MAY WIFE SLAP HER HUSBAND?

PLAINTIFF WANTS DIVORCE ANY WAY AND MAKES IT BASIS FOR HIS PLEA

"CATCH ME IF YOU CAN" SHE SAYS

Protests Don't Amount to Much and Woman Goes Out With Her Friends, Hubby Claims
in His Petition

She slapped his face and he wants a divorce.

John E. Connelly claims, in his petition for divorce, that his wife slapped his face when he really couldn't see the slightest reason for it and recites that he never understood it to be the wife's duty to slap her husband whenever she happened to have a fit of rage over something that he had done or that she thought he had done.

False accusations relating to his alleged association with other women, a constant nagging, and a violent temper are some of the other charges that he brings against Marie Connelly, his wife, in his action for a decree of separation. They were married at Wayne, Penn., June 1906.

"Catch me if you can," was the challenge that Ida Kirk threw out to Nate Kirk when he protested against her alleged association with men, according to the story he tells in a complaint filed in the circuit court Monday. A daughter, Hallie, 14 years of age, is asked for by the complainant as well as the divorce decree. They were married November 13, 1896, at Crawfordsville, Oregon.

Della Overlin charges her husband, William S. Overlin, with cruelty and inhuman treatment and with frequent exhibitions of a violent temper, as the basis for the divorce which she asks from the circuit court. They were married October 21, 1912, at San Francisco.

EMPLOYEE HURT IN MACHINERY

SITS ON TANK; LEG IS CAUGHT IN PADDLES AND BROKEN

CONDITION NOT THOUGHT SERIOUS

Fracture Was Clean and Bones Will Knit Rapidly—Feet Were Hanging in Path of Agitator in Paper Plant

Dawson Fairchild, a plumber in one of the pipe gangs of the Willamette Pulp & Paper company, had both bones of his right leg broken below the knee between 9:30 o'clock and 10:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Fairchild was working around one of the great tanks containing moving paddles or agitators, and while waiting for one of his helpers, sat on the edge of the tank with his feet hanging on the inside of the tank.

The agitator came around before he could pull out his feet and his hip between the knee and the ankle, breaking both bones. The injured man was taken to the office of Dr. Guy Mount and the bones set. The physician reports that the break was a clean one and the recovery will be rapid.

Mr. Fairchild had lived in Oregon City for about a year, most of the time in the employ of the Willamette Pulp & Paper company. He was popular among his fellow workers, being a member of the local order of Mac-a-bees. He is unmarried.

LAST SOCIAL RALLY OF YEAR

The officers, members and friends of the First Methodist Episcopal church will hold the last social rally for the conference year this evening in the Woodman Hall, adjoining the church.

A program consisting of music and short addresses by members and friends, and by the pastor who will speak on his relation to and interest in the work of this old historic church, and of the growth of the past year and the outlook for the future. All members are expected to be on hand, and all friends are cordially invited to attend and enjoy the occasion. Refreshments will be served.

Footsore and Weary, Penitent Girl Comes Home to Her Parents

After wandering from city to city throughout the northwest, and spending her time working as a waitress in a restaurant and dodging juvenile officers, Gladys Curtis, just past her eighteenth birthday, returned to her worried and fear-stricken parents Sunday night, after more than one year's silence and absence from home.

About a year ago Miss Curtis met a circus man, who happened to be the city, and, although she saw him only once, this short acquaintance led to the exchange of letters which resulted in the seventeen-year-old girl running away from home.

It is said that the couple borrowed a marriage certificate from a friend and, with this, they travelled from town to town for months. Finally the man left, and the girl, fearing her parents and the local juvenile officers, was afraid to return to her worried parents.

She stayed in Seattle for a part of the time, where she eked out a miserable existence as waitress in a restaurant. It was here that her anxious father and mother first heard of her. She wrote her younger sister but always omitted her address so that pursuit was impossible. The trials, the sufferings undergone by the young girl, the pangs of home sickness, the thought of her worried parents that touched the girl's heart before she came home are not told by her in the story of the experiences through which she has passed.

Original "Hard Luck" Men on Way Home

Oregon City may not hold any records for size or for beauty, but three of its citizens hold an unquestionable record for pure, concentrated, double strength hard luck.

Saturday evening three young men, Theodore Marley, Gilbert Thomas and Robert Green, set out on three brand new bicycles to spend Sunday fishing on Clear Creek. The evening and the morning of the next day were spent with nothing unusually unlucky happening. It was not until the trip home was started that trouble broke loose from all sides.

First it was Marley. The tire blew out of his front wheel and he shoved it all the 12 miles home. Then it was Gilbert Thomas. His lamp became tangled up with the spokes of his front wheel and the result was that he had to waltz his bicycle 11 miles back to town on its real wheel. Then came Bob Green. He started down the road and also down a steep hill when he hit a rock and went over the handle bars and down an embankment.

