BRITISH GROUSE HUNTERS.

No Business is Allowed to Interfere With Their Sport.

The grouse hunting season in Britain opens on Aug. 12. On that day every Englishman and every Scot who makes any pretension to a standing in society goes gunning for two weeks at least. Nothing is allowed to stand in the way of this annual diversion. For a week or two preceding this outing business is of little consequence. Everything to receive any attention at all must relate in some way to guns and dogs. A year or so ago a New York man had occasion to go to London to meet a British financier to put the finishing touches to a matured business proposition. He arrived a couple of days before the 12th of August. The financier was not in his place of business. "No," said his chief clerk; "he has gone for the grouse shoot. He will not talk business with any one. I do not think he will see you at all, sir."

"But," said the New Yorker, "I have crossed the Atlantic for no other purpose than to see him. This business will not take more than half an hour of his time, and then I'm off for home again."

"I should advise against your going to his home, sir. He would not receive anybody at this time. He will attend to no business."

But the New Yorker thought differently. He went to the country home of the financier. A burly butler met him at the door. To him the New Yorker gave his card. It was promptly returned to him.

"The master," said the butler, "will see no one. He sets out for the grouse shooting tomorrow. He says to call, please, in a fortnight."

And the New Yorker was compelled to remain two weeks longer until the Englishman returned from his hunt, when the business was finished in twenty minutes.—Indianapolis News.

The Seven Wise Men.

The names and characteristic aphorisms of the seven wise men of ancient Greece are as follows: Solon of Athens, "Nothing in excess"; Theles of Miletus, "Suretyship brings ruin"; Pittacus of Mitylene, "Know time opportunity"; Bias of Priene in Caria, "Too many workers spoil the work"; Chilon of Sparta, "Know thyself"; Cleobulus of Rhodes, "Moderation is the chief good"; and Periander of Corinth, "Forethought in all things."

Father's Inconsistency.

Father will splash around in two feet of water and ruin a good suit of clothes to save articles in a stranger's house during a thirty cent fire. But if the pan under the icebox flows over he will go upstairs and wake mother so she can come down and mop it up.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

This Book

Mere words cannot describe it; an illustration such as is herein presented cannot portray its beauties. The French would call it an "Edition de Luxe." We have no phrase so fitting. It is indeed a super-fine edition, a book of surpassing elegance, the grand triumph of art in magnificent tropical colorings, interwoven with word pictures none the less artistic.

Judge Its Merits for Yourself

GARDEN SAGE DARKENS GRAY HAIR SO NATURALLY NOBODY CAN TELL

Restores Its Luster, Prevents Scalp Itching; Dandruff and Falling Hair.

That beautiful even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. While it is a messy, tedious task it will repay those whose hair is turning gray, faded and streaked.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and luster of your hair, and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time, which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well-known downtown druggist.
