ONE DOCTOR REMOVED, ANOTHER RESIGNS, AND THE REST WON'T TAKE PLACE

WANT NORRIS AS HEALTH OFFICER

Physicians Ask County Court to Give Office to Man Who Had it Formerly—Petition Will be Refused

W. C. Schultze is not the county health officer. Neither is Dr. J. W. Norris.

Through the old board of county commissioners appointed Dr. Schultze as the guardian of the public health in the county, he has filed his resignation with the county clerk and has not served a single day.

At the same time the doctors of the city have filed a petition with the county board asking for the appointment of Dr. Norris to the position and his reinstatement in the office that he held some time ago.

This will not be done. The county board will refuse to grant the petition of the doctors of the city and county and will attempt to select some other man for the position that has been made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Schultze.

Doctors Sign Petition
But, as Dr. Schultze and most of the other doctors of the city have signed the petition for the reinstatement of Dr. Norris and as there seems to be an agreement that none of them will accept the position, the county board faces an unusual situation in attempting to make any appointment at all.

From the statements of attorneys as to the law, the board will have to select an officer who is a resident of the county seat. The physicians of the county seat have signified their intention of refusing to accept any appointment by signing the petition for Dr. Norris. The board will not appoint Dr. Norris and the county health officer's position will probably go begging.

The names that are to be found on the petition asking for Dr. Norris' appointment are: M. C. Strickland, C. H. Meisner, Guy Mount, Hugh Mount, W. C. Schultze, C. A. Stuart and H. A. Dedman.

This list includes the greater number of the doctors who are residents of the county seat and who would be eligible under the law for the position to be filled by the board.

Indians Now Learning Trades

LAWRENCE, Kan., Sept. 4.—Nearly 22 new Indian students from the five civilized tribes in Oklahoma enrolled today at the opening of the term at Haskell Institute. The number of new comers is considered in excess of any previous year and is taken as an indication that the Indians are beginning to appreciate the advantages of a vocational training.

Other Divorces
Henry Ponville brought a divorce against his wife, Iva Fonville on the grounds that she had deserted him though he had at all times been a kind and affectionate husband towards her. They were married at Sullivan, Mo., May 4, 1895.

In accordance with the provisions of the stipulations between counsel that had been filed in the circuit court some time ago, the divorce suit of Janette Jaggar against Frank Jaggar was dismissed and the marriage settlement that had been arranged out of court was approved.

Other divorces heard and granted by the court were those of James H. Wilson against Bertha A. Wilson, and Charles Ansier against Nellie Angier.

WINDS AND RAIN
WRECK TABERNACLE

"And the winds blew, and the storms came, and the rain fell" and the tabernacle of the First Methodist church blew down Tuesday night preventing Evangelists James and Estrella Crooks, from holding their revival services there on Wednesday or Thursday nights.

The church services have not been materially disturbed by the accident, however, for the preachers conducted the revival in the First Methodist church Thursday night before a large congregation, many persons coming from the several other churches of the city to attend the special services.

The revival will be continued Friday night at 7:45 o'clock and the tent will soon be in condition again for the use of the visiting ministers.

Statisticians Meet in Vienna
VIENNA, Sept. 4.—Government statisticians and census officials from many countries, including the United States and Canada, met in Vienna today for the opening of the fourteenth session of the International Statistical Institute. The institute was founded in 1885 for the purpose of promoting the progress of administrative and scientific statistics, and especially of securing as far as possible the comparability of international statistics by uniform schedules and compilation.

SKULL BROKEN; LIES IN RAIN

SLIPS OFF DRENCHED DECK OF FREIGHT AND IS LEFT UNCONSCIOUS

FINDS WAY INTO CITY FOR HELP

Walks Unaided from Scene to Get Aid After Accident Happens on Sharp Curve of Road—Goes to Portland

Running along the deck of a freight train soaked by several pouring rains as she was swinging around the curve near Gladstone, J. S. Cushing, a "brakie" was thrown to the ground, left in the ditch for several hours in a drenching rain with his skull fractured and his back injured until he regained consciousness and walked into the city for help.

