VALUABLE INDEED The Oregon State Board of Health issues a IS THIS BULLETIN quarterly bulletin, that is full of information so erroneous that it is a wonder the Board does not discontinue the circulation of its pamphlet.

The Enterprise has called attention, a number of times, to the ridiculously absurd figures in this bulletin. For illustration the vital statistics for Clackamas County for April, 1913, show 45 births and 21 deaths, but no marriages. This is a truly wonderful and fearful condition and we may all expect the birth rate to decrease. There were no marriage in May, vet there were 28 births and 26 deaths reported. In June there were 5! births in Clackamas County and 17 deaths, and again no marriages.

Every marriage ceremony must be reported to the county clerk within 30 days of the date of its performance, and this law is generally complied with. How easy, therefore, it would be for a representative of the State Board of Health, to get the information necessary for an accurate bulletin

An interesting point in connection with this bulletin is that in Tune under the head of "Cases of Typhoid Fever," the answer is "none." Everybody in Oregon City knows this answer is perfectly true, and that the doctors and newspapers are wrong

JACKSON COUNTY Oregon counties will watch with no little inter-POINTS THE WAY est the fate of the proposed bond issue of $500,000 for good roads that will be voted on by the people of Jackson County next Tuesday.

Part of the good roads legislation enacted at the last session of the legislature was this provision enabling counties to vote bonds for road improvement, just as people of school districts vote bonds for constructing buildings and other purposes.

There is considerable sentiment around Medford in favor of good, permanent highways and it is expected that the bond issue will be indorsed. In this event, it is expected that other counties in this State will fall into line and build highways that will eventually cause the removal of the stigma that has been attached to Oregon by reason of the deplorable condition of her country roads.

The road will start from the California line about 15 miles south of Ashland, extending north through Ashland, Medford, Central Point, Gold Hill and Rogue River to the north boundary of the county, a distance of 52 miles. It is planned to construct a concrete road with an asphalt, wearing surface, although final decision will depend largely upon prices of materials.

In order to make the immediate burden upon the taxpayers as light as possible and allow future residents to bear their share of the road improvement, the bonds are to run 30 years, $100,000 to be redeemed in 10 years and the remaining $400,000 in four payments five years apart.

State Highway Engineer Bowlby will have charge of the road construction and members of the State Highway Commission have promised the Countv Court that as this section is the first to take advantage of the enabling act the state will give liberal aid under the state aid law, if the bonds pass.

Prisons Out of Politics Produce the Best Results.

By MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH of the Volunteers of America, Prison

HANGES NEEDED TO MAKE OUR ENTIRE , PRISON SYSTEM AS GOOD AS THE BEST: FIRST, OUR PRISONS SHOULD BE TAKEN OUT OF POLITICS, SO THAT WHEN A GOOD MAN HAS BEEN APPOINTED AS WARDEN OR PRISON SU-PERINTENDENT HE WILL NOT FEEL THAT IN FOUR YEARS HE WILL BE THROWN OUT AND THE WORK PUT AGAIN IN THE HANDS OF A I do not care how good a man chosen, the field is so difficult a one that it takes years of study to understand it and become successful in dealing with it.

One of the most important matters that affect prison discipline and the reformation of prisoners is the appointing of a SUITABLE GUARD, not political favorites. However excellent a disciplinarian may be the warden, his work may be undone by those who come the most closely into contact with the men.

The state must pay its guard well enough to have the services of a staff of ABLE, EFFICIENT, INTELLIGENT MEN. They must be chosen, NOT WITH REGARD TO POLITICS, BUT WITH RE-GARD TO THEIR HIGH MORAL CHARACTER AND THEIR ABILITY TO COMMAND THE RESPECT OF THE PRISONERS. No man who drinks, no man who swears at a prisoner, should be allowed on a prison staff. Any successful warden in this country would indorse this as a rule that must be enforced for the successful management of a

"A PRINCE OF EVIL" At the Grand Wednesday

The practice of heating tin pans to settle bees, no doubt, grew out of ar old English law, now almost forgotten which required the beekeeper to give notice in this way that his bees were about to swarm and that he was entitled to follow them and get them If, after giving this warning, he failed to follow the swarm or if he lost sight of them and they alighted elsewhere the bees became the possession of the person on whose land they set tled .- Farm and Home.

Power of Suggestion. The man was hale and hearty at 10

The man glanced at it and became interested. He read it through from cover to cover.

Portuguese Burial Custom. They have an unusual mode of burial in Portugal. Instead of headstones and monuments of the graveyards of other countries the cemetery of Lisbon shows rows and rows of tiny chapels, ranged in long avenues bordered by cypress trees. The Portuguese are reluctant to bury their dead out of sight, and these chapels serve as mortuaries for the coffins, which are placed on shelves within. Through the iron grilles the eye discerns small altars and flowers gleaming through the subdued light of the interiors.

Vampires.

The belief is vampires can be traced back for more than 2,000 years, yet there is not on record a single authenticated instance of a vampire having been seen by a human being, and there are no data available by means of which the origin of the belief can be ascertained with any degree of certainty. These blood sucking apparitions, or "living, mischievous, murderous dead bodies," as one writer quaintly termed them, were common to all countries, whether occidental or oriental.

A Judge of Music.

A concert was given at a German court in honor of some foreign prince. At its close the illustrious guest asked for a repetition of the first item on the program. The first piece was accordingly played over again, but the visitor failed to recognize it as the one he had liked best. Suddenly the musicians fell to tuning their instruments, during which process all the company stopped their ears with the exception of the foreign monarch, who exclaimed in a rapture of delight, "That is my favoring else to do he casts up his eyes. ite piece!"-Fliegende Blatter.

Blunders In Book Titles

There is always a crop of amusing mistakes concerning titles. Nothing so taxes the ingenuity of the bookseller as these phonetic endeavors to get at the name of a book. What but a genius could conceive that by "Within or Outside the Pail" was meant "Beyond the Pale!" Even Mr. Bullen would be puzzled by a reference to "Screws of the Cash Lock" for "The Cruise of the Cachelot." Some other amusing blunders are "She Strips to Kongo" for "She Stoops to Conquer." "Hero of the Week" for "Hereward, the Wake," "Lined Pockets" for "Lying Prophets" and "Bad Acre of Greece" for Baedeker's "Greece."-New York Post.

Napoleon was born in Ajacco, on the island of Corsica, and was by breed and instinct an Italian. He never was except to the extent of language and politics, a Frenchman. To his dying day he was a dear lover of his native land, and while life lasted he remained true to the little island that gave him to the world. It was while he was a charity student in France that Napoleon got his first knowledge of the land that was to assist him to his large and lasting fame.-New York American.

How Tin Foil Is Made.

Tip foll, which is extensively used for wrapping tobacco, certain food products and other articles of commerce, is a combination of lead with a thin coating of tin on each side. First a tin pipe is made of a thickness proportionate to its diameter, proportion not given. This pipe is then filled with molten lead and rolled or beaten to the extreme thinness required. In this process the tin coating spreads simultane ously with the spreading of the lead core and continuously maintains a thin. even conting of tin on each side of the center sheet of lead, even though it may be reduced to a thickness of .001

The British Weekly tells a good story of the late poet laureate. Mr. Alfred Austin. He had been talking a good deal about himself after a dinner, as was his wont, to the annoyance of the other guests, and at last he said, "Lady -, is it time for the poet laureate to go to bed?"
