CITY ASKS FOR HELP ON RATES

COMMITTEE APPEALS TO THE PEOPLE FOR MORE DATA AS TO SERVICE

TIME GROWING SHORT FOR WORK

Shippers Are Asked to Give Any Information at Hand as to Irregularities in Charges or Other Details

F. J. Tooze, chairman of the committee appointed by Mayor Jones to investigate the rates of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, has issued a call to all of the citizens of the county for information as to unfair charges or unsatisfactory service rendered by the company.

The chairman calls attention to the fact that he has but a few days in which to gather the data that the railroad commission of the state will need at its hearing on the second of next month and that he will need all of the assistance that the people of the city and the county can give him.

He said Saturday night: "The chairman of the committee that will take up the matters relating to the charges, rates, and services of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company requests the citizens of Oregon City to report at once to him or the other members of the committee any irregularity in rates or changes or unsatisfactory service rendered. The committee has put a few days in which to prepare for the hearing and is desirous of being fair, both to the community and to the company. Any information that can be furnished will be appreciated."

The committee has been hard at work on the question of rates since the day when the mayor made the appointment. It has gone into the question of service that the company has given to the city and has studied the matters that will be taken up by the railroad commission of the state when it convenes next month. Some really valuable data will be ready for the hearing at that time.

"READY MONEY" AT HEILIG THIS WEEK

SCENE IN "READY MONEY"

"Ready Money" James Montgomery's comedy of love and romance which William A. Brady, Ltd., will present at the Heilig theatre, 11th and Morrison streets, six nights beginning Sunday, August 24th, with a bargain matinee Tuesday and a special price matinee Friday, has the distinction of being distinctively out of the beaten path, in fact it possesses an individuality all its own.

The love story is told in a comedy vein, with tense and exciting moments mixed in, but the element of the weeping drama, is absent. The sentiment is the love and romance as women are things about it today. It tells a story of a young man who makes a success just at the time when things look darkest for him, and affords a lesson in encouragement that cannot fail to make an impression on its beholders.

CHILD WANDERS TO PORTLAND

GEORGE CRITESER SUDDENLY LEAVES HOME AND HUNTS FOR BROTHER

FAMILY STARTS SEARCHING PARTY

Father Discovers Son on Hayden's Island After Disappearance For Four Days—Is Well and Safe

After leaving home Wednesday morning and disappearing from sight until Saturday night, George C. Criteser, 12 years old, was found on the north end of Hayden's Island with his brother Ernest, by his father, Newt Criteser, who had started to search for him.

The boy had taken the electric cars at his home in New Era about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning and told his 14-year-old sister that he was going to Canby. On his way, he stopped at the home of his uncle E. V. Veteto and told the family that he was making his way to Oregon City and would return on a late car.

Instead, he took the car to Portland and hunted for his brother until he found him where he was constructing a launch on the island. He had been in Portland but once before, about a year ago, but he managed to find the place that he was hunting for without getting lost for any length of time. The family had been worried about the boy's strange disappearance, and had started searching parties out after him.

Shortly after the description of the child had been furnished, the father called on The Enterprise from Portland and announced that he found the boy with the older brother and that the child had walked around until he had found the place toward which he was going.

The child's description was given as 12 years old, light complexion, blue eyes, four feet 10 inches, 90 pounds, dark blue suit, knee trousers, light blue shirt, dark striped knit tie, and brown hat.

BUSY DAY IN CITY CHURCHES PLANNED

Dr. T. B. Ford, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, believes that James and Estella Croon, the evangelists who are to conduct the services at the tent on Eighth and Jackson streets are of the old fashioned variety that "our fathers knew and that we ought to know more about."

He said Saturday night: "They are worthy members of the church, are free from 'come-outism' and from religious fanaticism, have no connections whatever with the 'holly rollerism' or other similar cults, and will conduct a revival of the kind that our fathers knew and that we ought to know more about."

