumphs, another chapter was added to the sensational feats in breaking records—which has featured the American league for the past several years. Not a first division team since 1908, still the Browns have compiled a peculiar record of being able to wreck records of the enemy, and stopping the Athletics brings to memory a few of the incidents which have happened. Look at this list: In 1908 beat the Naps in the game that prevented Cleveland from winning the pennant and allowed the Tigers to win by half a game. In 1910 took five out of eight games in a series from the Tigers and put Detroit out of the pennant race. In 1910 beat Southpaw Krause, who had started with ten successive victories. In 1912 beat Walter Johnson when the star had won sixteen in a row and was after Marquard's record of nineteen. In 1913 stopped the Naps after they had won ten straight. In 1913 scored on Walter Johnson after he pitched fifty-six successive scoreless innings. In 1913 beat the Athletics after they won fifteen straight. Not a team of record breakers themselves, but a breaker of almost all records, the Browns have caused havoc and fear among the teams who are in the way of becoming famous in the dope book of baseball.

"THIS IS MY 53RD BIRTHDAY"

Queen of Bulgaria. Queen Eleanor of Bulgaria, whose prompt action in organizing Red Cross work as soon as hostilities began in the late Balkan war did much to mitigate the sufferings of the wounded soldiery in the campaign, was born August 22, 1860. Before her marriage she was Princess Eleanor of Reuss. The ancient house of Reuss is divided into the elder and the younger line, each of the respective heads ruling a separate little kingdom. The queen of Bulgaria belongs to the younger line, and is a protestant. From her girlhood she devoted herself to good works in her father's principality, particularly in the neighborhood of the ancestral home at Gera. She served as a nurse during the Russo-Japanese war, and it was generally believed that she preferred philanthropy to matrimony. She had reached middle life when, five years ago, she became the second wife of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria. Eight months after their marriage the ancient kingdom of Bulgaria was restored by special proclamation, and Prince Ferdinand became King of Bulgaria. Congratulations to: Butler Ames, former Massachusetts representative in Congress, 42 years old today. Melville E. Stone, for the past twenty years the chief heavily told the Associated Press, 65 years old today. Daniel R. Anthony, representative in congress of the first district of Kansas, 43 years old today. James O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, 45 years old today. Howard Camitz, one of the star pitchers of the Pittsburgh National league baseball club, 32 years old today. E. H. R. Green, only son of Mrs. Hetty Green and who is expected to inherit the bulk of the fortune possessed by America's richest woman, 45 years old today.

President's Special Envoy to Mexico Faces Most Difficult Mission.

The country at large awaited with keen interest the outcome of President Wilson's action in sending ex-Governor John Lind of Minnesota to Mexico as special envoy to the American embassy at Mexico City. The former governor, who is a close friend of Secretary of State Bryan, was delegated to induce Huerta to resign and to bring the federals and the constitutionalists together for the purpose of holding an election for president. Mr. Lind's portrait is here shown, together with a typical group of the Mexican rebels with whose leaders he will have to deal.

Poetry and Horse Dealing.

"See here, that horse you sold me is no good." "I know he is not perfect, and I told you so. Don't you remember my remarking that there he was with all his imperfections on his head?" "Yes, I know you said that; but, hang it, his worst faults are in his legs, and you didn't say a word about those." —Boston Transcript.

A Good Performer.

"Say, dad, I'm writing an essay on a man who held the chairs of botany, meteorology, physiology, chemistry and entomology in a small college. Would you refer to such a man simply as professor?" "No, Johnnie. I'd call a man who could hold as many chairs as that an acrobat." —Woman's Home Companion.

Antiquity of Beer.

Beer was brewed and drunk by the Egyptians, the exact date of its origin being lost in the remote ages. But that it was enjoyed in the flourishing times of Egypt is settled beyond controversy. So far as can be learned, the materials from which beer was then made were substantially the same as today.

His Idea.

"Ned" Green is Forty-five

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—E. H. R. Green, only son of Mrs. Hetty Green and prospective heir to the bulk of the enormous fortune possessed by his mother, reached his forty-fifth birthday anniversary today. Despite the fact that some day in all probability he will be one of the wealthiest men of America, Mr. Green is a modest and unassuming man who works hard and indulges in few hobbies. The past few years he has made his home in this city, looking after some of the great financial interests of his mother, though he continues to spend a part of each year in Texas, where he is interested in railroads and other enterprises. Mr. Green is unmarried.

BUYERS WON'T TAKE JAPANESE STOCK

Japanese growers are in bad in the potato trade and their offerings are almost entirely neglected in the local trade. Fear of "stove piping" is causing the trade in general to give the Japanese growers a wide berth in the local district. American potato growers are experiencing no difficulty in selling their stocks of better quality potatoes at this time, but a different situation is shown when the little brown man begins to offer. According to one member of the local trade, he would not buy potatoes from Japanese at any price, in fear of getting "stung." While this view is not entirely shared by the produce trade, still there is a feeling that it would be wise to cut the stocks in two before deciding to purchase. With somewhat more free offering of potatoes, there has been a fractional amount of easiness shown in the local trade recently. No outside demand is noted for local stock because of unmaturing quality. Northern business is not coming here at present.

I. C. S. An Ethical Power Now, gentleness, just for a moment, I would speak to you, not as an educationalist, but as a preacher of manhood and a lover of his kind. The question of the use of alcohol by the student when studying, has carried me back to the thought. The International Correspondence Schools are not simply educational, they are ethical; they not only make foremen and craftsmen and draftsmen, but they make commercial possibilities without stirring up all other possibilities—social, patriotic, philanthropic, intellectual, moral. The moment you succeed breaking up one area of inertia you set vibration moving through every part of the being and all kinds of dormant and stagnant powers are set into healthy motion. When a man's mind gets engrossed with an intellectual occupation and he finds that he has a grip upon the laws and forces of the universe, the saloon, the vulgar and degrading scene of the cup-stone loafing, and the hours of inane and ribald waste all seem to be unworthy of him and his self-respect clothes him in a protective armor which helps to keep his entire manhood inviolate. A great American preacher used to speak much about "the explosive power of a new affection," and, having as your life work the duty of both supplying and developing this "new affection"—the love of the best, by which the unworthy and base will be expelled, perhaps unconsciously but surely, from many and many a man. Success to you in your work! The Trained Man Never Worries When the chiefs put their heads together to hire or "fire,"—the trained man doesn't worry. He knows that there is always a place for him. You can look your job and every man in the face if you possess the training so much in demand every where today. The International Correspondence Schools will go to you in your spare time, whenever you live, and will train you to become an expert in your chosen line of work. Such a training will forever take you off the "anxious" seat. It costs you nothing to find how the I. C. S. can help you. Mark the coupon opposite the occupation for which you have a natural liking, mail the coupon today, and the I. C. S. will send you facts showing how you can earn more money in the occupation of your own choice.