There were three weary, and mad, and dirty young men who trudged into town Sunday evening. Three young men who were going to pull all the fish out of Clear Creek and who came back with a sum total of five.

Hunters Show Class on Field and Diamond

John Mulkey, Harry Hargraves, and Hugh Gurdon have just returned from a trip into southern Oregon in which they not only conquered the terrors of the mountains, but also humiliated the people of the city.

The three left two weeks ago for a hunting trip in Douglas county about 30 miles the other side of Roseburg, and the party was successful to the extent of 10 deer. But they did not consider this enough glory, so on their return to Roseburg they organized a baseball team and beat the regular town team of that place to the tune of seven to two.

DR. T. B. FORD TO MOVE

Dr. T. B. Ford who has been the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of this city for nearly two years, will leave for the conference session at Eugene, Wednesday morning, and upon his return, if reappointed to this church, will vacate the Brownell house on Eleventh and John Adams streets, and move into the house of Mr. Sullivan just back of the Larson & Co. store. This place is now being painted and papered and put in good condition for Dr. Ford and his family, or his successor, the object being to get closer to the church.

BOARD REFUSES TO MAKE CHANGE

TIMBER COMPANIES' PROTESTS ARE DISREGARDED IN THE ASSESSMENT LIST

NEESE CRUISE STANDS AS MADE

Written Kicks Have no Influence With Equalization Board and the Valuations Are Not Altered

The valuations of timber claims were unchanged when the county board of equalization Monday refused to lower one cent the assessment that had been made against the Weyerhaeuser and Oregon & California land and timber companies and their interests in this county.

Both concerns filed written protests with the board and asked for a reduction in the valuations that had been made. The board upon inquiry and examination of the records and the results of the Neese cruise refused to reduce the valuations and the assessments were ordered to stand as they were.

The property of the Weyerhaeuser company in this county amounts to 20,099 acres at a valuation of $537,345 and that of the Oregon & California company at $1,053,035 for 89,772 acres.

Few protests have been received by the board this year and the time has now passed in which they may be filed. The remaining days of the session will be devoted to a consideration of those already in the hands of the county clerk.

BURGLAR ROBS STORE OF VALUABLE HIDES

The slaughter house of H. W. Streibig, who owns a butcher shop on Main street in this city, was broken into either Saturday or Sunday night and a number of valuable hides were stolen. Mr. Streibig has offered a reward of $50 for the arrest of the guilty parties.

Boards were ripped off and the inside of the building ransacked in an effort to find everything of any value. The damage done to the building, however, is slight compared to the cost of the hides taken.

This is one of a series of robberies that has extended for some time in the past, and Mr. Streibig is determined that the thief shall be caught. To this end he has offered a reward of $50 for the capture of the burglar.

BULLETS SHRIEK WHEN A N. G. ARMORY BURNS

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Sept. 20.—The Rev. Father Brady was shot through the hand and bullets shrieked about the ears of a thousand citizens when several thousand cartridges stored in the national guard armory, a wing of the municipal pavilion, exploded during a fire early today that destroyed the pavilion.

Police cleared the streets for blocks about the pavilion, which burned to the ground while firemen stood outside the range of the bombardment. The damages was about $59,000.

Auto Tearing Madly About Scares Police

Rushing through Oregon City Sunday afternoon at a record breaking speed, A. L. Robacker and R. C. Parker were nearly arrested by Chief Shaw, while attempting to return to Canemah in time to save a burning automobile.

Mr. Robacker, who is staying at Canemah, saw an automobile which was standing in the street, break out in flames, and jumping into his own car he raced to Oregon City where he secured four fire extinguishers and the help of Mr. Parker.

They returned and had the fire under control before much damage was done. Chief Shaw saw them go through the city at a break-neck speed, but was unable to stop them, so he sent Officer Mays to follow them. When the latter found out the cause of the hurry, he returned without his prospective prisoners.

BOOK TELLS MANY THINGS OF CANAL

All aboard! Get ready for a trip to the great Panama Canal.

It isn't a boat trip, nor is it a trip by train.

What then?

Why, nothing less than a step into the front door of Panama, on through the isthmus by easy stages, and out into the Pacific ocean without even wetting the sole of a shoe.

How's it all done?

The Enterprise gives you the opportunity through a beautiful big illustrated book called "Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose." This book tells you of the strange natives of the Canal zone, their characteristics and customs; also their costumes, which are designed to show more of their anatomy than is shown even in polite circles of modern society; it portrays the beauties of the jungle, the floating islands, the flowers and trees of this wonderful tropical country. All of these features are described in beautiful word pictures, intermingled with rare illustrations, many of which are made from water-color studies and reproduced in splendid full pages in their natural coloring.

