A Difficult Assignment.

Not long ago a cub reporter on one of the Chicago dailies was assigned by the city editor to cover a meeting of the board of trustees of a public library. "Bring a story of about four hundred words," said the editor. At a late hour that night, this story not being forthcoming, the youngster was sent for. "How about that story of the board meeting?" asked the editor. "It isn't finished yet. You told me to make 400 words of it. So far I have managed to get only 300." "What did the board do?" "They met, called the roll and adjourned until Tuesday evening."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Puzzling the Sassenach.

We have long been accustomed to puzzling the Sassenach, says the Glasgow News, by talking familiarly about "Mulliguy," which he looks for in vain even in the most reliable atlas, or if he should discover it under the disguise of Milngavie we try him with "Lochneuch" (or Lochyneuch, to spell it phonetically). Many Scotsmen even would fail to recognize this as Lochwinnoch. A commercial traveler has just discovered another of these peculiar local names while on his rounds up north. He had noticed at a station where his train stopped an old porter limping alongside the train and crying out at every other step, "Ach! Ach!" and assumed, so he said, that the poor fellow was suffering from rheumatism, the pain of which caused him to complain in this guttural way. He was even commenting on the cruelty of making the man work when the other passengers explained that "Ach" was the correct pronunciation of the name of the station, "Avoch."

His Steady Job.

This happened to a social worker. She had been interested in the case of a needy family. The father had been "sent up" several times for short terms for minor offenses, but was now supposed to be "out" and working at a steady job. One day she thought to inquire. "I haven't seen your father for some time," she remarked to the eleven-year-old daughter. "What is he doing now?" "I think he's doin' a year, mum."—New York Post.

Mapmaking.

The earliest maps of which we have any knowledge were made in Egypt. They were wooden tablets, on which were traced land and sea, roads, rivers, highways, etc. Marinus of Tyre, 150 A. D., was the first to attempt a map on scientific principles. The maps in use by the Greeks and Romans were fairly accurate, so far as they went, but those in use during the middle ages were alarmingly inaccurate. It is only within recent years, say since the middle of the last century, that it was possible to make a complete and reliable map of the world, and even yet the best map is subject to slight changes.—New York American.

A Madman's Strange Belief.

An unfortunate maniac was confined in one of the Scottish lunatic asylums, his particular infirmity being an unshakable belief that every day was Christmas day and that he was dining sumptuously on turkey or roast beef and a good slice of plum pudding. His real diet, however, was of the plainest, he being served twice daily with a dish of oatmeal porridge. After daily describing to his attendants the pleasures he had tasted in his cut of turkey or what not he as regularly added, "Yet, somehow or other, everything that I eat tastes of porridge." This story it was which gave rise to the saying, "As palatable as the madman's porridge."

A Natural Curiosity.

"Do you know what I do when a man offers me advice?" said the curbstone philosopher. "No." "Ask him if he's tried it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MEN BUILD MODEL ROAD.

Sand and Stable Mulch Produce Excellent Highway. A. M. Mitchell, a farmer near Hecla, in Brown county, S. D., is a good roads enthusiast who puts his enthusiasm to practical use. Mr. Mitchell has built a road in front of his farm which is pronounced excellent by automobilists and good roads experts.

First he placed sand to a depth of several inches over the roadway. Then he spread stable mulch over the sand to a depth of three inches. On top of this he placed gravel to a considerable depth. The mulch acted as a binder for the sand and gravel, with the result that the half mile of road is as hard as a pavement. Mr. Mitchell grades a mile of road in his township annually.

Given to Every Reader of The OREGON CITY ENTERPRISE

For only six Panama Certificates and the small expense amount named therein (which covers the items of the cost of packing, express from the factory, checking, clerk hire and other necessary EXPENSE items). No similar book ever published has sold for less than $4, and it is only by manufacturing in train-load lots that this splendid big volume can be presented by newspapers on the terms named below. They're going fast. Get yours today.

IT IS ENTERTAINING From this book you get a complete understanding of the PEOPLE of Panama and the Canal—their personal appearance, their dress, their home life, their social life, their industries, their sports and pastimes; all about the strange natives that inhabit the central part of the great American continent. It is both entertaining and educational, written in an intensely chatty style, which immediately gains and holds your interest throughout its entirety. Presented by Daily Newspapers From the provinces of Canada to the countries of South America train-loads of these books are being distributed to newspaper readers.

IT IS EDUCATIONAL The great knowledge to be gained by reading this volume will forever after be a valuable asset to every man, woman and child, for this great waterway is destined to become a mighty factor in times of peace and war. It will revolutionize shipping throughout the entire world; it will bring about changes in the trade and commerce of all the earth; it will open new avenues of business and establish new relationships between the various countries of the globe. For the Benefit of Our Readers There is a world-wide interest in the Panama Canal and information on this timely subject is of rare value to all who wish to advance.

More than SIX HUNDRED Illustrations INCLUDING RARE AND BEAUTIFUL WATER COLOR STUDIES

Interwoven with the beautiful word pictures in this large volume are hundreds of photographic reproductions, accurately portraying the scenes described in the text. Many of these pictures represent scenes far removed from the path of the ordinary tourist—views of the jungle—of the almost uncivilized natives who reside within the borders of the Zone, but who are quite unknown outside of their own little world because of the difficulty in reaching them. Such pictures are rare and are to be found only in this volume. Beautiful large colored plates abound throughout the book. These are reproduced in splendid full pages from water color studies made by E. J. Read, the well-known artist, who spent months in the study of Canal scenes. No book of similar character contains such a wealth of magnificent color.
