Justice Thinks Girl is Wax; Pinches Neck

If a stranger should ask a native of Oregon City whether the Honorable John N. Seivers was an authority on girls, the reply would probably be "yes," in a good, loud, and decisive manner. But this is not so. The Honorable John is not an authority on girls—he can't even tell one when he sees her.

On Friday, September the 19th, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, the Honorable John, justice of the peace, was seen to wander the streets of the city of Molalla while his fellow citizens were making merry with many toots and much noise. Then down the street of the said city there came a fair lady, so fair, so perfect that Justice John knew not whether she was wax or woman.
But Justice John was not to be fooled by a mere imitation girl—he was far too wise for that. So up he walked to the lady in question and scratched her neck. If she was wax she would be soft, the court figured, and he determined on a judicial examination of her. He was apparently more than satisfied.

Presentation by the OREGON CITY ENTERPRISE

Willis J. Abbot, the versatile writer on International subjects and author of many books of history and travel; spent months in Panama and the Canal Zone in the preparation of this volume. He collected at first hands the complete history of the great Canal, with a wealth of historical data concerning Panama which has never before been written. The result is a human interest story of this beautiful land its people from the early days when Columbus tried to find a natural waterway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, down to the present time.

Our Special staff photographers made the hundreds of beautiful views with which practically every page of this exhaustive book is illustrated.

The well-known artist, E. J. Read, made the sixteen sumptuous water-color studies which are reproduced by the latest color processes on specially made paper.

The Panama Canal, the greatest engineering achievement of the world's history, cost more than $400,000,000

It links the two greatest oceans, and becomes the most important factor in peace and war. So where is the red-blooded inhabitant of this globe that does not feel vitally interested in it. Truly it is the wonder of this progressive age!
