CITY OFFICIAL NEWSPAPER
MOLALLA'S To Molalla, the opening of the new line of the RAILROAD Portland, Eugene & Eastern from Canby means an epoch in the development of a rapidly growing community.

The people of the town are realizing the importance of the railroad and are planning the biggest celebration of their lives in anticipation of the first train that puffs over the new line and that brings to them the crowds of visitors that will come from all of the towns of the state to help that community in its dedication of the new line.

Railroad connection is the most important factor in the development of any community. It means that travel is facilitated, that transportation is made easier, that freight can be sent to all parts of the world without delay or trouble, that warehouses can grow and prosper, that communities may thrive and develop.

There is no more important features of the development of any community anywhere than the fact that it has secured rail connection with the world outside of its gates.

Railroad development has been coincident with the development of the west. It has all through meant that the road over which the pioneers trudged their weary way in the early days before steam lines were invented or used could be forgotten and today the men who lead the ox teams through the western deserts and suffered the privations and misfortunes of that band of brave spirits ride over the well ballasted roads in Pullman sleepers and try to remember the distant past when the way was stony and thorny and when their days were filled with fears from Indian invasions and their nights with the howls of the prairie wolves.

Today, all of that is past. But there are places through the west that are not even yet connected with the world outside by the rail lines that transform a desert into a garden and that make big towns out of little ones. No surer way is there for Molalla to grow, no better method by which it can attain that commercial and material prosperity to which it is entitled than by that medium of railroad communication with the world of affairs outside of its own gates.

Molalla has taken a material step forward. From now on, it is a city in the state. It has gained its prominence and recognition through the fact that it now has a line of steel running from Canby to its own station and that over that line the trains of the road will daily puff and steam carrying its loads of freight and passengers to and from that little city off the main roads of travel.

The development of that town has already begun. Its buildings are so new that some of them have not yet received their first coat of paint. It is but a beginning of what may be from now on with the added facilities that the city has and the added means of transportation and communication that are given to it.

Upon the enterprise and progressiveness of its citizens will hereafter depend the material prosperity of that community. It now has the means by which its business interests may keep in touch with the world's affairs. It can send its daily consignments of freight and passengers from that town to the outside over a railroad and the extent to which its people take advantage of that fact will mean the extent of development that the community enjoys.

DEMANDS FOR With all of its facilities and progressiveness, with Y. M. C. A. the many features of a big city and few of those of a small one, Oregon City still is negligent in its provision for Y. M. C. A. accommodations.

Close to the metropolis of the state, there are still demands that are made upon the community here, demands that have been overlooked and have been carelessly thrust aside. To a community, there is one thing that is closely associated with its development and that plays an important part in its welfare—the Y. M. C. A.

Oregon City needs an association. The city is peculiarly situated in that it has numbers of single men who work in the mills and other industries through the community and who have no place in which to spend their leisure hours other than the saloons and pool halls.

With the army of young men working inside of the corporate limits and the necessity for provision for their amusement, the city should take some steps and take them at once to entertain those men during the time that they have for play. There is no better place for a young man to spend his time than in the lobby of an institution of this kind, enjoying the facilities that are given by a wide awake association to its membership. There are probably hundreds of young men scattered through the city who would take advantage of the opportunities that could be offered by such an association and who would be first to place their membership in an organization that attempted to provide for them amusement and wholesome entertainment during the time that they are not at their work in the mills or in the houses of the various business interests of the city.

Many communities through the state with populations scarcely larger than that of Oregon City have modern up to date associations that handle the problems confronting young men and that provide for them places of amusements when they are not busy at their various trades and occupations.

Portland solves its municipal problems many times by its thoroughly equipped association. It is not presumed that Oregon City could have one organization half as effective and well equipped as could that city but what that city has done could be done here on a scale smaller but as beneficial for the problems that have to be met.

The churches of the city should line themselves behind such a movement with all of the energy and enthusiasm, with all the strength and progressiveness of spirit which they are so capable of exerting and throw into the campaign that power that they have and can again muster for causes as goods as this.

There is no better field for the influence of the church than the Y. M. C. A. In such an association are gathered men who do and those who do not believe in church work. It is an association that tends for the betterment of the moral tone of the community, that is calculated to raise the standards of living, and that takes an interest in civic affairs, that bring them to a higher level than they have before attained.

Co-operation from the churches of the city and the business houses down town is needed to place the association of this kind upon a permanent footing. Surely Oregon City should have such an association ad there can be no better nor more effective way to bring it about than by the hearty co-operation of those live wide awake churches in the city and those business men who realize how important a factor in the improvement of the city such an institution can become.

Oregon, for the county of Clackamas D. H. Smith, Plaintiff, vs. J. E. Sutherland, Defendant. State of Oregon, County of Clackamas, ss:

By virtue of an execution, duly issued out of and under the seal of the above entitled court, in the above entitled cause, to me duly directed and dated the 26th day of August, 1913, upon a judgment rendered and entered in the Justice court of District No. 4, Clackamas county, Oregon, on the 24th day of May, 1913, in favor of D. H. Smith, plaintiff, and against J. E. Sutherland, defendant, for the sum of $144.70, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the 1st day of May, 1913, and the further sum of $6.70, costs and disbursements, and which judgment was duly filed and docketed in this court on the 14th day of June, 1913, commanding me that out of the personal property of said defendant, or if sufficient could not be found then out of the real property belonging to said defendant, to satisfy said judgment, I did on August 28th, 1913, satisfy said judgment with interest, costs disbursement and costs, and that after due and diligent search, I was unable to find any personal property of said defendant out of which to satisfy said judgment, therefore, in obedience to said writ and by virtue thereof, I did on August 28th, 1913, duly levy upon the real property of said defendant, namely, all of lots 11 and 12 in block three (3) of Weed's addition to town of Canby in Clackamas county, Oregon.

NOW, THEREFORE, by virtue of said execution and in compliance with the commands of said writ, I will, on Saturday, the 27th day of September, 1913, at the hour of ten o'clock a. m. of said day, at the front door of the county courthouse in the city of Oregon City, in said county, and state, sell at public auction, subject to redemption, to the highest bidder, for U. S. Gold coin, cash in hand, all the right, title and interest which the within named defendant had on June 14, 1913, or since had in or to the above described real property or any part thereof, to satisfy said execution, with interest, costs and disbursements and all accruing costs.

E. T. MASS, Sheriff of Clackamas county, Ore. By B. J. STANT, Deputy. Dated, Oregon City, Ore., Aug. 28, 1913.
