STENOGRAPHER TELLS HER STORY OF CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—Hazel Miller, formerly stenographer for Attorney Charles B. Harris, of Sacramento, on trial jointly with Maury I. Diggs for alleged conspiracy to suborn perjury, resumed today on the witness stand her account of the visit paid to the office of Harris by Nellie Barton, also of Sacramento, and a friend of Maury's.

Miss Miller testified today that during the visit of Miss Barton, Harris was in and out of the office repeatedly while Miss Barton sat talking with Diggs.

The prosecution interrupted its case long enough to permit charter witnesses to testify for Harris and catch a train for Sacramento.

Judges C. N. Post, Peter J. Shields and J. H. Hughes, of the superior court, and Judge E. C. Hart, of the court of appeals, and District Attorney Eugene Wachholt, of Sacramento county, spoke well of Harris as an upright attorney.

Bruises In Furniture. Here is a method which has been of great use in removing bruises from furniture: Wet the part with warm water; double a piece of brown paper two or six times; then soak it in warm water and lay it on the dent.

FRAME DEAL TO OUST DOCTOR

(Continued from page 1) any legal extreme to get rid of him at once. The committee will have charge of the measures that will be taken.

Their First Step As a first measure, the doctors will lay in wait for the moment when Dr. Van Brakle accepts the appointment and attempts to take the oath of office.

Should that fail, the medical society will then carry the case into the state board of health. It is expected that the members of the board will take the field in person and that almost any day will see some of them in Oregon City to size up the situation and hear the complaints of the profession here.

Appeals will be made to the board to take every step that it may under the law to oust the new county officer and to come to the rescue of the local physicians who are so violently opposed to the appointment that the court has made.

Ship at Medics Though the doctors of the city signed the petition asking for the appointment of Dr. J. W. Norris and though each and every one of them declared that he would not accept the place as a gift, they now regard the appointment of an osteopath as a direct slap at the profession.

From the time that they first started the campaign for Dr. Norris, they have declared over and over again that they did not have the time to attend to the duties that the position would entail and that the only man in the city whom they felt was fitted for the place and had time to attend to it was their candidate.

So strongly did they advocate the appointment that the county court felt that they were trying to force him to make an appointment, whether he wanted to do so or not and he refused to be instructed in the matter, even by the entire profession of the city.

Law Gives Hold They felt that the provision in the law requiring the health officer to have an office in the county seat was such that the judge could do nothing in the face of their petition but make the appointment as they suggested.

Legal Question Whether the medical society has the right to interfere and demand the qualifications of the newly appointed county health officer is a question.

It is also to be decided whether or not the members of the profession here are given the authority, under the state law, to determine the qualifications and capability of the men whom the county court places in charge of the health work.

It is also problematical as to what Dr. Van Brakle will do if the local doctors attempt to "butt in" and demand his proof of ability. As far as he is concerned, they apparently have nothing to do with the matter.

Must be Incompetent It is also contended that the state board of health can interfere in an appointment of a health officer only when that officer has shown himself incompetent and negligent and not before he has been given an opportunity to show what he can do.

The threat that the case will find its way into the supreme court of the state is generally welcomed by osteopaths as they believe that it will give them the chance to establish themselves more firmly in the communities in spite of the violent opposition and tactics employed by the regular physicians of the state.

So many issues are involved in the case that the state associations of the two rival schools of practice may become involved and all of the doctors of the state align themselves on the one side or the other in the fight.

SELF RESTRAINT.

For want of self restraint many men are engaged all their lives in fighting with difficulties of their own making and rendering success impossible by their own crossgrained ungentleness, while others, it may be, much less gifted, make their way and achieve success by simple patience, equanimity and self control.

LOST TIME.

Lost wealth may be replaced by patient industry, lost knowledge by study, lost health by medicine, but lost time is gone forever.

PAINTS OF LIVES.

Lives of centipedes remind us We would all ambition lose If we had to find the cash to Keep a centipede in shoes.

Lives of elephants remind us It would put us in a funk If from birth till death we had to Lug around a silly trunk.

Lives of all giraffes remind us It would surely get our goat If we caught a cold and had to Stand for two yards of sore throat.

Lives of octopi remind us It were bliss, all bliss above, Had we but a half a score of Arms to hug the girl we love.

Lives of monkeys all remind us That we are not what we seem, For the missing link's abolished—Heavens! What a fruitful dream!

What She Wanted. She walked into the public library and sweetly said: "I would like 'The Red Boat,' please."

The librarian diligently searched the catalogue and came back with: "I don't think we have such a book."

Flushing a bit, she said sweetly, "May the title be 'The Scarlet Yacht?'"

Again he looked, with the same result. Then with her pretty fingers she dove into her bag, consulted a slip of paper and said:

"Oh, I beg pardon. I mean the 'Rubaiyat.'"—Glasgow Herald.

"Yes, indeed, my number is 733." "I suppose nearly every woman has that opinion of her husband."

"But I am sure my husband is an extraordinary man. I told him this morning where something was in one of the closets and he found it."

Wash frocks are being worn by little girls all the year around now, as mothers feel then can, in cold weather, substitute the heavier gaiters and cotton bedford cords for the lighter-weight chambrays and lawns of the summer.

And so simple and easy to make are the dresses that are worn now-a-days, that even the tired mother of a large family finds it no difficult matter to turn enough out to keep her brood looking fresh and clean.

A dress of plain and dotted blue gaiters, made like 7944, would be very practical for school wear, and the deep belt could be of dary gaiters embroidered in a queer design in front.

4 sizes, 4 to 10 years, 1 1-2 yards 36-inch figured with 1 5-8 yards plain material will be required.

The yoke cut in with short sleeves is an attractive feature of many of the frocks for little girls, like the illustrated one, 7951.

With a rose and white striped gingham, a yoke of white linen gives an effective contrast. The gumpie which is included in the pattern may be of white mull of batoste, and a belt of white linen or one of black patent leather makes a smart finish.

4 sizes, 4 to 10 years, and the six-year girl will need 2 3-8 yards 36-inch material, with 1 1-4 yards extra for gumpie. Each pattern is 15 cents. 14699 transfer pattern includes 2 large motifs, 12 small motifs, a yoke and 4 strips of border.—15 cents.

GETTING GRAY? USE SAGE TEA TO RESTORE NATURAL COLOR OF HAIR

Says Sage and Sulphur Darkens Hair Beautifully and Ends Dandruff. Hair that loses its color and luster, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair.

Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and even today this simple preparation has no equal.

Millions of women and men, too, who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Nowadays we are not bothered with the task of gathering the sage leaves and the mussy mixing at home. Simply ask at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of the ready to use preparation, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Customers like this best because it darkens so naturally; so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied.

Besides, it contains ingredients which take off dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. No, it isn't a dye or even like it. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time.

By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color.

What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that it beautifies, darkening the hair they say it brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.