Dr. Ford has invited Mr. Crooks to preach for him Sunday morning as well as at the union services in the church.

The St. John's Catholic church will give its annual picnic at Canemah Park Sunday afternoon. Refreshments will be served, games played, contests and races scheduled on the program.

Rev. O. R. Jenks, president of Aurora, Ill. College, will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. In the evening, the churches of the city will unite with the Methodists in their revival services.

SPEEDERS ARE TO BE PUNISHED HEREAFTER

A special officer, mounted on a motorcycle that will outrun any automobile fiend in the county, has begun work on north Main street where the paved thoroughfare is now being used for a speedway. Mayor Jones has declared war against the drivers of cars who break the city's speed laws and proposes to keep the officer on duty until he checks the tendency to speed up when the cars reach the upper end of the street.

The city has special trouble with touring parties from Portland who visit the town on Sunday, using the street for a speedway. The police have hitherto been unable to catch the speeders for they have not been equipped with stop watches and could not follow them long enough to get their exact rate of speed.

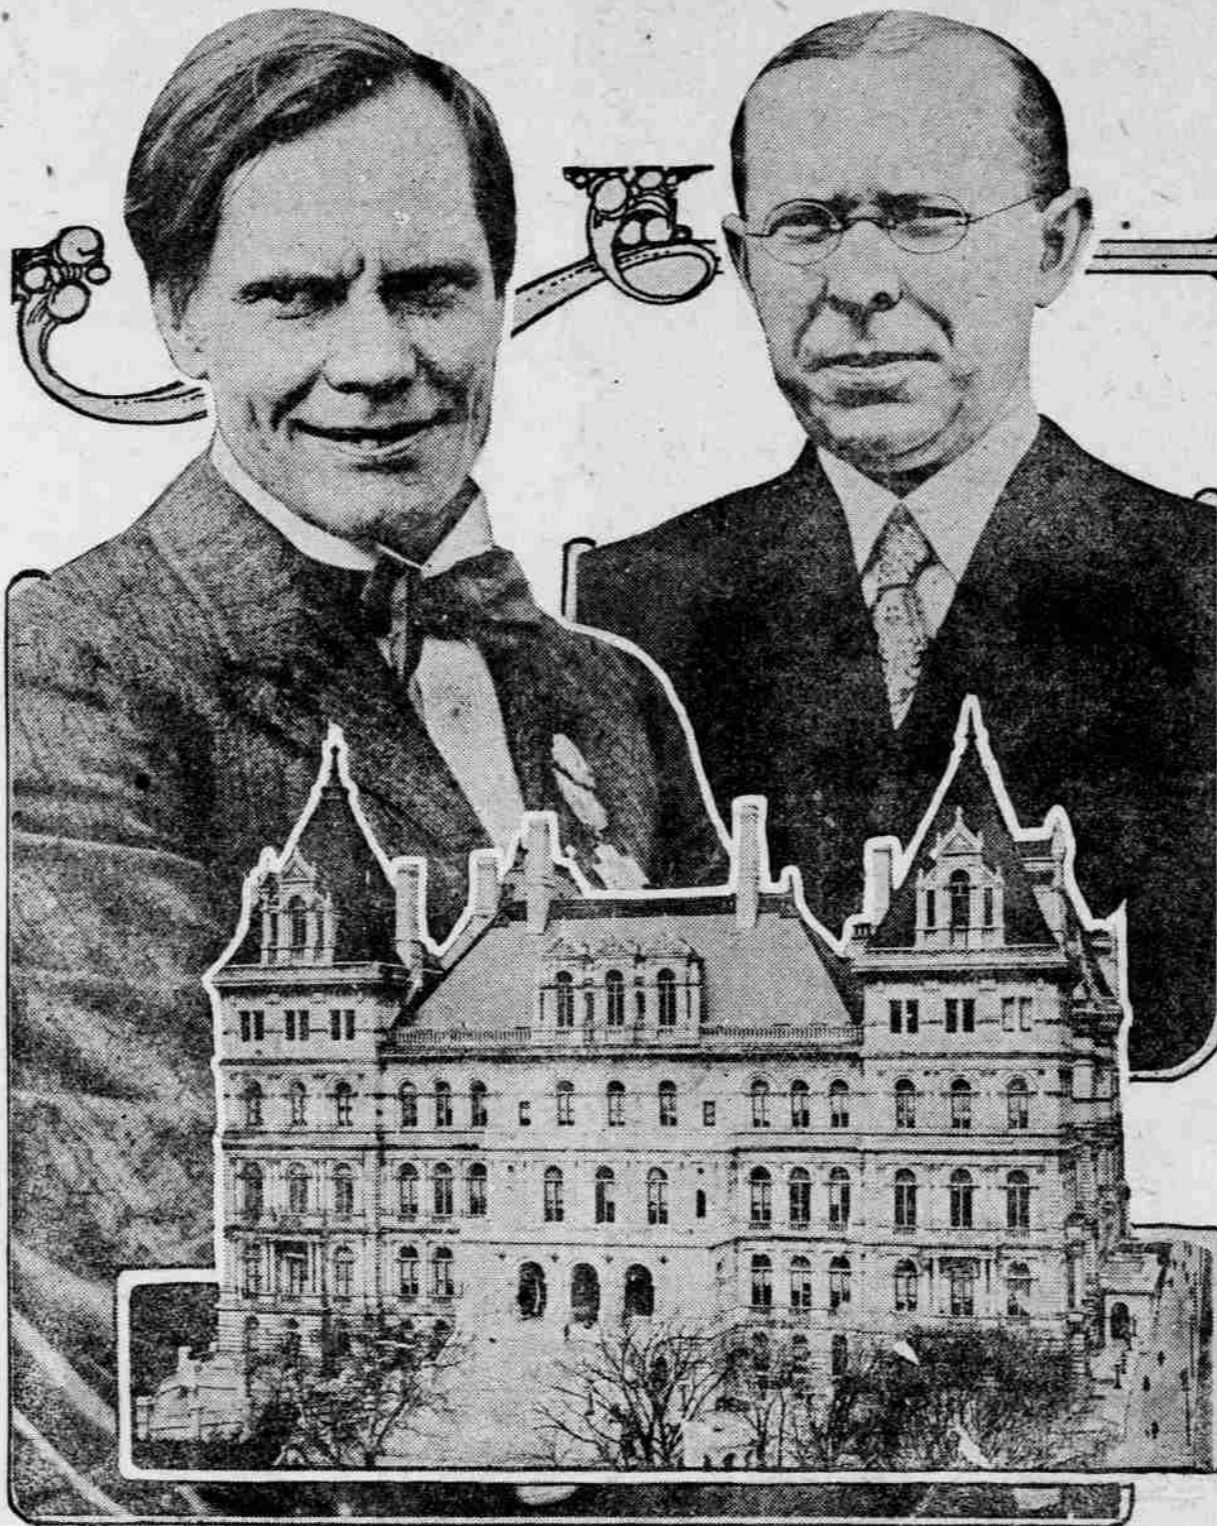

The new motorcycle policeman, however, will be at work most of the time and will follow the speeders until he has arrested and taken them to the station for breaking the city laws.

Man Who Remembers Napoleon

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Probably the only person now living who has a clear personal recollection of the great Napoleon is M. Pierre Schamel-Roy, who one Monday next will celebrate his 106th birthday anniversary at his home at Neuilly. M. Schamel-Roy, as a boy of 12, saw the fallen emperor in exile at St. Helena, where he was taken to visit his father, who was a faithful follower and servant of Napoleon until the latter's death. As a child M. Schamel-Roy was a playmate of the prince imperial, later styled the King of Rome.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 23.—Famous as the oldest of the several piers here and valued at $1,500,000 prior to its almost complete destruction by fire a year ago, the Ocean Pier was sold at auction today under foreclosure proceedings.

