BANK ROBBER IS RETURNED FOR SENTENCE

VIRGIL PERRINE IS GIVEN HIS SECOND COMMITMENT FOR ROBBERY AT MILWAUKIE

FLAW FOUND IN PAPERS FURNISHED TO PRISON WARDEN

Wording of indictment makes big difference in term of years given to boy criminal—goes to begin his time

Sentenced twice for the same robbery of the Milwaukee State Bank last July, Virgil Perrine took another trip last Saturday under the custody of Sheriff E. T. Mass, and started in again to serve his time at the Oregon State penitentiary.

The circuit judge gave him a term of 10 years in the state prison Saturday after it had been discovered that the former sentence of from one to ten years was not legal under the indictment that had been returned by the grand jury.

The mistake on the part of the court came from the wording of the indictment that had been returned. The grand jury found the evidence against Perrine for the robbery of the bank and charged him with committing assault and robbery with a dangerous weapon.

The wording of the charge had much to do with the term that could be given to the boy robber.

WARDEN SEES FAULT

The warden of the penitentiary discovered the fault of the commitment and notified the sheriff that Perrine would have to be sentenced again. Sheriff Mass brought the boy back to the city Saturday morning and, within an hour, he had been re-committed to the state prison and began for the second time to serve his sentence.

In the minds of several of the attorneys of the city, there is a question as to whether the boy could not secure his freedom because he had been sent to the state prison twice for the same offense. They hold that the second commitment is a violation of his constitutional right to be placed in jeopardy for the same offense but once.

PLANS ARE LAID FOR BIGGER COUNTY FAIR

"From present appearances the opening of the coming Clackamas County fair will be the biggest, the best and most up-to-date fair ever held in this county. Arrangements have been made with the railroad lines through this part of the state, both steam and electric, so as to handle the large crowds at special rates," said Mr. M. J. Lee, secretary of the fair association.

The new poultry barn is one of the most modern buildings of its kind in the northwest, having every feature that could make for better sanitation and light as well as for comfort of the visitors. The building is 24x125 feet and has a large and well-lighted gallery running the entire length.

EXCHANGE PLANNED

"Another welcome feature will be a private office for poultry breeders, where, it is planned, those interested in the fowls will buy, sell, and exchange. Another department is the enlarging of the swine barn which will now hold many more exhibits.

"Plans are being perfected for German day, on September 25, which will be one of the busiest of the fair. A special train will be run from Silverton to Mount Angel and special features, such as a championship baseball game between Mount Angel and Canby and a free for all pace, will be held.

JAPAN'S ULTIMATUM HUMBLES CHINESE

PEKIN, Sept. 13.—Japan's demands, presented to China two days ago, in connection with the killing of Japanese subjects and the trampling of the Japanese flag by Chinese, were accepted in their entirety today by the Pekin government.

The Japanese note containing the demands, which were tantamount to an ultimatum, was drafted as a result of the killing of three Japanese and the maltreating of a consular messenger at Nanking, the torture of a Japanese lieutenant at Hankow and the imprisonment of a Japanese lieutenant at Shan Tung.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FOR 17 YEARS

LONG GRADED COURSE IS WORK
ED OUT BY PASTOR FOR HIS VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS

EVERY FEATURE IS SYSTEMATIZED

Pupils Pass From One Grade to Another as in the Public Schools—
Last Scene of all Is Teachers' Normal

A course of Sunday school instruction covering a period of 17 years has been arranged by Rev. Mr. George Nelson Edwards, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city. The course is graded like a common school and is meant, like a common school, to take the child when young and give him the knowledge of the Bible from beginning to end.

The work is divided into eight departments, the cradle roll, the beginners, the primary, the junior, the intermediate, the training, the adult, and the home departments. Each of these takes up two or three years of study and is composed of from two to four grades, in all 14 grades.

The subjects included in the course represent almost everything that pertains either to church work or more directly to religion itself. It is all carefully graded so that the young minds can grasp the lessons with the same ease that the more experienced can theirs. Up to the intermediate department there is an age required for its members but the last three are for the grown students or those who do not fall under the supervision of the other departments.

The student is promoted from department to department, much the same as in the regular school, promotion depending upon the attendance, good work and a quarterly written test. Pupils not meeting the requirements, but over the age limit, will be passed without honors.