This volume then becomes a source of education to every one who possesses it. Everybody should know of the wonders of the great canal and its surrounding territory. The entire story is told in this magnificent book.

The Enterprise has arranged to present these volumes to readers as explained in the Panama Certificate, which is printed daily in these columns. Six of these certificates are required, together with a small expense amount to cover the mere items of the cost of distribution. No such opportunity was ever before offered to get a volume of this character for only the amount of the expense involved in the transaction.

RECORDER ABSENT; MAYOR HOLDS COURT

Mayor Linn E. Jones, in the absence of Recorder Livy Stipp from the city, held the municipal court session Monday morning and handed down sentences and fines in rapid fire succession as the various offenders against the city ordinances were brought before him.

Realizing that there is a large amount of street work to be done at this time of year, the men were given fines and were given fines and were allowed to work them out on the streets if they did not care to hand over the money into the city treasury.

William J. Williams and C. Williams each received $10 or five days; Chis File and Russel Way, $5 each, Sam Smed and John Day $10 or five days each. All were arrested on drunk or disorderly charges.

A headline says, "Spain Short of Funds." But surely that is no news.

Fair, falls and more falls, for weeks and bad news. Fine things, too.

Early fall rains will cause schools as well as other things to grow.

Of course pumpkin pies will be the main feed at the Junction City pumpkin show.

Tip for the weather bureau: It's usually safe to predict rain for state fair week.

The prince of Monaco doesn't gamble and is shocked at American gambling. He isn't a humorist, either.

SHOW FERTILITY OF COUNTY SOIL

GREATEST FAIR IN RECENT YEARS TO HAVE LARGE
PRODUCE DISPLAYS

FARM AND LIVESTOCK FEATURES

Exhibits of Every Kind Are Coming
From All Parts to Canby
Grounds and Are Now
Ready for Opening

The next four days will be the chief days of the year for Canby and Clackamas county, for during them will be held the seventh annual Clackamas County fair. Everything at the big exhibition grounds is ready for the opening Wednesday morning, and all indications point to one of the most successful and interesting displays ever staged. There are more and better exhibits already in place than at any previous fair, and the few booths yet to be filled will be of equal merit with those already waiting for visitors.

Lots of Farm Produce

The display of farm produce this year is surprising in its variety and excellence, and gives an excellent idea of the extreme fertility of the county soil, and of its varied and profuse crops. There has been much development of agricultural land and products since last year's fair, and the displays of new crops and yields reflect this growth most accurately. The many cash prizes and valuable trophies that are offered have stimulated farmers and ranchers to make larger exhibits than usual, and the result is that the fair will be a surprise even to those who have believed heretofore that they were familiar with the county's resources.

Livestock Exhibits

The livestock exhibits will show a general tendency toward the universal adoption of pure-blooded stock, and some excellent animals of all kinds will be on view. The poultry division is also much larger this year than before, and will contain many pens of fine birds. In addition to this there have been excellent entries for the daily horse races; and the other exhibits and attractions are of the very best. The fair will be open Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 o'clock a. m. to 8:00 o'clock p. m., and three bands will furnish music throughout the sessions.

GLADSTONE CLUB TO HAVE A RECEPTION

The X. L. club, of Gladstone, will hold a reception Thursday at the school house for the five new teachers of the Gladstone school. With the increased population of the city, few of the parents of the children are acquainted with school conditions. The object of the reception will be to cultivate the interest of the patrons in the school and the instructors. All parents are invited.

The club held an election last Friday evening and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Edward Harrison; vice-president, Mrs. Frank Nelson; secretary, Mrs. Ralph McGeechie; and treasurer, Mrs. Phillip Evon.

Walla Walla, Grangeville, and other places are imitating Penleton's Round-Up at their fairs, but cannot expect to equal it.

San Francisco, a weather boaster, has been having a hot old time far in advance of the Panama exposition—105° in the shade.

MUSIC ENTERTAINS AT SOCIAL FUNCTION

Miss Aletha Oglesby entertained a number of friends at her home on the Abernethy, Saturday evening.

Vocal and instrumental music was the main feature of the entertainment; games were played and refreshments served.

The house was prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns.

Those who shared Miss Oglesby's hospitality were: Misses Daisy Clouston, Naomi Armstrong, Bernice Buckles, Eschol Armstrong, Gladys Bitler and Gertraude Jeremiah, and Messrs. Dallas Armstrong, Frank Milliken, Albert Buckles, Alfred Siefhorst, Orval Oglesby and Wesley Milliken.

Steve Burge was taken sick Saturday with a disease that may prove to be typhoid. The case is some what peculiar one and Dr. Stuart is somewhat puzzled to diagnose it.