Sulzer and Glynn, Principals In New York State's Political Row, and Capitol at Albany.

Photographs of Sulzer and Glynn copyright, 1913, by American Press Association. After the impeachment of Governor William Sulzer of New York for "willful and corrupt conduct in office and for high crimes and misdemeanors" the accused executive at once fought to retain his office pending the outcome of the impeachment trial. Lieutenant Governor Martin H. Glynn automatically claimed assumption to the governorship under the provisions of the state constitution. The state capitol at Albany, N. Y., was the scene of the hottest political fight of its kind ever waged in the old Empire State. Sulzer was the first governor of the state to be impeached and the eighth in the nation. The trial was set for Sept. 18. In the illustration Mr. Sulzer is on the left.

COMING WEEK TO BE AN EVENTFUL ONE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—The Hague, the capital city of the Netherlands, will be the scene of an event of world-wide interest Friday, when ceremonies will be held in dedication of the Palace of Peace. The palace was erected with a $1,500,000 donation from Andrew Carnegie and is to be the home and headquarters of the international permanent court of arbitration. The dedication ceremonies will be attended by official representatives of the leading nations of the world.

Dedicate New Dam

An event that will mark an epoch in the industrial development of a large section of the middle west will be the dedication of the great power dam that has been built across the Mississippi River at Keokuk, Iowa.

The dam is nearly a mile in length and is surpassed in size only by the great Nile river dam at Assouan. It is designed to furnish cheap and abundant electrical power to cities and towns throughout Illinois, Iowa and Missouri.

At the end of the week New York will welcome a most distinguished visitor in the person of Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain. Lord Haldane is to visit America in response to an invitation to deliver an address before the convention of the American Bar association at Montreal. Before proceeding to Montreal he will spend several days in New York and vicinity and will visit West Point and other places of interest.

The bar association meeting in Montreal will be preceded by the annual conference of the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which will begin its sessions Tuesday. There will also be a conference of the judiciary committee of the bar association.

which will be addressed Saturday by former President William H. Taft.

All the leading nations, all the states of the Union, many American colleges and universities, and various other prominent educational, scientific, medical and hygienic institutions and organizations will be represented at the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene, which will begin in Buffalo Monday and continue through the week. This will be the first meeting of the organization in America. As its name indicates, the object of the organization is to promote the health of school children. In addition to the programme of addresses and discussions there will be displayed a scientific exhibit illustrating the most notable achievements of the last few years in school hygiene.

Swedish farm laborers who are hired by the year receive an average of $85 annually, with board and room in addition.

BUD ANDERSON NAMED IN DIVORCE ACTION

JAGGAR DIVORCE IS TO BE DISMISSED

By a stipulation of attorneys involved in the case, the suit of Janette Jaggar against her husband, Frank Jaggar, for divorce will be dismissed. The stipulation was filed with the clerk of the circuit court Saturday and ends the litigation that was started by the filing of the original papers. The agreement does not give the terms of the settlement but it is presumed that a satisfactory adjustment of the differences was made out of court.

The stipulation follows and is signed White as attorneys for the plaintiff and by Brownell & Stone and Joseph E. Hodges as counsel for the defendant: "It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the parties hereto that the above entitled suit be dismissed without prejudice and without cost to either party."

TUALATIN BRIDGE TO BE REPAIRED SOON

Repair work on the Tualatin bridge will begin in the next few days under an order issued by the county court at a special meeting Saturday. The court decided that the bridge was in such a condition as to necessitate immediate repair and that it would place Clarence Zimmerman in charge as superintendent.

The bridge has needed repair work for sometime, it is said, and was Saturday closed on an order from the court until the work could be completed. The county officials believe that it will take several days to place it in condition for traffic and that it will not be safe to use it until that time.