Although the Congregational church has the course, the other churches are adopting to plan in a more or less different form.

MAYOR ASKED TO CHOOSE DELEGATES

Mayor Jones of Oregon City was requested by the Hon. Logan Walker Page, president of the American Road Congress and director of the United States office of public roads, to name three delegates to attend the sessions of the congress at Detroit during the week of September 29 as the representatives of the city.

COUNTY TREASURER'S WILL IS FILED

The will of Enos Cahill, twice county treasurer of Clackamas county was probated and the estate is estimated to be valued at $575, the greater portion being his home at 80 East Sixty-eighth street, North Portland.

He died September 7, Charles Ray, of Clackamas county, and Thomas F. Ryan, of Clackamas county, are named as executors and are given full discretion in handling the estate. The sum of $1900 each is left to a son, Charles H. Cahill, of Oregon City, and two daughters, Annie B. G. Long, of Portland, and Ida M. Clark, of Utah. One grandson was given $200 and three other grandchildren are each left $100. The residue is divided equally between the three children.

HUGE TRANSCRIPT FILED BY LAWYER

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 13.—United States Attorney Charles W. Miller added a huge volume to the immense records of the dynamite conspiracy trials when he forwarded 725 pages constituting the government's brief in the appeal case by the convicted dynamiters to the United States court of appeals at Chicago.

The brief is more than half devoted to a complete restatement of the dynamite conspiracy, and the part each of the 31 convicted defendants played in it. It then gives the government argument against the error alleged by the defense in the consolidation of the trials against the 33 defendants sets out the objection to admission of testimony by Orin E. Manigault and Edward Clarke, whom the defense would have excluded as co-conspirators, and supports the instructions of Judge Anderson to the jury as having been faultless.

CITY HAS PRODUCT EXHIBIT OF ITS OWN

For busy Oregon City people who haven't the time to attend either the county fair at Canby or the state displays at Salem, the Commercial club has an exhibit that is extensive enough to teach the resources and developments of Clackamas county in a few hours and to do it almost as effectively as the bigger exhibitions will do.

Secretary Frosting of the club has filled the office space in the club's building on Main street with the best samples that he can find of the products of the county and has gathered together an exhibit that will make a creditable showing at the fair.

In the list is a sample of kaffir corn that measures eight feet in height and that was grown by H. Lavooy at Clackamas station. Canned figs, pears, crab apples, and all other kinds and varieties of fruits grown in the county are being prepared for shipment to the display grounds at Salem.

CHIP OF STEEL COSTS YOUNG LAD AN EYE

LENTS, Ore., Sept. 13.—Roy Robbins, who resides on Gold street in Mentone addition, lost the sight of his left eye when a small chip of steel from a hammer flew and struck him in the eye. The young man is in a very serious condition from the shock and the doctors are waiting until he recovers sufficiently before operating on the eye.

Diggs and Caminetti, Convicted Principals In White Slavery Case of National Interest.

Photos by American Press Association
With the conviction of both Matty L. Diggs and Drew Caminetti, the principals in the famous Diggs-Caminetti white slavery case, in which the United States department of justice was involved by charges of unfairness, social workers, ministers and unity in general rejoiced that the Mann white-slave act had been upheld. It was feared at one time that because of the prominence of the two young married men they would not be made an example of for their escapades with Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris. Despite the convictions their lawyers planned appeals, so that it appeared that the couple would remain longer in the public eye. Diggs, under his conviction, is liable to twenty years' imprisonment and $20,000 fine, and Caminetti may get five years and $5,000 fine. Diggs' latest picture is on the left, and Caminetti is shown as he appeared in court.

CITY WINS ITS CASE IN COURT

ACTION BROUGHT BY GRANT B. DIMICK IS LOST BY THE RULING OF JUDGE EAKIN

COUNCIL'S AUTHORITY IS UPHOLD

Decision Holds City Had Right to Make Appointment and that it Was Its Duty to do so—
Warrants to be Paid

Oregon City won its fight in the circuit court before Judge Eakin Saturday when the demurrer of the plaintiff was overruled and the court held that the city had the right to make the appointment of Ed Shaw as chief of police and to pay him the salary of $1100 for the 11 months of his service.