Cushing was a brakeman on one of the freights that passed through Oregon City Wednesday night. He was about 30 years old and unmarried. He was at the rear end of the train as she was making the curve near Gladstone and attempted to reach the head of the freight.

The deck of the train was as slippery as glass. His feet went out from under him and he dropped to the ground like a bag of lead, struck his head on a rock, fractured the skull and injured his back.

Through the seven hours of the night in the drenching rain he staid there until he regained consciousness and could make his way into the city. He reached the S. P. station here and was placed on board a Portland train that took him to the hospital for medical attention.

WOMAN'S NOTES STIR UP FAMILY TROUBLES

Because he received letters from other women couched in the most endearing and affectionate terms and because she believed that he was "a base deceiver and falsifier," Estella E. Archibald filed suit in the circuit court Thursday against her husband, Harry A. Archibald.

Through her complaint, she refers to another woman who she said wrote letters to the defendant and signed them "from your loving wife, Anna". She alleges that he persuaded her to leave the state and to take a visit to California points so that he might run down to Portland and spend the month with another woman whom he knew there.

She also alleges that he did make the trip to Portland and that for the period in which she was visiting in California, he spent his time with another woman and held her out to the public as his wife.

The complaint recites that they were married in Chicago, March 28, 1911.

Inquiry Ordered Into Charges of Bad Food Used at Ellis Island Station.

If allegations made by the bureau of municipal research of New York city are true then the hundreds of thousands of immigrants who land at Ellis Island, New York harbor, each year are badly fed. Their first taste of things American is not what they had thought it would be. It is charged that rotten fish and meat and bad butter are used for the immigrants. Secretary of Labor Wilson directed an investigation, and United States Commissioner of Immigration Andrew Caminetti summoned several immigration officers to aid him in the probe. The committee was instructed thoroughly to look into the conditions under which the government cares for the immigrants. A picture of Commissioner Caminetti is shown, with a birdseye view of Ellis Island taken from an aerodrome.

EXAMINERS FIND NO ONE IS RESPONSIBLE

Following the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest over the body of Mrs. John Kelly, which placed the responsibility for Mrs. Kelly's death with the Southern Pacific Co. and charged that corporation with negligence, the company today issued a statement of the findings of the Board of Inquiry, composed of E. W. Cochran, general manager Oswego Lumber Co.; H. B. Bichner, an Oswego merchant; C. W. Martyn, assistant superintendent; F. M. Sufer, assistant superintendent, and D. F. Knapp, misner car builder.

Mrs. Kelly was killed last Monday at Goodin, near Oswego, while returning from a picnic. She was near the track, when a freight train passed, and several pieces of slab wood fell from a car and struck a number of people. Mrs. Kelly was instantly killed and several others received minor injuries. The report of the Board of Inquiry for the Southern Pacific follows:

Board's Report
"At about 5:45 P. M., Monday, September 1, 1913, Train No. 56, Engine No. 2204, Engineer S. K. Willett, Fireman G. L. Wise, Conductor D. J. Bryan, and Brakemen B. Hamburg, H. Blom and L. C. Bond, passed through Goodin, a non-agency station, running at a speed of not to exceed 25 miles per hour. It was daylight and the weather was clear. The deceased was standing within six feet from outside rail, and was struck by a piece of slabwood, four feet in length and not more than 15 inches in width and two and one-half inches thick. Approximately 15 pieces of slabwood fell from the car, and it could not be determined definitely which piece struck her. Death followed almost instantly.

"We, the Board of Inquiry, after examining car and its load and track conditions at point of derailment, and reviewing statements of train and engine crews in charge of Train No. 56, find that the accident was due to slabwood falling from top of car S. P. 78571 as train was rounding curve. We find that there was no individual responsibility."

BANK GETS STOLEN MONEY RETURNED

E. T. Mass, sheriff of Clackamas county, returned $365 in gold and silver to the Milwaukee bank Thursday after Virgil Perrine had been locked behind the bars of the Oregon State penitentiary and the money was no longer necessary as a matter of evidence.

Since last July, when it was found on the prisoner after he had been captured in the swamp following his robbery of the bank, the sheriff has had the money in the county safe and has held it as evidence for the trial that he thought the young bank robber would demand.