The cost of the work will reach about $1500. The court feels that it has the right to authorize this repair work and to place an agent of its own in charge because of the immediate necessity for the work.

SAMUEL V. STEWART

New Governor of Montana

Bud Anderson, the lightweight favorite of the Northwest, is named as the correspondent in a divorce action by Guy Pace against his wife, Maud Pace.

The husband charges that the prize fighter has alienated his wife's affections and that he has taken her out automobile riding numbers of times and has kept her out until after midnight on nearly every one of them. Time and again the two have been together, the husband says, in spite of his most earnest remonstrances and requests until the matter has reached such a stage that he could live with her no longer and has brought suit for the severance of the marriage tie.

From the complaint, it appears that Anderson came to Oregon City in an automobile during the early part of the month and that he took Mrs. Pace out for a ride and did not return until after 12 o'clock.

Writes Love Letters. The husband recites how his wife wrote love letters to the prize fighter and how she called him all sorts of endearing and affectionate names. Their desire to be together brought them into each other's company on many occasions, he says, and mentions numbers of auto excursions that they took in spite of his protests and complaints.

Nothing that he could do or say had any weight with the wife whose infatuation for the fighter increased, according to the story, and the trips grew more frequent and regular. The presence of his wife in the company of the other man and the fact that she never returned after the midnight hour often caused him a great deal of worry and mental anguish, he complains, and finally drove him to the point where he could no longer live with her in domestic happiness.

Spins are Frequent. While Anderson was in Portland, he frequently made visits to Oregon City by automobile, the husband says, and took the wife out for spins to Portland and other places. The spins were always lasted through the entire evening, he alleges. He says that Anderson has so far alienated his wife's affections that she wrote love letters to him, using all sorts of endearing and affectionate terms.

They were married in Portland on Christmas Day, 1910, and have lived in Oregon City the greater portion of that time since.

Gertrude C. Baker brought suit in the Circuit court Friday for a divorce decree from her husband, Isaac Baker, on the grounds of cruelty. They were married in Portland May 30, 1901, and have a son, William Joseph Baker, eight years old. The wife, in her complaint, asks that the court allow the child to remain with either parent for six months during the year and that a decree be entered to prevent one or the other from taking the child outside of the court's jurisdiction.

DEAD WOMAN IS CLAIMED BY SISTER

Mrs. Mack, who died under peculiar circumstances in a rooming house here July 19, has been identified as Mrs. Grace E. Covey by her sister, Mrs. G. V. Waters of Portland.

The body of Mrs. Covey was discovered and reburied in a lot selected by the sister. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Nelson Edwards of the Congregational church.

Mrs. Covey was identified at the time of her death as Mrs. Mack, and the circumstances surrounding her death were peculiar. She was found dead in a rooming house and the physician summoned pronounced it due to alcoholic gastritis. Mrs. Waters was in the east at the time and did not learn of the affair until some time afterwards. Mrs. Covey leaves a husband, J. L. Covey of Jackson, Mich.

AIDED BY AUTO, HARRY THAW ESCAPES FROM INSANE ASYLUM

(Copyright by International News Service).

Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White and the most spectacular riser in the world, who has escaped from the Matteawan Hospital for the criminally insane. At seven o'clock Sunday morning Thaw was strolling in the exercise court—a privilege allowed to trusted prisoners. A milk cart rumbled up and the driver halted Howard H. Barnum, the guard in charge of the gate. As the gate was opened to allow the milk cart to enter, Thaw as sudden as a panther leaped past the startled guard, past the cart and into a waiting automobile. The driver threw on power and the man who has fought for five years by legal means to gain his freedom had attained it by plot. Thaw need be under no particular concern about attempts to return him to Matteawan. As soon as he crossed the state line he was immune from arrest. This is the opinion of District Attorney Whitman as many other lawyers. He was acquitted of murder and was committed to Matteawan as a lunatic to remain there under duress until such time as his sanity might be proved.