Grant B. Dimick brought the action against Oregon City, its treasurer, and Ed Shaw for the ground that the council did not have the right to make the appointment of the police chief at that time. The court, however, held that the city not only had the right to make such an appointment in an emergency but that it was its duty to do so.

The case has been pending in the court for some time, but the decision of the circuit court Saturday settled the point that has held up the warrants of chief of police for 11 months. Attorneys for the city were C. D. Latourette, William Stone, and J. E. Hedges, while W. H. Hicks represented the plaintiff, Grant B. Dimick.

TIM SULLIVAN LIES IN MORGUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The body of "Big Tim" Sullivan, member of congress from the thirteenth New York district and a local Tammany leader, was identified by chance today in a Fordham morgue, where it had lain for 13 days.

Sullivan disappeared August 31, when he eluded one of his nurses, set to attend him because of a mental malady, and ever since then his friends had searched for him in vain. His body was on its way to the Potter's field when the chance observation of a policeman who had known him intimately checked its course.

So many friends and relatives then identified the body positively that the wonder still grows that it was permitted to lie so long without the making of an effort to run down the several clues that were apparent from the start.

BOTH UNDER AGE; PARENTS CONSENT

Because both of the parties to the contract were under legal age, the parents of Clarence Roll and Kate Cooper gave their written consent to the marriage before County Clerk W. L. Mulvey issued the license Saturday afternoon.

On the marriage book of the county, appears the statement from the parents of both that they give their free and unreserved consent to the issuance of the license and that both were under the age limit prescribed by law.

BROTHER RECOGNIZES HIS SISTER'S BODY

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The young married surgeon whom Annette Day loved was sought diligently by detectives to tell what he might know of Miss Day's last hours. Her brother, Francis, a real estate dealer of this city, declared last night that she was the slain woman whose body was dissected and thrown into the Hudson river within the last two weeks. He identified a portion of the body—the head, the arms and one leg were still missing—as that of his sister, by an odd-shaped discoloration on her back which he said was a birthmark.

Annette Day, according to the brother's story, was 23 years old, of dark hair and complexion, and one of five children. Her mother lives on Tarrytown and last saw Annette on August 16, when the girl, facing motherhood, left home. They thought little of her silence for awhile, believing she had got another place at her trade as machine operator on underwear. But after a fortnight had passed without word from her, the brother became alarmed and began to look for her.

The police were not notified because the brother felt that the girl might still be alive and he did not want to make her disgrace public.

Detectives were told this morning that the surgeon had disappeared recently from his home in Brooklyn. His wife and two small children, it is said, were still there. He had told his friends, according to the police, that he had been threatened by the Black Hand. They thought this strange, as he was not wealthy.

ASCENSION IS THOUGHT STALE

FAIR COMMITTEE DECIDES THAT BALLOONS WILL NOT MAKE
FLIGHTS THIS YEAR

SAW AERO PERFORMANCES AS A BOY

Every County Show Has Had Them
Until They Have Become an Old
Joke—Stock Exhibits to be Better Than Ever

The seventh annual Clackamas County fair will be unique in many ways, but perhaps most noticeable of all will be the fact that there will be no "grand balloon ascension." Judge Grant B. Dimick, president of the executive board, believes that balloon ascensions are "stale" and has put his foot down upon this sort of thing, even though a number of noted aeronauts have applied for a concession to go aloft in a smoke-filled bar.

"The first county fair that I ever saw had a balloon ascension," said Judge Dimick, "and every fair I have seen since my boyhood had one. I guess we can do without this old chestnut this year, and I think people will find it a relief, too."

There will be no dearth of attractions to amuse the visitors at the big display on September 24, 25, 26 and 27, however. Many modern amusement enterprises will be shown, but the chief stress at the fair will be laid upon legitimate exhibits of the resources of the county. If the visitors see all the regular exhibits, and realize the perfection of the stock shown, they will not have time for balloon ascensions.

"We will have the finest stock display ever shown," says Judge Dimick, "and it will be a feature of the fair that cannot be slighted. Aside from this it will be instructive and entertaining, and will show the farm economy of only utilizing the best stock to be had, and of keeping the strain pure. Visitors will be so interested in what we will have to show them that they won't want to see a man make a monkey of himself under a balloon."
