HARVEY CROSS NAMED IN SLANDER SUIT

Harvey E. Cross, mayor of Gladstone, owner of real estate, is Portland. The Dalles, and many other places and one of the most prominent attorneys of the county, is defendant in a $25,000 slander suit brought by M. G. Nease, county cruiser, for his alleged statements during the recent campaign.

Nease claims that Cross called him a white slaver during a speech that the defendant made in the campaign on a wagon at Seventh and Main streets during the evening of August 15, 1913, and the closing hours of the political fight. He alleges that Cross said he had violated the federal white slave statute and the Oregon laws against the traffic and that he had made charges that have ruined the plaintiff's reputation and have brought him into general disrepute among his friends and business acquaintances in the county.

He recites the prominent position that Cross holds in the estimation of the county; his position as an attorney and his large following and clientele who believe what he said at that time, according to the complaint, and among whom his reputation would be blasted.

Nease also recites that he has had seven years' experience in the timber business and is an expert cruiser and that Cross has been an attorney in the county for the past 25 or 30 years and is well known in all sections of the county. The plaintiff further alleges that by his statements at that time Cross has brought down the hatred and contempt of many of the friends of the plaintiff to such an extent that his business has been damaged in the sum of $25,000.

The case grows out of the statements that Cross is said to have made on the corner of Seventh and Main streets during the last hours of the campaign for the recall of former County Judge Bentie and former Commissioner Blair.

CLACKAMAS FAIR ENDS IN GLORY

SEVENTH ANNUAL COUNTY EXHIBIT REGARDED AS HUGE SUCCESS BY ALL

OREGON CITY BABIES WIN PRIZES

Motor Cycle and Relay Races Furnish Thrills For Last Day Crowds — N. P. Cup Goes to Mt. Pleasant

"We regard the seventh annual Clackamas County Fair, which closes tonight, as one of the most successful we have ever had," said Grant B. Dimick, president of the board of directors Saturday evening. "Financially the exhibition leaves the association with a large surplus on hand, and for this we are grateful to the people who have so liberally patronized the fair during the past four days. We are also grateful to the exhibitors, who by their loyal and generous contributions have helped to make the annual event a success. In short, the 1913 fair has exceeded our expectations in every way, and the directors and all concerned are gratified and thankful for the results, and for the interest shown in the exhibit."

CANBY, Ore., Sept. 27.—(Special to the Enterprise)—With all records for attendance broken, and with over 10,000 admissions recorded at the entrance since the seventh annual Clackamas County Fair closed this evening in a burst of glory and bustle. In spite of the fact that sunset was the signal for the commencement of moving exhibits, many of which will be sent to the big state fair at Salem, crowds thronged the grounds until late in the evening, and lingered over the various displays.

The last day of the fair was replete with features. The motorcycle race, and the relay race for horsemen, were perhaps the most spectacular, and were witnessed by crowds that overflowed from the grandstand, and hung three deep along the railings of the home stretch. The motorcycles

Volunteers Grunt and Push Against Eight Freight Cars

Up at Canby Saturday night M. J. Lee, secretary of the Clackamas County Fair association, had a bright idea. He wanted to simplify the work of loading cattle onto freight cars, and called upon volunteers to aid him in pushing an empty stockcar down to the loading platform.

The volunteers responded nobly, and pushed with might and main on the car, but it didn't budge.

"Wait a minute till I let the brakes off," said Mr. Lee, and he scrambled to the top of the car and twisted the wheels. Then he climbed down again, threw his own weight against the car with the others, and shouted: "She's all right now, everybody shove."

Everybody shoved, grunted, shoved again, and then paused to get breath. Then somebody investigated. The empty stockcar was found to be coupled to seven other cars, each of which loaded to capacity. The volunteers then gave it up, the onlookers laughed uproariously, and M. J. Lee leaped into his automobile and disappeared in a cloud of dust and also in deep disgust.

Carelessness in slashing and burning brush, and in burning stumps, is believed to be responsible for the many forest fires now burning in different parts of the western part of the county, and forest wardens fear that some of the blazes will travel to the heavily timbered sections unless a drenching rain extinguishes the present flames. One of the worst fires has been burning for the past week.

WHITE HAS NO LUCK WITH COUNTY JUDGE

County Judge H. S. Anderson arched his back and sidled into his own corner when Calvin S. White, member of the state board of health, entered the fight between Dr. J. A. VanBrakle, county health officer, and the local medical men and tried to get the court to remove the present officer from his position.

The interview with the county judge wasn't at all satisfactory. The court informed the state board that he was in charge of the county affairs in Clackamas county and that he had made that appointment and that it would stick just as he had made it. He declined to be obliged and remove the thorn in the side of the state board. He told the doctor that he had made the selection in good faith and that the appointment had been accepted by Dr. VanBrakle in the same spirit.

Doesn't Like Coercion. Very gently he impressed upon the mind of the board member that he believed that body and the local medical men and that he had simply beat them at their own game. He didn't like the interference of the board and the medical men in the matter and he said so—politely and gently—to the state official. He observed that he had no intention of bringing the other doctors into line by the appointment of an osteopath, but that he had made the selection because he felt the appointed was qualified to hold the place. He also intimated that he and the other members of the county board of health objected decidedly to this evident intention of the medical men to interfere in matters that did not concern them, as he thought and he believed it would be better if all of the interested parties would let matters rest as they now stand.

Board Meets. Not at all non-plused by the appearance of the doctor, the board met at 8 o'clock.

HARVEY E. CROSS, MAYOR OF GLADSTONE Defendant in a damage suit filed by M. G. Nease, of Portland.

Uncle Sam sometimes if not always gives the people good advice through his various departments. For instance: "Beware of freak diets and fakers calling themselves food experts. Eat what you like and when you feel like it."

Channel; roads; bridges; steam-lines; all pull.

Of course young Sayre is a lucky chap, but no more so than many others who are barely mentioned, if mentioned at all, when they marry.