As Perrine decided to enter a plea of guilty and to take his sentence at once, the money was returned to the bank, the bank, through Cashier B. D. Stead.

TO ADVERTISE ALL WEST SIDE

BOOSTERS ROLL UP SLEEVES AND GET TO WORK FOR IMPROVEMENTS

PRINT TEN THOUSAND BOOKLETS

Plan to Start General Publicity Campaign for Growing Towns and to Present Facts to Newcomers From East

With every seat in the new Willamette school house taken and the people of the west side out in force, the new board of governors and other officers of the West Side Improvement club were named and steps taken to advertise and boost for the advancement of the communities on the other bank of the river.

Ten thousand eight page folders will be printed and distributed for the benefit of the communities that are scattered along the west bank. Rippe, crisp facts, written in the best and most readable style, will tell the people of other places the truth about the cities on that side of the river and will advertise the various resources and advantages that they have that are of interest to new comers in this section of the country.

"In unity, there is strength" was the keynote of the meeting through the evening. B. T. McElnain, the retiring president, made a strong appeal to the people of those communities to stand by each other in the effort to build up the new cities on that bank. Professor Thompson and C. B. Wilson talked along the same lines.

The newly elected members of the board of governors are, J. W. Draper, of Bolton; B. T. McElnain, of the West Side, and C. B. Wilson, of Willamette. Six of the members of the board hold over and were not elected Thursday night. Of the membership of the board G. L. Snidow was chosen president; J. W. Draper, of Bolton, vice president; J. Nichols, West Side, re-elected secretary, and M. C. Micheis, re-elected treasurer.

The treasurer's report showed a balance in the Bank of Oregon City of $88.75 and was adopted by a vote of the citizens present.

DOCTOR WARNS AGAINST FLY

To the editor of the Morning Enterprise, Oregon City, Oregon.
You are including in your report on the epidemic of typhoid fever in Oregon City and the results of water analyses that have been made. Have read with deep interest and I appreciate and thank you for the courtesy you have shown me in this matter.
In an epidemic of this kind one should not forget that common carrier of disease, the fly, who is credited with having caused the greatest epidemics of infectious and contagious diseases the world has known by carrying the germs of disease to articles of food.
The oft repeated statement that a fly in the milk may mean a baby in the grave is only too true.
Again thanking you for the clipping from your valuable paper, I remain,
Respectfully,
L. VICTORIA HAMPTON

Bishop More 75 Years Old

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 4.—Bishop David H. Moore, whose home is in this city attended his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary today. Since his ordination more than fifty years ago Bishop Moore has been active in the affairs of the Methodist Episcopal church. In addition to his work as a pastor he has served as editor of the church publications and as chancellor of the University of Denver. For some years he was stationed in the Far East with supervision of the Methodist missions in China Japan and Korea.

Sothern and Marlowe will open their season on September 8. "Years of Discretion" by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Hatton, is about to be produced in London.

EDINBURGH, Sept. 4.—The King and Queen motored today from Balmoral castle to Braemar to attend the gathering of the clans, of which event the King is the chief patron. The gathering is the most important fête day in the Highlands and never fails to attract a brilliant attendance. The scene presented of men in tartans and women in smart gowns, sashed with the colors of the different clans is most picturesque.

AGED INDIAN WOMAN DIES

HAD HOSTS OF FRIENDS IN CITY

Remained in One Family Twenty-five Years and had been in County for Long Time—Funeral Services

Leaving the people of her own tribe to live among the white invaders, Susan Klamath, a well known Indian woman of the city died at the residence of Charles E. Burns, 125 Seventeenth street, Wednesday night and was buried in the city cemetery at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The Indian woman, who was at least 82 years of age, has lived in Oregon City for as long as almost any of the other residents can remember. For the past 25 years she has been living with the family of Charles E. Burns and has had a home of her own on the Burns property.

For the last few years she has been afflicted with rheumatism but she died from cancer of the stomach. The funeral services were conducted in the Holman undertaking parlors by William Hammond, who read the Episcopal service. Several friends of the old woman attended the funeral and accompanied the body to the grave.

Few Relatives

Though she had many friends among the whites, she had few relatives among the people of her own tribe that were closely tied to her by blood. "Indian Henry" at Molalla is her cousin and her closest relative. She was a member of the Klamath tribe of Indians but became friendly to the whites in her early days and has associated with them ever after the government placed the members of her tribe on the Klamath reservation.

She was well known through the community and has a great many friends among the whites of the city and county who were attached to her for the services that she had rendered them at various times in her life.

GLADSTONE PREPARES ITS DISPLAY FOR FAIR

The people of Gladstone, a thriving community two miles north of Oregon City, are so proud of the progress they have made since incorporation that they are planning to make a novel exhibit at the Clackamas County Fair, which will be held at Canby on September 24, 25, 26 and 27. The Gladstone exhibit, as planned, will be unique, and will combine displays of agricultural products with samples of municipal development.

Part of the exhibit will be composed of maps and drawings of the Gladstone municipal street improvement plant, including gravel pit, grading machine, road-rolling plant and standard specifications; and accompanying this will be a map showing the miles of completed street work.

Gladstone holds the record for Oregon of having the most economical street plant in the state, and is able to improve its highways at a cost of from 65 cents to one dollar a yard, depending on the class of improvement.

Aside from this display, there will be an exhibit of fruits, vegetables and grains raised in Gladstone, and the management of the Clackamas County Fair believes that the municipal showing to be made will attract much interest among the fair visitors.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE SUCCESSFUL

PORTLAND AGREES TO GIVE CITY A SHARE OF SUPPLY UNDER CERTAIN TERMS

ARRANGEMENTS NOT COMPLETED

Many Details Yet to be Worked Out Before Matter Can be Submitted to People at Election—Long Pipe Line Involved

After repeated trips to Portland and innumerable conferences with the officials of that city, the members of the water committee from the Oregon City Council have successfully negotiated the question of securing a supply of Bull Run water from the Mount Tabor reservoir for the people here and have, at last, gained the consent of the Portland board of city commissioners to the plan of tapping the supply at that point.

Negotiations for the purpose of agreeing on the terms under which the unlimited supply of water will be furnished to the city will be conducted between Portland and Oregon City by Commissioner Daly who has been authorized to come to a tentative agreement over the matter by his city council.

Suggest Terms
Within the next few days, it is probable that the terms under which the city of Portland would allow Oregon City to tap the reservoir will be reached and the city council will be notified of the demands that the Bay City will make for the service that is given.

It is understood that Portland wishes to specifically provide in the contract between the two cities that she may discontinue the supply at any time that her own demands are such that the entire capacity of the reservoir is needed at that place.

Such many suggestions have been made by the representatives of the two cities, no definite agreements have been framed or any positive understanding been reached. Councilman Tooze Thursday night declared that while they had discussed at the conference the terms that Portland might insist upon, nothing definite had been framed nor any positive agreement reached as to the way in which this city should receive its new water supply.

May Use Meter

Among other questions that have been discussed as to the terms of the agreement has been that of installing a meter on the main that taps directly the reservoir on Mount Tabor. Various other details of the arrangements have been talked over in the conferences that have been held but nothing definite even in the way of suggestions has been received from the city of Portland or any positive understanding made.

To construct a pipe line that would tap the reservoir on Mount Tabor would cost the city considerable money as an initial expense, it is said, as the line would have to run approximately 10 miles to the point of intake.

Under the plan, the city would construct its own mains and would tap the Portland reservoir at Mount Tabor where the pressure is such that the present pumps would not be necessary to carry the water over the hill or to maintain a high enough force of water to meet any emergency in case of fire.

Up a Long Time

The question of the possibility of securing the Bull Run water supply has been agitating the city council for more than a year. The idea was first suggested through the columns of the Enterprise about 18 months ago. This paper at that time advocated the construction of the city mains to the reservoir on Mount Tabor and the city council has been making an effort to gain the consent of the council of the city of Portland to the plan before the work was commenced.

In order to reach an understanding with that city, the mayor has appointed a water committee that has had the matter in its hands since that time and has made great progress in the negotiations. From time to time the committee has made reports to the city council on the work that it has done and has shown that it has been hard
